SET CONNERY BURIAL FOR SATURDAY IN LYNN

With his wife virtually in collapse and his countless friends in mourning, the body of Congressman William P. (Billy) Connery, Jr., was started back for Lynn today from Washington, where he died suddenly last night.

The body of the Congressman, who succumbed within 24 hours to an attack of food poisoning, will arrive at the South Station at 9 p. m., aboard "The Senator."

Escorting it will be a congressional delegation, some of the members having served with him in Congress since 1922. Arriving with the body also will be the dead congressman's brother, Lawrence J. Connery, who acted as his secretary, and Postmaster Thomas A. Wilkinson of Lynn, who went to the capital last night.

At the station will be a delegation from the YD Club of Lynn, of which the congressman was an active member.

STATE PAYS TRIBUTE

Before the body was placed on the train at noon, it lay in state in a mortuary, two blocks from the halls of Congress, where Connery had guided labor legislation in the House since President Roosevelt's first inauguration.

Many congressmen filed past the bier and meanwhile flags on all public buildings in the capital were at half staff.

Aged Woman Falls Under Train; Dying

A 65-year-old woman, tentatively identified as Mrs. Harriet M. Copeland, a housekeeper at 18 Bateswell road, Dorchester, was critically injured as she fell in front of an Elevated train at Fields Corner station in Dorchester today.

Her right leg was amputated by the wheels of an outbound train on the Cambridge-Ashmont circuit. At City Hospital doctors said she had not long to live.

Firemen and Elevated emergency crews were called to raise the trucks from the pinioned body.

POLICE FAIL TO FIND HER FIANCE

Maybe she meant it and maybe she didn't, but the girl that tall, dark and handsome "Bob" Newell left waiting at the altar announced very firmly today that she doesn't mind it a bit.

"Only the next time I get a man I'll chain him down," she declared.

Far different from the traditional picture of the forlorn bride-to-have-been, pretty 21-year-old Teresa Shrum was singing and smiling a few minutes after she popped out of bed this morning at half-past nine.

"He Left Me Waiting at the Church," she hummed as reporters finally gained admittance to her home in Durham street, Back Bay.

There wasn't a tear or a trace of it. One of the visitors figured that the singing must have been bravado—the old "keep-up-the-chin" spirit, so he asked:

"What's the singing for—a gag?"

"Indeed, no," Miss Shrum responded. "If you think I broke down, you're crazy. It was just a case of one being smarter than the other."

"By which you mean what?"

"By which I mean that he loved me and guess I didn't love him—that's all. Maybe he caught on. I have a pretty fair idea where he is now. I know he isn't coming back, but I don't mind a bit."

All of which rather left the press visitors in a muddle

"Then what was it all about—the wedding preparations and all that?"

"Oh, Bob was always after me to marry him. Last Thursday he got me started to elope to New Hampshire, but when we got

Roosevelt and 407 Solons to Confer

Washington, June 16 (INS)—President Roosevelt has agreed to a series of general conferences with the 407 Democrats in Congress June 25, 26 and 27.

The conferences will be held at the exclusive Jefferson Island Club on the Maryland side of Chesapeake Bay. Mr. Roosevelt will leave Washington, June 24, on the White House yacht Potomac and will go as close to Jefferson Island as possible and transfer by small boat to the clubhouse.

The senators and representatives will go in three groups, one-third each day. The conferences will discuss all problems now before Congress.

10,000 Ask Steel To Reopen Mills

Youngstown, O., June 16 (AP)—Ray L. Thomas, who said he spoke for an estimated 10,000 non-striking steel workers, conferred today with Frank Purnell, president of Youngstown Sheet & Tube Company for the announced purpose of asking Purnell to open the strike-bound mills tomorrow.

Thomas said his forces were determined to go back to their jobs, despite a threat of CIO leaders to prevent their return by the use of picket "flying squads."

The mills have been idle three weeks.

The back-to-work movement shifted the spotlight of the big steel strike from Johnstown, Pa., where dynamite violence blasted a large section of concrete walk and shattered windows early today at the strike-sieged Gautier plant of the Cambria works of Bethlehem Steel.

At Warren, O., another tense point in the Mahoning valley steel area, Judge Lynn B. Griffith ordered the Republic Steel

7 ADRIFT OFF NAHANT RESCUED BY PLANE

After drifting all night off Nahant in a disabled motor boat while an off-shore wind slowly drove them out to sea, four adults and three children were rescued by coast guardsmen early today.

The boat, owned by Chester Frazer of Linwood avenue, Melrose, was sighted by a coast guard plane from Salem base and the position given a coast guard patrol boat, which towed the craft in.

Aboard were Frazer, his wife, their seven-year-old daughter, Elaine "Bobbie" Frazer, Miss Regina O'Neil of Malden, Mrs. Mildred MacNeil and her two children, Robert, seven, and Joseph, 10.

They started in the 26-foot cabin cruiser last night about 8 o'clock from the Saugus River. When off Nahant the motor died and it was not until Frazer had run down his batteries with the starter that he discovered the gas line was plugged.

After the gas line had been cleaned out, there was no more power to turn over the starter.

"Last night my husband and I, with the other folks, thought it would be a nice night for a ride," Mrs. Fraser told a Boston Evening American reported after be-

SOMERVILLE BANK HOLDUP NETS $2400

A lone bandit held up two women employes of the Somerville Co-operative Bank at gunpoint shortly after noon today, and escaped with a sum of money said to be $2400.

The daring daylight robbery was executed during the noonday rush and within a few yards of the Somerville police station in Union square.

Pulling a pistol from beneath his coat, the bandit forced one of the two women to hand over bills from the cash drawer, then locked them both in the bank vault.

They are Mrs. Etta F. Smith, of Somerville, assistant-treasurer, and Mrs. Barbara C. Erlandson, of Franklin, a clerk.

FREED BY TREASURER

Fifteen minutes later they were released by W. T. Crossman, treasurer, as he returned from lunch and heard the women's screams inside the vault.

The bank is covered by bonds, insuring it against any loss, officials stated.

Though no one saw the bandit make his escape, he is believed to have fled in a waiting automobile.

He wore no mask, according to the two women.

WORE BLACK SUIT

Of awarthy complexion, he wore a black suit, had sandy hair, looked to be about five feet, eight inches tall, and weighed around 160 pounds.

Police Chief Thomas Damery ordered all inspectors of the Somerville detective department into the investigation, after Crossman gave the alarm several minutes after the robber had made his escape.

Frank Vanderlip Taken to Hospital

A Bride's Dilemma

Rochester, N. Y., June 16 (AP)—A frantic bride called the Rochester Gas & Electric Corporation to complain that her new refrigerator "freezes ice cubes too fast."

Jack Sharkey, sales supervisor, said an electrician rushed to the scene and found ice cubes piled in every available pan, scattered all over the kitchen floor.

"I thought you had to take them out as soon as they froze," the perplexed bride explained.

Explosion Rocks Bethlehem Mill; Steel Chiefs Flay CIO as 'Reds'; Back to Work Movement Gains

Company to bring into court any records showing how much has been spent for machine guns, tear-gas bombs, labor "spies" and company unions.

The judge made his ruling at the start of the third day's hearing on Republic's petition for an injunction to curtail picketing.

At Ambridge Pa., a spokesman for an American Federation of Labor union asserted in a protest to President Roosevelt and Attorney-General Homer Cummings that CIO pickets prevented AFL workers from returning to their jobs.

The protest followed yesterday's clash at Ambridge when scores were beaten in a free-for-all between 800 CIO pickets and 50 AFL members attempting a back-to-work movement.

FLAY CIO AS "RED"

Today's Johnstown explosion came on the heels of a volley of words from two Big Guns of Steel. Only a few hours earlier there had been oral blasts from Tom Girdler of Republic Steel and Purnell of Youngstown Sheet & Tube—two generals in the fight against the CIO strike.

"Communistic" was the way Girdler labeled John L. Lewis' CIO. Purnell, president of Sheet & Tube, was not as outspoken. Both reiterated their determination not to sign CIO contracts—the crux of the situation under which more than 100,000 workers are idle.

President Roosevelt, commenting in Washington at the regular press conference, had said he thought Republic Steel should be willing to put a verbal contract into writing; that common sense dictated that if a man were willing to make a verbal agreement he should go farther and put his name to it.

The Johnstown front, where CIO is striking against Bethlehem Steel's Cambria works and where there has been fighting and bloodshed, was quiet; but more state policemen poured into the city, and Mayor Daniel Shields announced he had deputized "at least 400 men."

The "back-to-work" movement picked up momentum here as spokesmen for non-striking workers they estimate at 10,000, prepared to confer today with Purnell.

"The men are ready to go back to work at any time," said their spokesman, Thomas. "We hope to have them back by tomorrow."

Spokesmen for non-striking Republic Steel workers said their men "felt the same way" and that they had "back-to-work" signatures from 70 per cent of Republic's 8000 employes in Youngstown.

DAVEY CALLS NEW PARLEY

But CIO leaders made ready to meet the challenge. They hurriedly arranged a series of mass meetings throughout the strike-locked Mahoning valley today to bolster strike morale. CIO's director for Ohio, John Owens, was called in to take personal charge of the strike and to head today's speakers.

CIO chiefs scored the "back-to-work" movement as having been inspired by "the professional strike-breaker, Pearl Bergoff."

Governor Martin L. Davey, undismayed by the failure of his peace conference yesterday, called upon Girdler and Purnell to meet with him tomorrow. He hopes that in a conference at which union men are not present he may be able to learn from the steel executives just what terms would be acceptable.

There was little prospect, however, that either Girdler or Purnell would accept the Governor's invitation.

Girdler, in a statement distributed "to our employes" late yesterday, gave what he called "a first hand account of the situation existing throughout the corporation."

Republic Steel plants in Buffalo, Chicago, Canton, Warren and Niles, O., he said, "are operating in spite of armed pickets" and "the sixth open hearth furnace and the wire mill have been started at Chicago."

(It was at Republic's South Chicago plant on Memorial Sunday that nine persons died in consequence of a massed march on the plant. The ninth death occurred yesterday).

Girdler said that the number of employes at all these plants was increasing daily; that employes had been housed and fed in the plants, and that at Warren and Niles food was being flown to the men in planes.

Explaining his refusal to sign a contract as demanded by CIO, Girdler said CIO had "broken numerous contracts," adding:

"Would you, yourself, sign a contract with a man who clubs his neighbor over the head, kicks the postman out of the yard, throws bricks through your parlor window, and has already broken a contract with the man across the street?"

(Republic Steel filed a mandamus action in federal district court at Washington yesterday to compel the postoffice department to make parcel post delivery of food packages to workers in the company's plants. The company charged the postoffice department had refused to make such deliveries on the grounds that it constituted "irregular service.")

WAGES GONE FOREVER

Girdler said that the CIO strike had already cost Republic Steel workers "nearly $3,000,000 in wages"—wages, Girdler said, which the employes "have lost forever."

His statement finished this way:

"Must Republic and its men submit to the Communistic dictates and terrorism of the CIO?

"If America is to remain a free country the answer is no."

Both Girdler and Purnell said CIO contracts were aimed at leading eventually to the closed shop, to which both companies are opposed.

One "major objection" to a signed contract, Purnell's statement said, "is its complete worthlessness."

"What pledge can the C.I.O. give as to responsibility?" Purnell's statement continued. "Are they willing to give a bond, to pay any wages you may lose because of the uncontrolled, and unlawful acts of themselves or their members?

"And to pay the company for its losses in business and customers and orders—all of which mean work for both you and us?

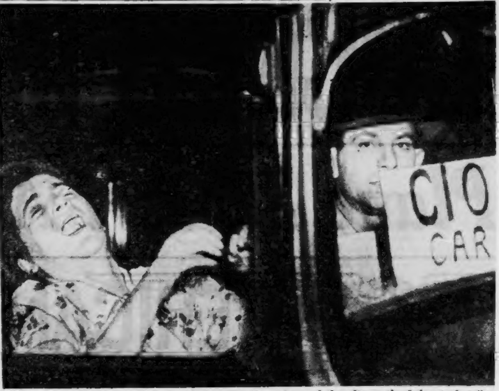
"No other assurance is worth a scrap of paper. A one-sided contract is no contract at all."

Police Quell Ship Strike Outbreak

New York, June 16 (INS)—A sudden flare-up of disorder outside the Brooklyn yards of the Robins Drydock and Repair Company was quelled quickly by police today.

Fist fights broke out between CIO pickets and non-strikers when the latter attempted, in groups of from three to a dozen, to march boldly through the picket lines.

VICTIMS OF STRIKE VIOLENCE IN OHIO



From strife torn Johnstown, Pennsylvania, come these views of the aftermath of the steel strike rioting. Mrs. Philip Pena, shown in the car marked CIO is hysterical with grief over the report that her brother, Andy Ogando, had been killed. Later information revealed that he had been beaten about the head but was in no danger of dying.

SQUANTUM FLIER DIES IN OREGON CRASH

Lieutenant Commander Paul F. Ives of Scituate, noted war pilot, today met death when his Naval Reserve plane crashed head-on into the side of an Oregon mountain near the town of Loncalla.

Word of the lieutenant commander's death was flashed from the Oakland, Calif., Naval Reserve aviation base which reported that the plane crashed into the mountain in early morning darkness with dense fog causing Ives to fly "blind."

The Oakland air base also confirmed a report from Eugene, Ore., that while the life of the lieutenant commander was snuffed out, machinist's mate, 3rd class, Charles Brastrom of Saugus, "bailed out" successfully.

Commander Ives and Brastrom were ferrying the plane from the Naval Reserve base at Squantum to Seattle. They left Boston June 9.

Officials of the Eugene, Ore., air base reported that heavy fogs lay over the mountain regions of the district as Ives and Brastrom thundered northward toward Seattle.

Ives, recognized as one of the country's best pilots and navigators, was attempting to navigate by instrument when he discovered he was flying too low to clear the mountain.

It is believed that Ives ordered the machinist mate to "bail out" and the lieutenant commander rode to his death against the mountain, refusing to quit his ship.

Aviation officials in Boston today said that Ives was one of the best pilots in the Naval Reserve and that he was one of the most feared American aviators during the World War.

Ives operated out of an airbase in England during the war. He was cited at one time by the late Rear Admiral William S. Sims, U. S. N., for the rare feat of sinking a German submarine in a sea-air battle in the English channel off the French coast.

Ives is believed to be about 43 years of age. He lived with his wife, Ruth Merrill Ives, and three children on Curtis road in the Egypt section of Scituate.

He was born in Dedham and attended West Roxbury high school, where he starred in athletics. Before he entered college, the war broke in Europe and he enlisted in the naval aviation corps.

It was during Ives' training in Pensacola, Fla., that he met his wife, a Southern girl.

The heroic lieutenant commander leaves three children, Portia, 17; Cameron, 15, and Nancy, 13.

Fall River Girl Drowns at Beach

Fall River, June 16—A day-off swimming party for three girl mill employes was turned into tragedy here today when pretty 18-year-old Alice Rogers, 35 Boutwell street, drowned off Bliffin's Beach. Seized by cramps, she called for help, but before her companions could reach her, she was carried under.

With her were Violet Howell, 17, of 108 Renay street, and Antoinette Correira, 18, of 93 Webster street. Beach attendants and police grappled for the body.

FEAR TIEUP IN PROVIDENCE

Providence, June 16—Fear of violence hung over this strike-bound city today, as leaders of the 1200 striking municipal employes promised the tie-up of municipal services would be 100 per cent effective.

Only the sewage disposal plant and water department, where strikers agreed to install skeleton maintenance crews, would be permitted to operate, leaders said.

Meanwhile road to settlement remained open after an emergency session of the Board of Contract and Supply deferred to Friday the proposal of Public Works Commissioner Charles A. Maguire for accepting bids for the collection and disposal of garbage by private contract.

Doom Police Slayer

Brzesc, Poland, June 16 (AP)—An 18-year-old Jew, Weizel Scczerbowski, was sentenced to death today for the murder of a policeman May 13, an act which led to violent anti-Semitic rioting and started a wave of anti-Jewish out-bursts throughout Poland.

Threaten Seamen Strike

Two Unions Here In Labor War

A general strike will be called against the Eastern Steamship Line by CIO leaders if the company gives in to A. F. of L. demands and puts 10 CIO men of the National Maritime Union off the liner New York.

Scheduled to sail for New York at 5:30 last night, the ship was still tied up this afternoon, with the CIO men in command in the engine room and A. F. of L. members in command on deck.

The CIO delegates tried to board the ship today to see that their 10 fellow unionists in the "black gang" were being fed.

They quoted David Grange, chief steward of the New York, and an official of the Cooks and Stewards Union, an A. F. of L. affiliate, as saying his men would "feed no CIO rats." A party of dockhands and stewards met them on the gangplank and forced them back to the dock.

Afraid to leave their posts lest the A. F. of L. board of strategy put its own men in charge and sail without them, the CIO engineers kept up steam all day, but never ventured on deck. Six A. F. of L. engineers and firemen joined the deck crew during the night.

U. S. Agents Bring Suspect Back in Sweeps Fraud

Arrested when he went home to attend his son's academy graduation, Maurice Barach, 41, of Morris street, New York city, was brought here today in connection with an alleged fake charity sweepstakes in which Greta Garbo's name was used as a lure.

Taken into custody following a three-weeks' search which led into Montreal, New York and Boston, Barach was brough here by Postal Inspector Tennyson Jefferson and charged with using the mails to defraud in the promotion of a lotteryy.

The prospectus of the lottery stated that Greta Garbo was the winner of a $400 prize last January. The tickets were titled "Charity Subscription Fund of the St. Paul's Hospital Fund on Tattersall Cup Race run at Sydney, Australia."

Assistant U. S. Attorney Henry M. Leen characterized the lottery as an "out and out fraud."

Three weeks ago postal inspectors seized 700 000 allegedly fake tickets in a New York apartment. Three girls found mailing tickets and literature were taken for questioning.

According to postal inspectors, the girls said they were hired by a Canadian who federal men said was Barach.

Barach, according to Inspector Jefferson, is alleged to have admitted being connected with the fake lottery, but denied being one of the principal promoters.

Jefferson revealed that he not only checked the name of Greta Garbo is being a winner, but also checked 200 other names. The Garbo listing was:

"Horse: On Parade; ticket 26,200 MD. Greta Garbo, M-G-M Studio, Culver City, Calif."

TIFF OVER BEACH TRIP

The "deserted" Miss Shrum—Terry to her friends — merely shrugged her shoulders and said:

"Bob was here when I was getting ready to go to the beach. He objected to me going out that night. So I told him: 'I'm going anyhow. I'll be back when I feel like it.' I got home about two the next morning."

This, incidentally, was the evening that the girl's mother, Mrs. Katherine Stevens said that Bob wept all over the front steps after Terry had departed.

For all of Terry claiming to know where her departed fiance is at present, police called into a search last night when the wedding hour was past were unable to hazard a guess.

They could neither find the young man—whose full name is Robert H. Newell, by the way—nor could they find his brother, James, who appeared on the scene briefly yesterday before the wedding bells were scheduled to ring.

HANGS UP TROUSSEAU

Newell hails from Jackson, Miss., and is supposed to be studying seamanship on a merchant vessel plying between Boston, Montreal and other ports.

One of the first things that Terry did today when she arose was to shake out the contents of her trousseau suitcase and hang the festive garments in a closet, she told reporters.

"I though I wouldn't be using them again for a while," she explained. "But don't get the idea I'm going into hiding. I haven't any other boy friend, but I don't care. People will forget all about this in a year."

Afterwards, she continued, she took a good look at the wedding cake that an aunt baked for last evening's nuptials and then decided to use it for her cousin Doris' birthday.

"Doris is just 16 today. We all thought we'd give her a party at my house. I took the little white doves off the cake myself and squeezed the new icing on it. It says now: 'Happy Birthday, Doris.' Look."

There was another thing, too, Terry told her visitors. She went to a box and picked out a wilted orchid.

SHOWS WILTED ORCHID

"Pretty, isn't it?" she inquired. "I bought it myself. First one I ever had. I guess it's no good now."

She laughed and started to hum again. Her step-father, Leonard Stevens, joked:

"All you need with that now is a ribbon saying R. I. P."

The girl left-waiting-at-the-altar laughed again.

But there were one or two there who thought there was a little choke in that laugh.

"Right, dad," she retorted. "R. I. P. The next man I get I'll chain him down."

What preceded all this began seven months ago when Newell, 21, tall, dark-haired, met and courted pretty Terry.

The young couple finally decided to ring the wedding bells and filed intentions at Boston City Hall a few days ago, when "Bob" paid a return visit to the city.

There was a delay in issuing the license, because while both claimed to be 21, neither had a birth certificate on hand. Terry explained last night that "Bob" had brought his with him, however, and showed it to her yesterday morning.

With everything in readiness for the ceremony at the Cathedral of the Holy Cross last evening, Terry began to be uneasy when her intended failed to appear. She was more uneasy as time wore on.

TELLS OF RING GIFT

Sitting forlornly on her doorsteps with her sympathetic mother and step-sister "Mickey" by her side, the girl sighed:

"I never thought it would be like this"—and she sighed again. "He gave me a beautiful wedding ring only a few hours ago—with little hearts around it. Where can he be?"

No one could answer that. But someone suggested that Bob seemed a bit upset the night before when he came to call for his fiancee and found that she was going out.

"Yes," put in the mother, "he was upset. He sat on the steps and cried. But everything was all right in the morning. Wasn't it, Terry."

"He kissed me this morning when he came to the house. Everything was just glorious between us when he left for the barber shop to get a shave. He was talking to a friend of his about buying a white suit, too. Then we were going to City Hall and get our license," the girl said.

Terry bowed her head in her hands again and began to sob softly.

"Mickey" looked as though she'd cry, too, at that particular moment. Instead she broke in:

"Oh, never mind, Terry, there are other fish in the sea."

"Yes," Terry looked up and said, "but he was a whale."

Man in Iron Lung Has 20 at Party

Aboard S.S. President Coolidge, En Route to San Francisco, June 16 (AP)—Encased from feet to shoulders in an "iron lung," Frederick B. Snite, Jr., celebrated his 28th birthday aboard ship today.

A victim of infantile paralysis, Snite is making a 12,000-mile journey from Peiping, China, to Chicago.

A special dinner, attended by his entourage of 20 nurses, doctors and technicians, will be given in Snite's honor tonight. Attending physicians said he was standing the trip well.

The President Coolidge was expected to dock at San Francisco Friday.

See Lavish Jeanette Bridal

11 Attendants For Miss MacDonald

(Read Ann Marster's story about Jeanette MacDonald today on Page 17.)

Hollywood, Cal., June 16 (AP)—Smiling but serious, Jeanette MacDonald refused today to disclose a single detail of arrangements for the wedding tonight which will make her the bride of Gene Raymond, yellow-haired movie actor.

"I'm superstitious," she said. "It's bad luck to tell those things."

She meant it. Officials at M-G-M studios, where the actress is under contract, said they didn't know. Her friends professed ignorance. The 11 bridal attendants said they were sworn to secrecy.

Hollywood knows it will be a lavish affair, the first big church wedding in the movie colony since that June day, 10 years ago, when Vilma Banky became Mrs. Rod Larocque, and Beverly Hills police had to call out the reserves.

Los Angeles police know it will be hard to handle.

10,000 EXPECTED

They ordered 100 officers to the Wilshire Methodist Episcopal Church, and prepared to re-route traffic on Wilshire boulevard, the biggest, busiest and most fashionable thoroughfare in the city.

They predicted there would be 10,000 uninvited "guests."

This would be more than twice the number waiting when Larocque and Miss Banky left the church, were shoved and manhandled, and lost bits of their costumes to souvenir hunters. Flowers were ripped away. The bridal party was separated and a genuine, first-class riot ensued.

Since that time, virtually every Hollywood wedding has been private.

Miss MacDonald is scheduled to start at 9 p. m. (midnight, E. S. T.). Mrs. Warren Rock, her sister, will be maid of honor. Robert Marlow, brother of the groom, will be best man.

STARS AS ATTENDANTS

Bridal attendants are Fay Wray, Ginger Rogers, Mrs. Richard Hargreaves (the former Helen Ferguson), and Mrs. Johnny Mack Brown. Ushers will be Harold Lloyd, Allan Jones, Basil Rathbone, John Mack Brown, Richard Hargreaves, and Warren Rock. The Rev. Willsie Martin will officiate.

Jeanette MacDonald and Gene Raymond have been Hollywood's "pet" couple for more than a year. Neither has been married before.

The actress' name was often linked with that of her business manager, Robert Ritchie, but both insisted they were merely good friends. Raymond never was known to evince more than passing interest in any of the Hollywood beauties—until he met his fiancee.

"Don't ask me about the wedding," he said today. "I'm not only superstitious, but nervous."

1-Cent U. S. Fine Worries 'Newsy'

Greenfield, June 16 (AP)—A one cent fine and the problem of paying 14 cents in federal taxes today faced Elmer E. Taylor, a newsboy.

Edward J. O'Donnell, deputy collector of internal revenue, notified Elmer he was several month in arrears in contributing to Uncle Sam' Social Security program, that he would have to pay back taxes and was subject to a one cent fine.

Elmer, it seems, was unaware he was obliged to contribute seven cents a month on his own account and was legally obligated to deduct seven cents from the salary of 12-year-old Stanley Lacount, who, as his employe, receives $1.50 a week.

A bit bewildered, Elmer hoped he might scrape the money together, with the assistance of friends, and avoid further difficulties.

BABIES IN CORONATION BOUT

"Yah! I knew I was safe. Y'can't take it. Cry-baby."

There was weeping but no gnashing of teeth (on account they ain't got no teeth) when these two battling babes tangled at the Coronation baby show at Wembley Stadium, London. Kid Cyannide (right) led with a snappy right to One Round Toddler's chin. The top photo shows Cyannide's science to good effect. In the lower picture, One Round's right is curled for a counter, but Kid Cyanide is set and confident. Looks like One Round is going into the tank. Looks bright for the future ring prestige of Britain.

Royal Heir Born in Bulgaria

Sofia Hails Arrival of Tiny Crown Prince

Sofia, Bulgaria, June 16 (AP)—Queen Giovanna, wife of King Boris, gave birth today to a son who may some day rule Bulgaria, and military garrisons throughout the land fired salutes of 100 guns.

There would have been only 21 for a girl.

The mother and the little crown prince were reported in excellent health.

Premier George Kiosseivanoff, awakened in the early morning by a telephone call, hurried to Vrana Castle to witness the event, as the constitution requires.

The fact that the 30-year-old queen gave birth to a boy settled a question of succession to the throne.

The constitution provides that the crown must be worn by "a man of royal birth." Thus the new crown prince's four-year-old sister, Princess Maria Louisa, is presumably disqualified by the birth of a son who can succeed 43-year-old King Boris III.

It is believed the baby will be named Sineon, and that some day he will rule as Sineon II. Bulgaria's first Sineon reigned 1000 years ago.

King Boris personally saw to the dispatching of announcements of the event. The first went to the little prince's grandparents, King Vittorio Emanuele and Queen Elena of Italy.

There were manifestations of joy throughout Bulgaria.

Residents of Sofia, awakened by the salutes, thronged to Alexandre Newsky cathedral, where mass was celebrated. Work was suspended, and there was dancing, singing and drinking.

Crowds paraded to the palace, where King Boris waved to them while they sang.

Crash Kills Nashua Youth; 2 Injured

Derry, N. H., June 16 (AP)—A Nashua sedan skidded out of control on a curve here today, crashed into a tree and killed Leon Dunton, 20, of Nashua.

Dunton's brother, David, 18, suffered a probable fracture of the skull, and Fred Wardner, 22, of Nashua, sustained a deep cut over his right eye.

DINNERS OPEN BUNKER HILL HOLIDAY

Charlestown's celebration of the 162nd anniversary of the Battle of Bunker Hill will be ushered in tonight with five "night before" banquets in various clubhouses of the district.

Stirring patriotic addresses commemorating the deeds of the early American patriots who fought and died at Bunker Hill will be delivered at each banquet.

Senator Prentiss M. Brown of Michigan will be the guest speaker at the 45th anniversary banquet of the Bunker Hill Council Knights of Columbus at their clubhouse on High street.

Governor Charles F. Hurley, Mayor Frederick W. Mansfield, Congressman John P. Higgins, District Attorney William J. Foley, State Deputy Patrick J. Moynihan of the Knights of Columbus, Rev. Mark C. Driscoll, D.D., pastor of St. Francis de Sales Church, Charlestown, and chaplain of Bunker Hill council; David B. Shaw, charter member of the council, will also be among the speakers.

MONAHAN TOASTMASTER

Grand Knight William J. Monahan will be toastmaster.

Charlestown Post, No. 544, Veterans of Foreign Wars, will hold their banquet at the State Armory on Bunker Hill street. Lieutenant Charles S. Sullivan, Jr., U. S. N. R., assistant corporation counsel of the city of Boston, will be toastmaster.

Governor Hurley, Mayor Mansfield, Congressman John P. Higgins, Senator Joseph A. Langone, Representatives Thomas Flaherty and John P. Doherty, officers of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, the American Legion and other organizations will speak.

At the conclusion of this banquet, Mayor Mansfield, officials of the Bunker Hill Day celebration committee, guests and banqueters will march from the State Armory to the Sullivan square playground, where a display of fireworks will be touched off by Mayor Mansfield.

Bunker Hill Post No. 26, American Legion, will hold their banquet in their clubhouse at Adams and Chestnut streets. Past Commander John P. Buckley will be the toastmaster. More than 250 veterans and their visiting comrades will be present.

MARINE TO SPEAK

Major James J. Meade, U. S. M. C., a Charlestown boy, will be among the speakers, to include Governor Hurley, Mayor Mansfield, Congressman John P. Higgins, Dr. William P. Ryan, who will respond to the toast "The American Legion," Mayor Edward W. Kenney of Woburn, "The Day We Celebrate," Past National Vice Commander Daniel J. Doherty, "Our Gold Star Mothers."

A tribute of silence is to be paid the "honored dead" by the entire gathering present.

HOLD "OPEN HOUSE"

The Community Club of Bunker Hill will hold "open house" at its recently renovated clubhouse at 151 Bunker Hill street. Patrick J. Byrne will be the master of ceremonies.

The carnival at the Charlestown Heights park will be conducted tonight and again tomorrow afternoon and evening.

A big feature of the celebration will be the military and civic parade tomorrow afternoon, with upwards of 9000 in the line of march. Commander John J. Rea of Charlestown Post No. 544, Veterans of Foreign Wars, will be the chief marshal of the parade which will start from Bunker Hill and Mystic streets at 2:30 o'clock.

There will be a doll carriage parade tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock at Monument square, after which ice cream will be distributed to some 10,000 children at various points in the district.

At the Charlestown High School, Monument square; B. F. Tweed School on Cambridge street, Charlestown Heights park, Cameo Club on Bainbridge street, Edwards Club, Polk A. A. at City square, at the home of Mrs. Rose Kelley, 73 Lawrence street.

At 10:30 o'clock tomorrow morning there will be athletic games at the Charlestown Heights park under direction of William V. Sweeney and at the Barry playground under auspices of the Cameo Club and Frank McNamara.

The swimming meet will be held tomorrow evening at 6 o'clock at Dewey beach, Medford street, and, for the first time in years, it will be closed to all but residents of Charlestown.

President Aids Paralysis Victim

Lynn Teacher Gets An All-Hand-Driven Car Like This

Miss Rebecca T. Rogosa, a Lynn school teacher, shown at the wheel of her new car. What may look at first glance like the controls and instrument panel of an airplane is just Miss Rogosa's set of devices allowing her to drive without the use of her feet. She is an infantile paralysis victim. The wheel (No. 1), beneath the regular steering wheel, operating on a vacuum principle, controls the clutch, accelerator and brake. different positions, it regulates speed. In the picture, she s just thrown in the clutch and is about to accelerate. No. 2 hand-operated self-starter. No. 3, a hand emergency brake nsion. The gear shift is standard. A letter to President sevelt, who operates his car with similar devices, brought s Rogosa a reply telling her where to obtain the appliances, s enabling her to simply and safely operate her car.

NO FEET NEEDED WITHTHIS CAR

A simple letter, carrying a poignant unwritten appeal, sent to President Roosevelt at the height of his presidential campaign last September, was directly responsible for a young Lynn school teacher's enjoyment of a life today that formerly existed only in unswerving hope.

Miss Rebecca T. Rogosa of Harvard place, Lynn, a seventh grade teacher in the Eastern Junior High School, had often noticed in newspaper and newsreel pictures that President Roosevelt not infrequently posed at the wheel of his car.

Afflicted since early childhood with the same crippling paralysis suffered by the nation's chief executive and enduring a curtailed existence with a courage rivalling Roosevelt's own, Miss Rogosa saw in the President at the wheel of his car an answer to her own problem.

SPECIAL DEVICE

Inquiries revealed that the President had installed in his machine a special device that enabled him to drive it without the use of his legs. Very little was known of this device, however, and Miss Rogosa was forced to write President Roosevelt for the necessary information.

When the letter was brought to his attention the President, as if sensing the heartache of a kindred soul, set aside his campaign plans and ordered, through his personal secretary, Margaret LeHand of Somerville, an immediate answer.

The letter directed the Lynn girl to write the company handling the special equipment.

"I really don't believe that I have extraordinary discerning powers," said Miss Rogosa. "It was just that I had a problem to solve and I used the formula best adaptable.

"Correspondence with the firm manufacturing the device showed that the equipment could be installed in any make of car.

APPARATUS INSTALLED

"I bought a car and the salesman drove it all the way to Summit, New Jersey, where the factory is located, and had the device installed. You can well understand my impatience in waiting the salesman's return."

Miss Rogosa, who received her driving license Monday, after demonstrating her driving ability before her admiring parents and brother, declared, flushed with pleasure:

"It's amazing the sense of power driving gives one. I feel that I have sprouted wings."

Then in a more serious vein, more to herself rather to anyone in particular, she murmured:

"Freedom, freedom to go where I will."

It is believed by the motor registry that Miss Rogosa's car is the only one so equipped to be operated entirely by hand in this state.

"I hope," Miss Rogosa declared, "that scores of others will profit by my successful experiment and will learn, like me, to really live once again."

INGENIUS GADGETS

The hand control device that enables Miss Rogosa to operate her car safely without touching brake, clutch or gas pedal is the invention of an infantile paralysis victim who saw in the automobile an avenue of escape from a life of drudgery.

The device operates on a vacuum nciple not entirely unlike the uum ndshield wiper.

l sliding wheel that revolves m the steering wheel controls e brake, clutch and gas. A parate lever attached to the rter permits it to be worked by nd.

Pressure on the control wheel uses the vacuum pump system operate, and depending upon position of the wheel will ther throw in the clutch, brake feed gas to the car.

A convenient switch shuts off special control device for conntional driving.

Experts are of the opinion that device because of the safety its operation might become ndard equipment, in the future, all automobiles.

Nazi 'Persecution' Stirs Pope Anew

Castel Gandolfo, Italy, June 16 (AP)—Pope Pius spoke out again today to assail "the blind battle against the Church of Christ" which, he said, rages on in Nazi Germany.

He gave his "special great blessing" to a group of graduate priests of the German-Hungarian seminary in Rome.

He spoke of this "hour of persecution" in Germany, in which, he said, "each is persecuted because of his love of Christ."

The Pontiff congratulated the priests on the work they will return to in Germany, "where a really brave apostolate is needed."

'NO TRESPASS,' HE WARNS U. S.

With the new $40,000 coast guard station at Scituate almost completed, the government today reached a new impasse in its dealings with Harry MacDonald, erstwhile owner of the property.

MacDonald had "No Trespassing" signs posted on the property at First Cliff, Scituate, warning the contractors and government inspectors to keep off, under threat of prosecution.

But contractors and inspectors continued work, declaring they would leave the site only on orders from Washington.

MacDonald, a Scituate electrician, contends the government defaulted in its payment on the sale, under a contract executed 10 months ago.

Coast guard officials said MacDonald boosted his price on the land after the contract was made, and that his claims were in the hands of the government legal department.

Mrs. E. V. Griffin Dies in New York

New York, June 16 (INS)—Mrs. Elizabeth Veronica McTaminey Griffin, widow of William T. Griffin, of Chicago, died suddenly last night of a heart attack at her home here. At her bedside were her sons, Gerald, William, John, Alexis, Norbert and Marcus, and her daughters, Ethel, Geraldine Griffin Moore, Marcella Griffin Wolfe, Eileen Griffin Reidy and Eulalie Griffin.

Mrs. Griffin's sons are well known to New Yorkers. William Griffin, prominently mentioned as a Democratic mayoralty candidate, is publisher and editor of the New York Sunday Enquirer.

5000 Kurds Shot In Turk Uprising

Istanbul, Turkey, June 18 (INS)—More than 5000 Kurdish tribesmen who rebelled aganist social reforms were killed or wounded recently in the Dersim area of southeastern Asia Minor, it was officially disclosed today.

Twenty-five thousand Turkish troops were used to quell the Kurds' uprising.

COMMUNISTS PLAN FARM-LABOR BLOC

New York, June 16—Formation of a nation-wide farmer-labor party is the avowed objective of a conference of Communists, Socialists and other representatives of radical and left-wing "liberal" groups which is to be held from Friday, June 18, to Sunday, June 20, at the Napanoch Country Club, Napanoch, N. Y.

The gathering is being arranged by the Socialist League for Industrial Democracy at its 23rd June conference.

The only subject offered for discussion at the three-day meeting will be "toward a farmer-labor party."

At the opening session, the subtopic will be "essentials of farmer-labor political action."

The four speakers selected to explain these "essentials" are:

Earl Browder, general secretary of the Communist party of the United States, and member of the Komintern at Moscow.

Arthur Higgins of the American Labor Party of New York State.

Congressman John T. Bernard of the Minnesota Farmer-Labor party.

Norman Thomas, chairman of the Socialist party.

In the last national campaign Browder was the Communist nominee for President and Norman Thomas was the Socialist nominee.

During recent weeks, Thomas has been in Europe, where his itinerary included a sojourn at Moscow and a visit to Valencia, the civil war capital of "Red" Spain.

The American labor party, represented by Higgins, is affiliated with labor's non-partisan league, which in turn is affiliated with the Committee for Industrial Organization, both under the leadership of John L. Lewis.

Comedian Denies Huge Capacity

Riverside Cal., June 16 (US)—"Two quarts of liquor a day!"

Across the Rubicund visage of W. C. Fields, the eminent comedian, spread an expression of bewilderment.

He had just learned that he had been referred to as a "two-quarts-a-day man" in the suit brought by Dr. Jesse Citron, Riverside physician against the rotund funny man in an attempt to collect a $12,000 fee.

Fields grimaced. He wrinkled his pleasantly bulbous nose. And he bellowed:

"Nonsense! It's a lie. I never drank two quarts a day, not even in the good old days. And right now I'm a teetotaler."

Dr. Leo J. Madsen, was called by Citron's counsel to give his opinion as to a fair fee. Fields claims the $12,000 asked by Citron is exactly $11,000 too much. Madsen was asked hypothetically:

"Now, Doctor what would be a fair amount to charge a patient who—

"Was accustomed to consuming up to two quarts of whisky a day—

"Was worth $700,000—

"Earned $6000 a week—

"Required a physician's services 24 hours a day for 25 days—

"And suffered from bronchial pneumonia, a bone disease, and arthritis?"

FEAR-STRICKEN REFUGEES POUR OUT OF BILBAO

Hendaye, France, June 16—Terror-stricken women and children fled Bilbao in droves today along the few avenues of escape left by the Insurgent legions closing in on the city's outskirts.

French refugees reaching border points near here reported the populace in near panic with the center of the provincial capital now an artillery target of Insurgent batteries ranged to the north and south.

President Jose Antomio Aguirre, they said, remained in the city, vowing to die on the spot rather than surrender.

Many militiamen were reported to have bolted to the Insurgents, accusing the Basque government of deceiving them with false reports of the invincibility of the "iron ring" defenses that the Insurgent offensive has smashed.

HEAVY GUNFIRE

Loyal Basque troops installed artillery in the heart of the city to bombard their advancing foe.

Insurgents, answering the defense fire that came from well within the city, battered residential and business districts with a heavy bombardment.

Unconfirmed reports said two Spanish vessels had been sunk in Bilbao harbor.

In a broadcast over the Rebel radio station at Salamanca, Rebel Generalissimo Franco predicted today his insurgent troops will have completed capture of Bilbao by tomorrow morning.

He declared he has ordered the civil governor of rebel-held San Sebastian to Bilbao to "reorganize the civil life of the city" following its capitulation.

According to reports here the insurgents have captured 5000 Basque prisoners since they first broke through the iron ring of defenses thrown up weeks ago around Bilbao.

If Balbao fails, it is believed, the Basques plan another "last stand" at Santander.

REJOIN PATROL

At St. Jean de Luz, French Consul Casterman, who left Bilbao aboard a French destroyer, stated Basque authorities had declared martial law at the capital to insure order and organization in defense of the city.

Meanwhile Germany and Italy today formally rejoined the international non-intervention patrol to keep arms and men from reaching Spain.

Both nations quit the neutral patrol May 31 after their warships had been bombed by Spanish government planes. This also led to a reprisal bombing of Almeria, Spain, by German vessels.

Now Britain, France, Germany and Italy have evolved a plan to guarantee safety of the patrol ships.

Heart Attack Kills Brighton Officer

Six hours after he went off duty at the Brighton police station, Patrolman James G. McCann, Jr., 36, was found unconscious today outside a gasoline station in Harvard avenue, Brighton. He died before arrival at St. Elizabeth's Hospital. Dr. Kenneth Dalton said death was due to a heart attack.

The officer was found by a taxi driver, who rushed him to the hospital. McCann's car was parked across the street from the spot where he was found.

Patrolman McCann lived at 184 Faneuil street, Brighton, and is survived by his wife, Catherine, and two children. He joined the Boston police department April 30, 1926 and had been transferred to the Brighton station last April 2 from the Warren avenue station. He had also been attached to the South Boston, Back Bay and old La Grange street stations.

While at the Warren avenue station he was characterized by Lieutenant Harold Mitten, as the "cream of the department."

At police headquarters today Timothy Manning, assistant secretary to Commissioner Timilty, revealed that McCann saved his life about a year ago when the officer gave his blood in a transfusion. Manning had been seriously injured in an automobile crash.

"If it wasn't for McCann, I'd be dead today," Manning said.

La Guardia Signs Sales Tax Renewal

New York, June 16 (AP)—Mayor Fiorello H. La Guardia signed a one-year renewal today of New York City's sales tax, while pickets paraded outside City Hall protesting the measure.

He also signed a renewal of three other emergency relief taxs on personal property, utilities and business receipts. The renewals are expected to bring the city $60,000,000 in revenue. Norman Thomas led fifteen Socialists to the mayor's office to protest the sales tax.

U. S. SPURS SEARCH IN PARSONS KIDNAP

Stony Brook, N. Y., June 16 (AP)—The possibility of an early break in the Alice McDonell Parsons disappearance was indicated today in a sudden increase of tempo in the activities of Federal, state, and local investigators.

Until early this morning, the entire lower floor of the Parsons home, "Long Meadows Farm," was alight, and there appeared to be much activity within.

Earl Connelley, inspector of the Federal Bureau of Investigation who assumed formal charge of the case today, was absent from his headquarters on a mysterious mission until after midnight.

MISSING A WEEK

Connelley parried questions but, asked whether he was "ready to withdraw from the case on a theory a kidnaping was not committed," the inspector replied:

"Absolutely not."

Exactly a week ago today, at 11:15 a. m., Mrs. Parsons left her chicken farm with a man and a woman in an automobile, as Mrs. Anna Kupryanova, Russian-born woman, living with Mrs. Parsons and her husband, told the story. When Parsons returned home from New York City that evening, Mrs. Parsons had not returned. A few hours later a note demanding $25,000 ransom was found.

U. S. TAKES CHARGE

And today under the so-called Lindbergh Kidnap Law, the Federal government took charge of the case on the presumption Mrs. Parsons had been taken across a state line, thus making the abduction a Federal offense. The law prescribes a seven-day interval after the disappearance before the interstate phase is presumed.

To a long list of stories of persons believed to have seen Mrs. Parsons since her disappearance, there was added today the account of a New York taxicab driver, Nat Lewis, who told New York City police he had taken a woman believed to be Mrs. Parsons to the Pennsylvania Station last night.

Mrs. Roosevelt Wins New Honor

Jersey City, N. J., June 16 (AP)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, awarded an honorary degree of doctor of laws by John Marshall College of Law, was told today that since she became "First Lady of the Land" she had "made of an empty title a vital and living force."

An informal luncheon at the Carteret Club, with presentation of a gift to the President's wife, was scheduled before a procession to the State Teachers College for the commencement.

Youth, Drawn Into Sewer, Saves Self

San Francisco, June 16 (AP)—A crowd watched horror-stricken as Phil Cotter, 16, swimming near the Golden Gate yesterday, was sucked by the tide into the huge Land's End sewer. A short time afterward the youth emerged from a manhole some distance from the mouth of the pipe.

SAFETY DRIVE IN QUINCY

Ired by loss of their city record of safest city under 100,000 population in America, Quincy's citizen traffic safety committee today launched a new plan to curb reckless driving.

The eight cruising cars of the police department appeared on the streets with canvas signs, extending across the rear of the cars, with safety slogans painted in large letters.

Patrolman Ernest Hodge of the traffic bureau will have charge of changing the signs every two weeks, through the summer campaign.

Quincy had gone since last November without an automobile accident death, until two weeks ago when a Dorchester youth was killed.

Leonard H. Rhodes, Deacon, 76, to Wed Choir Singer, 39

Leonard H. Rhodes, 76-year-old Back Bay and Brookline marketman and a deacon of Tremont Temple Baptist Church, will marry his private secretary, who is also a choir singer in the church, it was learned by the Boston Evening American today.

The bride-to-be is Miss Mary E. Dixon, 39, of 15 Staunton road, Belmont. The ceremony will take place tomorrow at 8 p. m. at her home and Rev. Dr. C. Gordon Brownville, their pastor, will officiate.

In addition to singing in the choir of the church of which she and Rhodes have been members for years, Miss Dixon also taught in the Sunday School there.

It was at services at Tremont Temple that the couple met some years ago, before the Belmont woman became secretary to Rhodes.

The bridegroom-to-be conducts the market known as Rhodes Brothers, in Massachusetts avenue, Back Bay. His home is in Downing road, Brookline. He is a wid-

HUB TAX RATE HIGHER, BUT LESS TO PAY

Announcement of the highest tax rate in the city's history for 1937, $38.70 per $1000 valuation, was the jolt received by Boston taxpayers today.

The new rate, announced by Mayor Mansfield after a long conference with the Board of Assessors and city officials last night, is 70 cents above last year's previous all time high.

But though the rate is higher, the average taxpayer will pay slightly less than he did a year ago, owing to a drop in property valuations.

The total tax levy for this year is $61,554,079, nearly $16,000 less than the $61,570,070 raised a year ago.

Citing an aggregate drop of $30,000,000 in taxable real and personal property, Mayor Mansfield disclosed that the city is borrowing four and a half million dollars to prevent the rate from rocketing even higher. Last year the city was compelled to borrow $6,000,000 to meet maintenance expenses.

An increase of $1,500,000 in taxes to be received from the state, will offset the difference in the amounts borrowed.

Total requirements for all purposes for 1937 will be $79,835,311, including $2,500,000 for public welfare, Mayor Mansfield revealed.

PRESIDENT, OTHER NOTABLES LAUD 'BILLY' CONNERY

From President Roosevelt down through the line of celebrities, tributes were paid today to Congressman William P. Connery.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVILT'S to Mrs. Connery read:

Mrs. Roosevelt and I share the great grief which has come to you with sudden and tragic force, and hasten to assure you of our heartfelt sympathy.

"In the untimely passing of Congressman Connery, the country loses an able legislator, whose services can ill be spared.

"An earnest champion of the underprivileged, as chairman of the House labor committee, he literally wore himself out in his efforts to find in national legislation a solution for an age old problem which would be just and equitable to rights of capital and labor."

Other tributes included:

GOVERNOR HURLEY—"In the death of Mr. Connery, Massachusetts loses a distinguished citizen, labor a great advocate and the people a beloved Congressman. His many contributions to the public benefit will be monuments to his memory."

SENATOR DAVID I. WALSH: "He held a position of exceptional power and influence and was one of the most active men in the House. He specialized in legislation relating to veterans and labor and took a leading part in all measures relating to these subjects. His was a unique personality. He possessed a fine sense of humor, was intensively dynamic, deeply absorbed in every cause he espoused and was always approachable and affable even with those who disagreed with him—all of which contributed to a popularity among members of Congress that was without parallel."

MAYOR MANSFIELD—"I am greatly shocked at Congressman Connery's sudden and untimely death. He was a faithful representative of his district, an untiring worker, and highly regarded by his colleagues.

"He will be missed and mourned by all who knew him. Massachusetts has lost a faithful son and his constituents a loyal representative."

REPRESENTATIVE JOSEPH W. MARTIN JR., Assistant Minority Floor Leader: "Bill Connery was a most lovable man and possessed the warm friendship of everyone in the House. He was a stout champion of New England and never hesitated to leave his party when it was necessary to serve his state. We all feel we have lost a true friend and an able legislator."

FORMER MAYOR JOHN F. FITZGERALD: "It seems incredible that Bill Connery has gone. His loss to state and nation and the common man and woman cannot be estimated. He was a people's man, as was his father before him.

"Money did not interest him except enough to live respectably. His life was devoted to the poor and unfortunate and he never failed them. Massachusetts will be lonely for many a day without him."

FORMER GOVERNOR CURLEY—"The untimely death of Congressman Connery is shocking news, not only to his family but to every forward-looking American. His leadership in the fight for a shorter work week as a means of providing employment for the unemployed of America was most notable.

"Congress can ill afford to lose such an able, honest, upright and conscientious leader."

CONGRESSMAN JOHN W. McCORMACK of South Boston: "His sudden death brings to an earthly end one of the finest careers in the public life of the nation. State and nation have sustained a great loss in courageous, sterling, lovable Billy Connery.

"There was no member of Congress who possessed the respect and affection of his colleagues as did Billy."

REPRESENTATIVE GEORGE J. BATES, Republican, Salem: "In the shocking, sudden death of Representative Connery—scarcely a year after his colleague for many years, the late A. Piatt Andrew—the nation has lost another remarkably likable man whose personality endeared him to all who knew him. 'Billie' Connery was as highly regarded throughout the nation as he was in his own district. Certainly labor has rarely had a more consistent champion in Congress."

CONGRESSMAN JOHN P. HIGGINS, of the West End: "The death of my colleague is a tremendous loss to the state and nation. His long service in Congress, particularly as chairman of the House committee on labor, was dedicated to sponsoring legislation aimed to improve the social and economic position of his fellowmen.

"As co-author of the Wagner-Connery labor relations act, he rendered immortal service to American labor. Massachusetts has lost a truly great public servant and I have personally lost a genuine friend."

SENATOR ROYAL D. COPELAND, of New York: "I was impressed by his earnestness and ability. He was in many ways a model legislator. He was a people-loving person and he was devoted to the cause of labor."

Plan Connery Funeral

state, Governor Hurley ordered flags at the State House and on State public buildings to be flown half staff.

In tribute to his work in behalf of the workers, the Massachusetts Federation of Labor asked all central labor unions and affiliated organizations also to fly flags in the mourning position.

ROOSEVELT'S TELEGRAM

Meanwhile the bereaved widow received condolences from the White House in a telegram which said:

"With deepest sympathy to the family of our very close friend."

The telegram was signed, "President and Mrs. Roosevelt."

Although funeral arrangements are tentative, it is probable that the club and the American Legion will be in charge of the military funeral at 9 a. m. Saturday, with a solemn high mass of requiem at 10 a. m. in St. Mary's Church, Lynn, and burial in St. Mary's Cemetery.

As the body was started home from Washington, messages of condolence and glowing tributes to the energetic champion of labor poured into the Connery home in Lynn from all parts of the nation.

They came from men and women who had fought with him and against him in his political battles, from labor leaders whose cause he had supported during his 16 years in Congress, from legislators high in the state and nation and from war veterans who knew him in service overseas.

Mayor J. Fred Manning of Lynn called a special meeting of the Lynn Council tonight at 7 o'clock to determine the hours that Connery's body will lie in state in City Hall on its return from Washington.

STATE TENDERS SERVICES

This afternoon Governor Hurley instructed Adjutant-General Charles H. Cole to confer with Mrs. Connery and offer her any services the state can extend.

General Cole will also tell the widow that the Colonel Francis B. Logan of the 101st Infantry—the regiment to which Congressman Connery was attached overseas in war days—offers services of the entire regiment for the funeral, if he so wishes.

The governor will be represented at the funeral mass Saturday by his secretary, John V. Mahoney, due to a previous and unbreakable engagement, but the governor probably will be at the cemetery.

WAR VETS MOURN

The Yankee Division Club was in meeting when news of his death came. George Curley, president, adjourned the meeting and then sent the following telegram to the congressman's brother, in Washington:

"Deepest regrets. Lynn YD Club will co-operate in any way possible. We are yours to command."

Botulism, almost invariably a fatal disease, was suspected as the cause of Connery's death by Coroner A. Gruder MacDonald of Washington and Dr. Emmett H. Markwood, the representative's personal physician.

Several days will be required to learn positively if the rare malady killed the congressman, Dr. MacDonald said, as germ cultures taken from Connery's organs will have to be incubated.

Botulism is caused by a long, sausage-shaped microbe that thrives in spoiling or putrifying food, particulary foods that have been imperfectly canned and exposed to air. Commenting on Connery's death, Dr. Markwood said:

"I don't believe I've ever seen a man in such a toxic condition. It was just like he had been smothered with a blanket."

WIFE IN COLLAPSE

Mrs. Connery, whose trip to Washington was cut short at East Hartford, Conn., by news of her husband's death, was under the care of a physician today. She had thought Connery's ailment only a minor one.

The Congressman's death came as more of a shock because his health had been perfect during his week-end visit to Lynn. He had spent Sunday with his wife and 9-year-old daughter, Marie Terese, and then had gone to Springfield and later to Chicopee to visit a CCC camp.

He was stricken shortly after his arrival in Washington and throughout yesterday he suffered intensely. None of his capital friends, however, considered his condition critical.

At his bedside when death came was the Rev. Fr. Hugh J. Dillon, S. J., of Washington, a life-time friend. They had been classmates at Holy Cross.

Outside the hospital room where Connery fought for life was his devoted secretary, Mary Cronin of Lawrence. With her was Congresswoman Edith Nourse Rogers of Lowell, who, though she had often disagreed with the Lynn Congressman's views, had admired him tremendously.

GIVE LAST RITES

Throughout the afternoon the two women sat together, their eyes wet with tears. At 6 o'clock Dr. Markwood whispered to Father Dillon and the priest's head bowed low.

"Billy," he said to the Congressman, "the doctor thinks the end is near. I'm going to give you the last rites."

Connery nodded his head and the last rites were given. He was conscious almost to death and when Father Dillon had ended the rites he mumbled:

"Thank you."

Miss Cronin and Representative Rogers wept broken-heartedly when they heard the news. Father Dillon said:

"He was a great man and a great friend of mine. I knew he was sick but I had no idea he would go so soon."

The Brighter Side

By DAMON RUNYON

Copyright by King Features Syndicate, Inc. International copyright and all other rights reserved.

About twenty-five years ago, the song writers and song publishers of the United States, took up serious consideration of the fact that while they made the nation's songs, the nation was not paying for them.

Damon Runyon

This remissness, we might add, was somewhat characteristic of the nation up to that time.

For a great many years, the nation had made a practice of leaving its song writers to die broke, with appropriate pauses a few generations later for a few tears in their memory, perhaps on the occasion of the unveiling of a bust.

A couple of orders of ham and eggs while the song writers were alive would have done them more good.

So many of our old-time song writers died broke that it became the popular impression that a song writer was supposed to die broke, like Stephen Foster.

The impression was generally enhanced by a little tradition that the song writer loved a beautiful girl, but failed to get her, so he wrote a song about his love for her shortly before he curled up and died broke.

We do not find any special impression of the song publisher. Perhaps he was supposed to be some nice old man with whiskers who published the songs as a hobby.

ASCAP ANSWER

Anyway, if a couple of lads got together in a back room and sweated out a lyric and melody that some optimistic publisher produced in printed form, and the nation sang, the nation seemed to feel that the glory of authorship was sufficient reward.

We fear the nation never got to know its song writers. Song writers cannot eat glory. They thrive better on salami.

Years ago, a song born of inspiration and hard work, could be pirated by any theater, or other place of public entertainment, and played and sung, with no thought of paying the authors or publishers.

It was the same thing as appropriating the copyrighted work of a novelist, or playwright, or even of an inventor, without permission, or pay, though it took a long time to convince some persons that a song was not public property.

Of course the authors and publishers of songs got their money out of the original sheet music, and the sale of sheet music was a nice item in the days when popular songs sold up into the millions, and individual song writers made as high as $100,000 a year.

But nowadays when the radio has knocked the sheet music business cockeyed and the playing of musical instruments is not the popular pastime it used to be the writers and publishers have reason to thank their lucky stars that they got together those 25 years back and formed ASCAP.

ASCAP means the American Society of Composers and Publishers. It represents the most shining example in this country of an industry solving its own problems.

The organization was not a new idea. It had existed for years before the late Victor Herbert, and others, got to agitating it here, in France, Germany, Italy and other countries. In France it is known as the Petite Doits, or small arts.

ASCAP has a membership of about 1000 in the United States, but it is allied with the foreign countries, so the world membership of the society is said to be around 40,000.

ASCAP collects royalty fees in this country from the big networks, from hotels, and cafes, and theaters and all places of entertainment that use the works of its members, foreign or domestic.

ASSURES INCOME

The fees collected on foreign composition goes to the countries in which the authors live, and the foreign countries in turn send to ASCAP the royalties collected on the use of American works abroad.

The members of ASCAP are classified according to their past works, and current activity, and all the money collected is pooled and then pro-rated yearly among the members in line with this classification.

The highest rating in the society is AA, and the top money is $15,000. This, of course, has no reference to the publication royalty fees of the writer, or the publisher.

A member is rated according to the number and importance of his work, whether they have stood the test of time, how frequently they are played, and the nature of the performance.

In short, in good times and bad, a song writer or publisher allied with ASCAP is practically assured of some income. He does not have to worry about starving to death anyway.

In some parts of the country it is said ASCAP still meets with opposition from small networks, and others, who cannot see why they are not allowed to use copyright productions at their own sweet will, but in general the purpose, and the value of the society is pretty well recognized.

Mr. Irving Caesar, a song writer and publisher, volatile, and sometimes voluble, summed up ASCAP right nicely one night at a dinner to Mr. Gene Buck, who used to author for Flo Ziegfeld, and who has been president of the society so long the younger members think he was born in the job. Mr. Caesar said:

"It is the outstanding, and most successful of all co-operative movements."

And everybody said "Hear, hear!"

BELA KUN NEW VICTIM OF STALIN PURGE

BULLETIN

Moscow, June 16 (INS)—Two more important Soviet officials, charged with "wrecking," fell before Josef Stalin's nation-wide purge today with loss of their posts—often precursor of trial and execution. They were President Kruttov of the far eastern executive committee and President Larin of the Rostov executive committee.

Berlin, June 16 (US)—Soviet Dictator Stalin, continuing his iron-fisted determination to wipe out alleged "enemies" of his regime, has ordered the arrest of Bela Kun, internationally known Communist agitator, and a new list of Red army generals, it was reported today.

Besides Bela Kun, who helped establish a Red government with a bloody revolt in Hungary just after the World War, GPU (secret police) agents were reported to have arrested the following:

General Gorbatschov, acting commander of the Moscow military district; General Haecker, chief of the Soviet foreign department; War Commissariat Mirannov, acting press chief of the foreign office.

According to the reports, the men have been thrown into cells within Moscow's Lubyanka prison in the courtyard of which last week eight army generals met death by GPU riflemen. Execution of the eight soldiers, including Marshal Mikhail Tukachevsky, was carried out shortly after they had been found guilty of treason against Stalin's government.

Boy Saves Mother and 3 in Newton

A 16-year-old boy saved his mother and a neighboring family of three today when fire caused $2000 damage in a two-story apartment at Lowell avenue and Austin street, Newtonville.

Wakened by smoke pouring from the kitchen, after a burner under a water heater set the blaze, David Gutzler roused his mother, Mrs. Louise Gutzler, and then wakened the family of Roy H. Engstrom in the apartment below.

Engstrom carried his eight-year-old son, William, to safety.

The blaze destroyed the kitchens of both apartments, and damaged other rooms. The building is owned by Herbert Stoddard of Seymour, Ct.

MOTHER'S DIVE FAILS TO SAVE LOWELL BABY

Lowell, June 16—Despite a heroic rescue attempt by her mother, Carol Stickney, three, of School street drowned in the Merrimack river today after tumbling from a six-foot retaining wall in the Pawtucketville section.

The baby tumbled into the river from the concrete wall, after wandering away from her mother's side, and fell into six feet of water.

Racing to the wall as she saw the girl go over, the mother, Mrs. Arthur Stickney, dived into the awter and recovered the body of Carol from where it lay on the bottom.

With the baby in her arms, Mrs. Stickney was aided from the river by two farmhands, Walter Klatka and Wendell Butterfield. Police and firemen were summoned. They worked over the girl for two hours, but were unable to revive her.

Buffalo Slaying Case Goes to Jury

Buffalo, N. Y., June 16 (AP)—Defense and prosecution in the murder trial of Tommy Smith, 19, accused of killing Mary Ellen Babcock, left their cases in the hands of the jury this afternoon. The mothers of the defendant and the 17-year-old girl he is accused of stabbing wept as counsel completed summations. Defense Counsel Thomas Newton told the jury Tommy "confessed" the crime because of the crazy idea that he would be a hero." His client, he said, was "on the verge of dementia praecox."

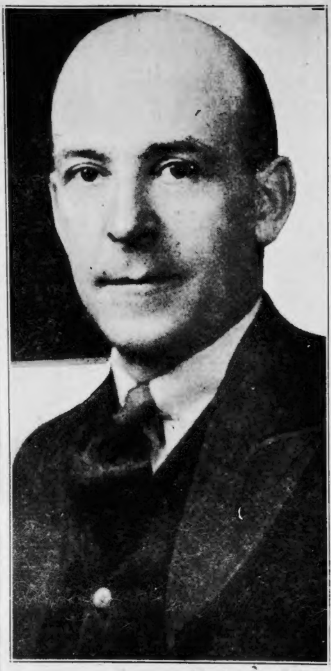
'Billy' Connery Hailed as Great Friend of Labor

This loyal wife, Mrs. William P. Connery, let her husband go away to war when his country called—she helped him to become elected to Congress when his state called—and when death called she had to let him go away forever.

They were always happy together, the Connerys—happy because there was a great love between them—a love cemented more firmly because of previous tragedies. This photo was taken only recently and shows the palship of the three.



Boston Evening American Photo

Congressman William P. Connery, who died in Washington yesterday of food poisoning. He was recognized as one of the outstanding leaders in the interest of social security and the laboring man.

Hard Worker For N. E.

By ALAN C. FRAZER

Forty-one days ago—and exactly an hour before the giant Zeppelin Hindenburg blew up at Lakehurst—Billy Connery stopped his shiny black sedan at the Narrow Gauge station in Lynn.

"Be sure to come and see me in Washington," he said.

But Billy Connery is dead. Before his time, Billy Connery is dead. Before enactment, as he hoped, of federal legislation for maximum hours, minimum wages and a ban on child labor.

If the seventh district congressman had lived, and had his way, the maximum hours for labor would have been 30 a week, and he believed he would have his way, just as he did when he fought, without giving quarter, for cash payment of the veterans' bonus.

KNEW HOW TO FIGHT

Connery fought hard and knew how to fight—a bit of rough language here, a droll story there, a determined stand at times and at times a friendly concession—such as letting the Southern congressmen off without putting them on record by a rollcall.

And above all a willingness to let others seize the glory. That was the way he got things done.

When the House took up the Wagner-Connery Act, Billy Connery stood on the floor and, point by point, explained why it was Constitutional.

And Billy Connery knew it was Constitutional. By day and by night, he and Professor Calvert Magruder of Harvard and Mike Flynn, the labor man, formerly of Boston, sat and sweated over the measure. First one was the "Supreme Court" and then another, and they tested every clause, every phrase and every word.

EACH POINT CONFIRMED

And the Supreme Court said the law was Constitutional, endorsing point by point as Connery predicted. That was the way Billy Connery worked, and the way he got things done.

The last time I saw him was on May 6, late in the afternoon, in the postoffice at Lynn and, as it was the eve of his 25th wedding anniversary, he shelved discussion of the 30-hour week for a while to talk about his romance.

He was in the best of spirits and, as far as his outward manner showed, the best of health, although he had only a little over a month to live.

"I don't know why I'm talking so freely," he said several times.

It was an odd phrase for a man with his experience in public life. But perhaps it was because, all unknowningly, he was talking freely about his family, and other things nearest his heart, to a reporter for the last time.

HAD TWO HEROES

Out of his conversation, interspersed frequently with humorous stories, came the disclosure that Billy had two heroes—his own father and George M. Cohan.

Billy felt bad that there had been some editorial expressions in other states against his bill for a medal for Cohan.

"Why, when a lot of us think of the war, we naturally think of George's song, 'We won't come back till it's over, over there.'" he said. "That got a lot of boys to enlist.

"And some people think the cost is too high. They say it would support a family for so many months. Well, maybe they don't know that George M. Cohan has a pension list of his own. I've seen him put many an old actor on it, to be supported henceforth, and well supported, out of George's own pocket."

Billy had acted with Cohan in "Get-Rich-Quick Wallingford" in which he played the reporter, and half a dozen other plays.

LIKE HIS FATHER

He followed in the footsteps of his father in taking to the stage. Billy's father, William Patrick Connery, Sr., was born in Lynn, October 15, 1855, and was for years on the stage. Later he settled down and went into the coal business. "Connery's Corner," the site of his establishment was called.

Billy, whose mother was Mary T. Haven Connery, was born in the same city, August 24, 1888.

He attended St. Mary's parochial school at the same time as the girl he was later to marry, although neither knew the other. She was then Marie Antoinette Manseau.

In 1902 Billy went to Montreal College, remaining there two years and then entering Holy Cross, which he was to leave without being graduated, in order to take to the stage.

"Think of it," said the Congressman. "The girl I was to marry years later went to the same kids' school with me, and she was going to school in Quebec when I was up there, and she was at a school in Marlboro when I went to Holy Cross in Worcester, yet we never met.

FATED TO MEET

"We both lived in Lynn, mind you, and after her father's death, her mother married George LeGault, who was with my father in vaudeville as Connery and LeGault.

"You'd think we might have met long before we did. Even after I went on the stage, and she did, we didn't meet until one day in Boston when we were both rehearsing for summer shows, and then I met Tony LeGault, as she was known.

"I believe we were destined from the beginning to meet some day, else our paths never would have crossed so much until we did get together."

On May 7, 1912, with Mayor Connery and "Tony's" mother present, they were married by Father J. B. Parent at the Church of St. Jean Baptiste in Lynn, and they took to the stage for their honeymoon, a new edition of Connery and LeGault.

The war came and Billy wanted to enlist.

"She let me go," he said. "That was a fine thing for a wife to do."

Their child, Marie Therese, who is now only 9, had not been born then. The Connerys had experienced one sadness after another. Several children had died at birth. "Tony" let Billy go to war.

He enlisted in A Company of the old Fighting Ninth which later at camp in Framingham became the 101st, under which designation it was to make its great record as a unit of the Yankee Division.

Love of Family Dominant

Overseas, where he served for 19 months, Connery became a color guard and later regimental color sergeant, and was a stretcher-bearer during the hottest battles of the war.

HIS CHIEF WEAPONS

"Much has been written of the heroes of our division," wrote Walter ("Dutch") Mahan, YD veteran and reporter, after the famous division came home in April, 1919. "Much has been written of men who led the way over the top, but there is one whom every man in our regiment will always remember with gratitude and affection."

"Dutch" was writing of Billy Connery, "whose chief weapons were a smile and a song."

After the war Billy worked for the General Electric and later established a candy factory, but gave that up to enter into politics. He became secretary to Mayor Harland McPhetres of Lynn.

SOUND DEMOCRAT

The veterans talked of him for an office of his own, and in 1923 Billy went to Congress where he remained until his death, serving in the 68th to 74th Congresses.

In the 71st Congress he was the choice of both the Democratic and Republican voters of his district, but Congressman Connery was always, fundamentally, a sound Democrat.

As Congressman, after Franklin D. Roosevelt became President, Connery supported many of the President's proposals, but not all of them.

He fought all opponents, even prominent veterans, in waging battle for cash payment of the soldiers' bonus, and he won.

He was one vote against 359 in the House when he voted against this nation's participation in conferences at Geneva in 1926 under the League of Nations.

"I am against the League of Nations as well as the World Court," he said. "I do not think this government should be represented in a conference called by the League."

He fought, likewise, against the admission of low-cost Japanese and other foreign goods to compete with American products. It was his insertion of a clause embracing this point, in a 30-hour bill, against the wishes of the State Department, that he said caused defeat of his pet legislation a few years ago.

He was ready with another 30-hour bill, for industry when President Roosevelt sent in his own wage-hour recommendations, providing for a 40-hour maximum. In large part, this bill embodies Connery's dream of maximum hours, minimum wages and no child labor, by Federal enactment.

Connery was chairman of the House Labor committee, a post he first was given six years ago, and there was in his element, working for the laboring man.

When he found faults in the functioning of the National Recovery Administration, he openly said so. He fought long and arduously for more protection for the New England shoe manufacturing industry.

LODGE MEMBER

He was a member of the bar and of the American Legion, Knights of Columbus, Moose, Eagles, Elks and Red Men.

Pride was in his voice when he talked of his daughter, Marie Therese, who can talk both English and French and is receiving a fine education under the Sisters of St. Christienne in Salem. Mrs. Connery remained in Lynn during the Congressional sessions so Marie Therese, named for the Little Flower, could continue in school there. The little family lived at 11 Bellevue road, Lynn.

Holy Cross conferred an honorary degree of master of arts on him in 1925. He studied his law at Georgetown University, after his election to Congress, and was admitted to the bar at Washington.

WHO Killed THIS WOMAN?

How Important Is Virtue Among Girls of Today?

LEILA DARROW has just returned from the country club dance; she is troubled about her friend Constance, who is recklessly in love. Leila and her mother Helen have a confidential talk.

"I believe in virtue," says Helen Darrow. "I have brought you up to believe in it. I don't understand . . ."

"Can't you try to, Mother? Can't you realize that girls today don't think virtue's so awfully important?"

Leila's attitude shocks Helen. And what is Leila now asking her? That she help to conceal Constance's dangerous behaviour.

Startling New Facts in War Against Social Disease

IN response to PICTORIAL REVIEW-DELINEATOR'S courageous campaign to save innocent women and children from the scourge of social diseases, readers demanded more facts. They wanted to know how they could aid national and civic authorities in shielding the home from these great wreckers of human happiness.

And so Maxine Davis, noted social investigator, brings you this new article telling the real state of affairs. She analyzes a system that is today only 25 per cent adequate to prevent such diseases.

Yet her report reveals progress, and is of practical value in showing women how they can assist in this important campaign to save the home from its most insidious foes.

Here's More of the Good Things in this Number

WHO IS GOD? How can one come to know Him? Celia Caroline Cole, inspired writer, gives you comforting new thoughts about the Creator.

FAITH BALDWIN, noted novelist, gives you such an enticing picture of California that you feel like packing your suitcase at once.

Kansas views New York. Jessie Wiley Voils, an alert Kansas woman, interprets New York, for women beyond the Big Town.

HOW TO BE A GOOD DANCER. Do you know there are just four basic steps in dancing? If you practice these, you can be a good dancer quickly. Don't miss the helpful facts Helen Ripperger puts into this sparkling article—"May I Cut In?"

3 Million Families will read this issue—

These readers tell why:

"Giving us complete novels was a godsend. But to keep such a high standard is amazing."

Mrs. E.S.M., Jacksonville, Fla.

"Taken as a whole there is a satisfyingness in each and every issue that I have never found elsewhere. Your stories are fine stories. There is a variety to them that gives me what I want and gives my youthful daughter what she wants."

Mrs. J.B.C., Boston, Mass.

"Pictorial Review today is a great magazine, forward looking, intelligent, with fiction that is on the whole the very best fare of its kind in current magazines."

L.S.M., Charlotte, N. C.

Who murdered the glamorous singer? Patience Emerson, Cape Cod beauty, wants to know . . . because the police are looking for her sweetheart, Tommy Thorpe.

WHEN Chris Malloy, yachtsman, brought Lia Lestrange, night club singer, to the little colony on Cape Cod, social thunderstorms gathered.

Men wanted to be driven a little mad it seemed, and Lia, with her exotic beauty, was certainly the girl to accommodate them.

Malloy and the athletic Tommy Thorpe were always with her.

Then Lia Lestrange was found murdered, and the State Police began a hunt for Tommy Thorpe.

But "Pat" Emerson, Tommy's "pal," didn't believe him guilty and started out to do her own detecting.

It took a girl's instinct to discover the clue of the lilac-scented powder and to start a "find the woman" search. And it took reckless daring for Pat to obey an unknown voice and walk into a deadly trap.

MOTHER DEATH JURY DRAWN

Riverhead, N. Y., June 16 (INS)—Selection of a jury to try Mrs. Helen Tiernan, alleged to have slain her seven-year-old daughter, Helen, was completed today.

Mrs. Tiernan allegedly has confessed slaying the girl and failing in an effort to mete out a similar fate to her five-year-old son because she thought her apartment too small to accommodate the children and her suitor. She is a widow.

Her defense was expected to be insanity.

Mattern to Fly In French Air Race

Fort Worth, Tex., June 16 (AP)—Jimmie Mattern, former 'round-the-world flier, and H. S. Jones, local oil man, announced today they would team in the race from Marseilles, France, to Damascus, Syria, August 20. They have worked together on previous long flights, with Jones as navigator.

SAFE AFTER RESCUE AT SEA

Boston Evening American Photo.

Glad to be safe ashore today were this mother and daughter, Mrs. Chester Frazer and little Elaine "Bobbie" Frazer of Lynnwood avenue, Melrose. They were aboard a disabled power boat which lay helpless, all night, off Nahant, and which was drifting out to sea today when it was sighted by a Coast Guard plane. A Coast Guard patrol boat towed the crippled craft into harbor.

ing landed. "Everything was all right until we got outside the Saugus river and off Nahant.

"Then the engine suddenly stopped. My husband kept working the self starter, and finally discovered his gas line was clogged. We realized it would be at least two hours before repairs could be made, so we tucked the children into the bunks and they went to sleep.

"When he had completed repairs, he discovered the batteries were dead and the starter wouldn't work.

"We anchored for a while, but at 1 o'clock a strong wind came up, pushing us farther out to sea. My husband and I rigged up a blanket for a sail, but that tended to take us farther away from shore and we had to take it down.

SIGNALED IN VAIN

"Lots of ships passed us, and we yelled and signaled to them, but apparently they didn't see us. At daybreak we could see what we thought were coast guard boats searching for us. I saw the coast guard plane, and a short time later a coast guard boat came and picked us up."

The alarm had been given Melrose police at 2 a. m. by Frazer's mother, Mrs. Mary Frazer, Melrose widow. Melrose police had notified the coast guard and the search had begun.

Suspect Trapped In Car Yard Chase

Cambridge police played hide and seek with a man in the Brattle square trolley car yards for 15 minutes today, but finally caught him and charged him with breaking into the Crimson Garage in Boylston street, Cambridge. The prisoner gave the name Francis J. Morrison, 42, of Glover avenue, Everett.

Injuries from which he may die were suffered today by Charles Boehn, 38, of Bedford, O., when he plunged forty feet from a staging in Cambridge. He sustained a fractured skull, fractured right arm and internal injuries.

Former Brookline Girl on Honeymoon in Adirondacks

Myrtle Gome Fraser, formerly of Brookline, and for some years an office employe of the United Drug Company here, was honeymooning in the Adirondacks today with Henry S. Frazer, prominent Syracuse attorney, whom she married yesterday in New York.

The simple ceremony was performed in St. Boniface chapel of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine by the Rev. John R. Atkinson. There were no attendants.

The bride was born in Spaniard Bay, Newfoundland, where she has relatives. During her residence here, she lived at 1249 Beacon street, Brookline.

Mrs. John Neil of Medford is a sister of Mrs. Fraser. Mrs. Neil said Myrtle met the lawyer in 1936 while vacationing in upstate New York. He visited her several times in her Brookline home and she spent Christmas and New Year's with his family in Syracuse, N. Y.

The honeymoon trip will last a month, after which the couple will live in Syracuse.

"Your Opinion" CONTEST

In addition to today's Boston American, this page will be repeated on Wednesday, June 23rd and 30th. The advertisers on this page are anxious to find out what the readers' opinions are of the best value in today's paper. Study each of their advertisements elsewhere in today's paper and then let us have your opinion in a simple letter of not more than 100 words of the best value. It is not necessary to color these pages—it is for you to save and return to the Contest Editor all three pages, along with your letter.

$200 in CASH just in time for vacation needs

Here is an easy way to get vacation money by writing a simple letter. Just think of the fun it will give you on your vacation, just by saving this page and two others and sending them along with your letter, to the Contest Editor, Boston American, 5 Winthrop Square, Boston, Mass.

First Prize - - - - $25 2nd Prize - - - - $15

3rd, 4th and 5th Prizes $10 each

26 Prizes $5 each

HERE ARE THE SIMPLE RULES

1. The stores listed on this page are anxious to know what in your opinion is the best value in today's paper. Read each and every one of their advertisements elsewhere in today's paper and then write a letter of not more than 100 words on the subject, "What I Consider The Best Value In Today's Paper."
2. You may select any store on this page for the subject of your letter.
3. Mail or bring in the three contest pages published June 16th, 23rd and 30th, to the "Your Opinion Contest" Editor, Boston American, 5 Winthrop Square, Boston, Mass., on or before midnight July 7th. Entries bearing a postmark later than midnight, July 7th, will be ineligible.
4. For the best letter in the opinion of the judges on the subject, "What I Consider The Best Value In Today's Paper," a first prize of $25 will be awarded—for the next best letter, a 2nd prize of $15—for the 3rd, 4th and 5th prizes, $10 each—and 26 prizes of $5 each.
5. It is not necessary to color pages or make elaborate entries. Advertisers are interested in your opinion. Neatness and logical reasons in a letter of not more than 100 words will count.
6. Contestants may send in as many entries as desired, but each entry must be accompanied by the three contest pages or reasonable facsimiles and a 100-word letter.
7. Contestants need not purchase copies of the Boston American in order to compete. Copies of the newspaper may be seen at office of publication, 5 Winthrop Square, Boston, Mass., or at the Public Library. Trace copies or facsimiles of the three contest pages will be eligible.
8. Anyone is eligible except employees of the Hearst newspapers or members of their families.
9. The judges will be three disinterested people not connected with the Boston American and their decision shall be considered final.
10. Winners will be announced in the Boston American on Monday, July 12th, and checks mailed immediately to winners.
11. All entries submitted will become the property of the Boston American. None will be returned.
12. Entry in the contest implies acceptance of all rules provided.

ENTRIES MUST BE IN BEFORE MIDNIGHT JULY 7TH BE SURE TO KEEP ALL OF THE PAGES

Louise Burleigh McNeil Weds In Chestnut Hill Ceremony

By BETTY ALDEN

WE DON'T KNOW whether archery enthusiasts call it a perfect York round . . . but the little fellow with the bow and arrow Mr. Daniel (Hearts and Flowers) Cupid, is in top form and having an excellent season . . .

Baseball fans would say he was batting close to a thousand . . . there has been a large society wedding nearly every day this month . . . with many, many more to come . . .

Charlotte Crosby Photo
LOUISE McNEIL

Today's leading nuptial event concerns Louise Burleigh McNeil, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Franklin McNeil of Chestnut Hill, and Francis Keyes, son of the former Senator and Mrs. Henry Wilder Keyes of Washington and Pine Grove Farm, North Haverhill, N. H. . . .

The wedding takes place this afternoon in the Church of the Redeemer in Chestnut Hill, where Louise and Francis will make their marriage vows before the Rev. John S. Moses . . . Mr. McNeil will be arm in arm with his charming little daughter as she marches down the aisle her figure shimmering in candlelight satin trimmed with rose point and duchess lace . . . Her tulle veil floats down over her shoulders from a small cap of the rose point lace which had been worn by her mother, and which is fastened with a wreath of orange blossoms . . . Her bouquet [illegible] gardenias and lilies of the valley . . .

Louise has chosen ten girls to surround her as she stands at the altar and there are a like number of ushers and a best man . . . The maid of honor is the bride's sister, Virginia McNeil, and Mrs. Edwin H. B. Pratt of Cambridge is the matron of honor . . . Their frocks are of eggshell taffeta, made on princess lines with [illegible] sleeves . . . In place of hats they are wearing coronets of taffeta leaves to match their dresses, and their bouquets [illegible] peach gladioli and brick color African daisies . . .

The bridesmaids' frocks are of bright blue taffeta with [illegible] like the honor attendants . . . They are the Misses [illegible] W. McNeil and Nancy S. McNeil, Gertrude Peabody, Elizabeth Marshall and Charlotte Denny, all of Boston . . . Frances [illegible] of Brookline, Ann S. Weeks of Cedarhurst, L. I., and Mrs. Martin Donahoe, Jr. (Jane Bogardus) of Radnor, Pa. . . .

Mr. and Mrs. McNeil live on Devon road, Chestnut Hill, where a small group of intimate friends of the bridal couple will repair for the reception, following the ceremony . . . There Mrs. McNeil and Mrs. Keyes, who is better known as Frances Parkinson Keyes, celebrated author of travel articles, will receive with the newlyweds . . . Mrs. McNeil has chosen a gown of dusty pink lace with a large brown picture hat, and Mrs. Keyes' costume is of black lace . . . The bridegroom's brother, Henry W. Keyes, Jr., of Boston, is serving as best man . . .

The bridal couple will live in Cambridge next winter . . . Louise is the granddaughter of Mrs. James F. McNeil of Brookline . . . she attended the May School, the Warrenton School in Virginia and the Petite Ecole in Florence, Italy . . . She was presented in the 1933-34 season . . .

Betty Shepard Makes Bow at Luncheon

AS WE HAVE REMARKED a number of times, the first debutante parties this season are taking unique and varied forms . . . Yesterday an Hawaiian influence, with flower leis and strumming ukuleles took its place among the other "different" parties at which clambakes, tennis tournaments, swimming contests and even a program of Russian entertainers such as Ellanor Petri had on Monday evening, have been some of the unusual features on the programs . . .

The large dining room at Brae Burn was decorated to simulate a tiny South Sea Island . . . with a little grass hut, small tables set under swaying palm trees and a group of native Hawaiians with their tinkling musical instruments . . . for the debut luncheon of Betty Shepard, daughter of Mrs. J. Minot Shepard of Brookline . . .

After the first formalities of greeting were over, Betty slipped a flower leis over the shoulders of each of her guests, to welcome them to her imaginary South Sea Isle and all the girls sat down to luncheon at small tables covered with exotic Hawaiian prints on raw silk or tapa cloth . . .

Betty's blondeness was enhanced by her dress of Alice blue made with a white lined cape, and she wore a leis of pale yellow carnations . . . the table was spread with long leis of fragrant Hawaiian wood roses and spread out intermittently through the room were palms and other greens sent from the island especially for the occasion . . .

Among Betty's debutante guests one couldn't help but recognize Betty Scudder from her resemblance to her post deb sister, Sally . . . Betty wore a unique dress of navy and white checked damask which resembled those old-fashioned red and white tablecloths . . .

Noel Smythe, a deb of last winter, was having one of her last flings before sailing for Europe, and one of her sister post-debs, Sally Mower had to forgo the fun of [illegible] with the throng to keep her golf tournament engagement with Elizabeth Smith . . . the partner who helped her win a four-ball contest in the morning . . .

TENNIS Postponed for Wedding Today

JANET McNEIL Boston Evening American Photo SUE CARL

NO MATTER HOW MUCH she may look like a typical American sports girl in tennis shorts, Janet McNeil will present a very alluring feminine appearance in a princess taffeta bridesmaid frock as she takes part in the wedding of her sister, Louise, this afternoon in Chestnut Hill. Virginia and Sue Carl frequently spend the morning improving their top spin drives and volleys on the tennis courts at The Country Club. Virginia is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold McNeil and Miss Carl's parents are the Walter Carls.

FETE

Mrs. Arthur Mason, Miss Mary Curtis, Mrs. George S. Mandell and Oliver Wolcott will serve on the various committees working for the annual lawn party of the Hamilton and Wenham Community Service association, according to tentative plans laid out by the board of directors at a recent meeting.

At the meeting arrangements were completed for the annual meeting of the association to be held on Friday evening, July 9.

The lawn party will be held on August 11. Benjamin Nickerson is general chairman and the committee workers have been divided into seven groups. Ray Sanford, Wallace Knowlton and Henry Phippen Jr., will be in charge of games and gymkhana, while Mrs. Mason, Miss Curtis and Mrs. John F. A. Davis will supervise the large tables of rummage, vegetables, cake, etc. The [illegible] tables of ice cream, supper, etc., will be arranged by Merrill Cummings, Gordon Hitchings and Mrs. Helena Cuddy.

Music and dancing will be supervised by Oliver Wolcott, George E. Smith and Percival Whipple, while decorations for the grounds will be planned by Mrs. George S. Mandell, Frank B. Trussell and Robert Robertson, Jr. Mrs. Edward F. Ready, Mrs. Alvin Perley and Lawrence Stone are directing the publicity and Benjamin H. Nickerson, Harold Daley and James B. Reynolds are in charge of games.

MRS. HENRY ENDICOTT and Mrs. John Lowell of Boston were special guests at the Flag Day celebration of the Colonial Dames in Providence.

ENGAGED

The engagement of Miss Betty Clark, daughter of Mrs. Scott Clark of Wynnewood, Pa., to John Wesley Cullen is of considerable interest to Boston society.

Miss Clark is the great niece of Mrs. Rudolph Agassiz and the late Mr. Agassiz of Prides Crossing and a cousin of Mrs. Hugh Scott of Wellesley and a granddaughter of Mrs. James Hutchison Scott and the late Mr. Scott who distinguished himself in the Spanish American war.

She graduated from the Agnes Irwin School and made her debut during the 1935-36 season in Philadelphia. Mr. Cullen is the son of Mrs. Edward E. Cullen Jr. of Philadelphia and the late Mr. Cullen.

Bridge Benefit at Newton Estate

Aids Infant Saviour Guild

The rolling green lawns of Woodside, spacious estate of Mr. and Mrs. M. Lester Madden of Newton, provided an attractive setting for the Guild of Infant Saviour bridge and tea yesterday.

The affair marked the beginning of the ground round of summer benefits being held for the aid of the county fair of the guild, held annually in the early fall season. Yesterday's party aided the cake and candy table. It was under the direction of Mrs. Bernard O'Rourke who wore navy sheer attractively appliqued in vari-colored flowers. Ably assisting her were Margaret Waters, tiny black buttons trimming her white sports ensemble, and Mrs. William Farrell in a dubonnet sheer topped by a wide-brimmed straw.

DAINTY GOWN

Mrs. John Casey, who wore a dainty number of turquoise blue voile trimmed with lace, was accompanied by Mrs. George V. Gerter whose grey costume was edged with purple.

All the staunch supporters of the guild and its activities were on hand. Mrs. G. Frank Sullivan, in a lovely sheer costume of flowered chiffon. Mrs. Mary O'Leary Finucane in a costume of maywine and white and Mrs. Thomas P. Feeny in a black and white printed chiffon with white accessories.

President and former president of the guild were on hand. Mrs. Andrew J. Porter in an unusual ensemble of luggage tan and green accompanied by her daughter Mary, recently graduated from Trinity College in Washington, D. C., and Mrs. William McDermott, former president, in a black crepe redingote, chiffon splashed with spring flowers.

Glimpsed Mary Corcoran, active treasurer of the guild, entertaining a group of friends at her table. Among them was Mrs. Daniel Mahoney, exceptionally smart in a white crepe costume topped by a sage green cape richly embroidered in white scroll.

WINCHESTER BRIDGE

Center of another group was Mrs. David Johnson. At another table was Dr. Mary Moore Beatty and Josephine Hartigan. Both will take part in a number of summer benefits which get underway shortly at the shore.

On next Tuesday the Winchester Chapter moves into the limelight with its summer bridge at the Rockport Country Club.

This spot with its spacious verandas and lovely view of the ocean is the center of many summer activities on the North Shore.

For those desiring it, luncheon will be served at the clubhouse with Mrs. M. H. Hinthan, a former president of the group, serving as hostess.

Tickets for the party, which benefits the Winchester Chapter's table at the fall fair, are in charge of Mrs. H. G. Osterberg and Mrs. Thomas Hennessey.

Chairman of the party is Mrs. James Gaffney, president of the group and assisting with the reception of guests will be Mrs. James Carr, Mrs. Richard O'Rourke, Mrs. O. J. Logue and Mrs. John O'Leary.

Mrs. A. H. L. DeMorris is selecting prizes. Transportation is being arranged by Mrs. Robert Cavanaugh and Mrs. Thomas McDonough and decorations are being planned by Mrs. Michael Meagher and Mrs. Thomas Feeney.

Others lending their support to the party are Mrs. Thomas Riley, who chairmans the hospitality committee, Mrs. Allen Beausang, Mrs. J. J. Costello, Mrs. William Croughwell, Mrs. Charles Farrar, Mrs. Edward McDonald, Mrs. Ralph Sexton, Mrs. Phillip O'Rourke, Mrs. Malino Moffett and Josephine Brine.

By HAZEL LIVINGSTON

CHAPTER 33

He looked at the tiny kitchen, lost under its burden of paper bags and parcels. She had bought enough stuff to feed the army. "If this is to be paid for, maybe it was as well that I was out trying to make some money."

She was sitting on the floor with all the usual contents of the [illegible] piled around her. "I don't think I can get this roast of beef in after all . . . what did you say, Ed? Did you say you made some money?"

[illegible] said I tried to. There's a little difference. When do we eat? I'm starved."

"Why—I didn't really get anything for tonight. I thought—"

"Put on your hat, then—we'll go out."

HEATED WORDS

"Come on," [illegible] "I'm too nervous to hang around the place."

[illegible]

"Think it's worth the struggle?"

"What struggle?"

"You know what I mean. Working—trying to keep house, giving it up and having most of our meals out?"

"Yes! Don't you?"

He [illegible] hard it [illegible]

"I can't say that it's been heaven on the whole. And I'm darned if I know why you invited the whole tribe over today. I did think we could go over to the country club and get in a swim."

"We don't belong, as far as I know."

"No, we don't as yet. But Helene does and she's invited us—"

"I'm sorry. We're entertaining your relatives. Not that it makes any difference one way or the other. It's all the same to me!"

"I'm sorry you've taken such an unreasonable dislike to Helene. She's a sweet kid, really, and she'd like to do something for you. Have you out to the club—and things like that—"

"I haven't taken a dislike to her. I'm just too busy with my job and your relatives—and the dinner I'm going to give them—to care whether she's white or black!"

WHY TELL?

They left the smoky little White kitchen where they had breakfasted, went back to the car. As he started the motor Edward set his lips tight. "Too busy with your job. You said it, Marie."

She wouldn't answer. Why tell him that [illegible] only taken the job because he couldn't support her? Why tell him that jobs had a way of taking most of a person's time and energy? He wouldn't understand.

"Anything for me to do?" he asked formally, as he deposited her at the apartment house door. His plan for flight was all too apparent.

"Lots," she said. "I'd like you to peel the potatoes and shell the peas while I set the table—that is, unless you have something more important to do!"

She looked at the clock. "Ten o'clock!" Edward—and they're coming at two! Oh, we'll never make it. We'll never manage."

"Mom always got most of the things done the day before."

"When I've kept house as long as your mother maybe I will, too!"

It was surprising what Edward could do when he wanted to. Out of the paper bags and [illegible] came order and neat pots and pans of peeled potatoes, shelled peas, lettuce, cucumbers, tomatoes [illegible].

He was finished long before she was through struggling with the table, which insisted upon looking crowded, no matter what she did.

But if it was crowded it was also impressive, with all Walt's silver and a magnificent centerpiece of fruit—a pineapple and pomegranates and grapes and bananas and peaches and apricots [illegible]

With Edward [illegible]

[illegible]

"Well, this is great!" he puffed, lowering himself onto the Chesterfield.

"I should say so," said Aunt Jess, seating herself beside him.

The bell rang again. The Lenares had arrived.

"Well, children, well, Jessie—"

"How'ya Clem."

"How'ya Bert—and Eddie! Well! Well!"

Aunt Ada took the armchair and Clem wedged himself on the sofa beside the Hortons. The boys, Edwin and Irwin, after mumbled greetings propped themselves against the window [illegible] looked out disconsolately.

"Where's your mother?" Ada wanted to know.

"Good NIGHT!" Edward had forgotten to go for them.

Her face stiff with smiling Marie hovered between the guests and the kitchen.

It was almost two and [illegible]

Maybe she should have [illegible]

The W[illegible] the effects of waiting [illegible] with Edward at [illegible]

"What do you hear from Bee?" Jessie asked.

"Oh, she's getting along fine."

"Well! That's nice," Ada said. "I told Clem, it wasn't as if she was a real young girl. I guess she's old enough to know her own mind, I said.

"I said, if she's not going to marry, then I guess the place for a career is New York. That's what they say. And I told Clem's cousin, Mis' Metzger, I said, Bee's always been a good girl.

"I never heard of Mattie having any trouble with her. I said if you raise your children right—"

Mrs. Wilson said, "She's got dinner ready, I think. Edward, find out, are we supposed to sit down?"

CodLiverOil, Sunlight

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D.

At this time of the year I receive letters asking about cod liver oil. Most mothers want to know whether it is necessary to continue the oil during the summer months.

For the very young infant who is still confined to the [illegible] carriage it is well to continue the cod liver oil during the summer.

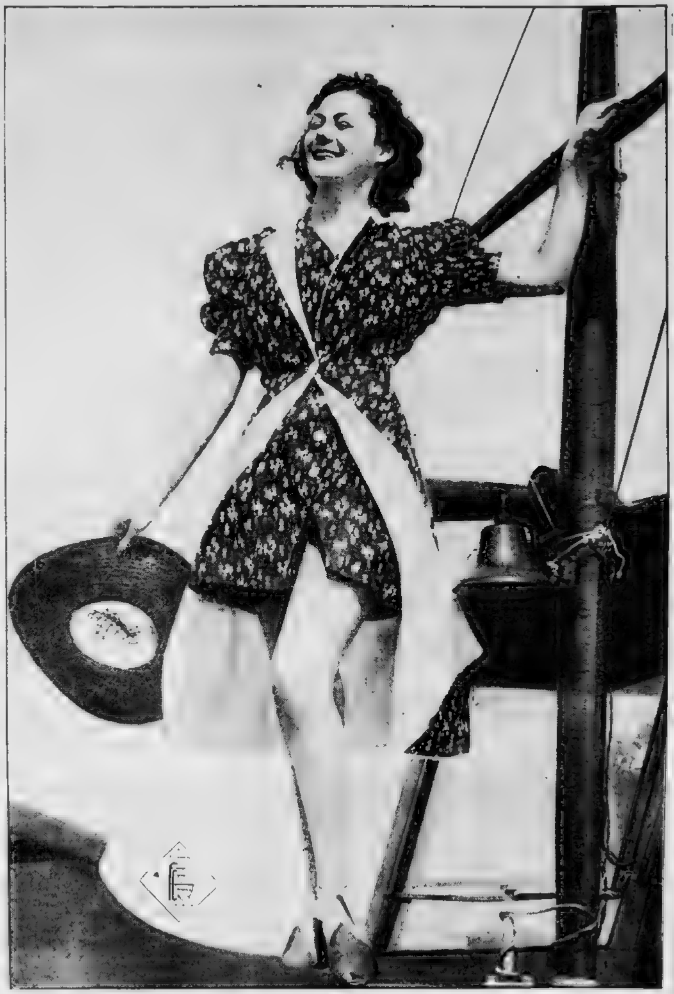
For the older child who gets about and is permitted to play in the sun, it is different. He receives an abundant supply of direct sunlight and the use of the oil may be discontinued. Of course, in certain forms of vitamin deficiency diseases it is best to continue the administration of cod liver oil throughout the year.

This is particularly true if the child is a victim of rickets. As no doubt you know, rickets is a vitamin deficiency disease.

It results from a lack of vitamin D in the body. This vitamin is abundantly found in cod liver oil and that is the chief reason for its use.

I cannot overstate its value in the diet of every infant and growing child. Being rich in vitamin D, it helps the normal growth of sturdy bones and teeth. In addition [illegible] the body to [illegible] minerals such as lime and phosphorus.

Off to Sea in Pique and Toweling



IT BRINGS gaiety up to a new high pitch, this "Matchmaker" sea ensemble that earned a Fashion Congress tag of approval.

It's exuberant as a high wind, and slick and trim as the yacht on which Miss Dorothy Watters' feet are firmly planted. Firmly planted, we might add, in some of the smartest beach sandals you'll find—navy linen with a pointed high rise front.

Wine or navy pique is printed with a white leaf-like design, and then this richness of texture and color is set off by much white toweling—lining the coat, which may be worn inside out.

Marvelous lines on the suit, with V neck and button-down front.

Fitted effect on the coat, a flattering length and a slight dip of full skirt in the back. The ensemble (or either piece may be bought separately) is much, much less than you'd expect.

For shopping information, phone Annice Brink, Fashion Editor, Liberty 4000, week-days until five, or write her at the Boston Evening American.

DON'T wait until you are ready to take out more life insurance to have a physical check-over. [illegible]

Do you know that during the past thirty-four years degenerative diseases have increased fifty-four per cent?

This increase is notably among middle-aged men, most of whom do not realize that conditions of heart disease, hardening of the arteries, high blood pressure and kidney complications may be alleviated if recognized in time.

Women may [illegible] about their health, but men go to the other extreme and do nothing until definite symptoms appear.

By the time these symptoms make their appearance the condition may have existed for years and the damage may be too great to repair. [illegible]

[illegible]

The following [illegible] suggested by Dr. [illegible] Commissioner of Health of the [illegible] of New York [illegible]

TWELVE SUBSTITUTES WORTH THINKING ABOUT AFTER FORTY

One hour less worry for one more hour of laughter.

One less week of high pressure living for one more week of restful vacation.

One less luncheon conference for one more midday period of relaxation.

One less evening of formal society for one more evening with a jolly book.

One less hour under the electric light for one more hour in sunshine.

One less banquet for one more quiet supper with the family.

One less hour in the auto for one more swinging along on foot.

One less hour of work for one hour of physical examination by your doctor.

One less pound of body fat for one more of tougher muscle.

One less helping of meat for one more of vegetables.

One less cocktail for one more hour of sleep.

One less cigar for a half hour more of exercise.

ADVICE on LOVE and MARRIAGE -:- By Beatrice Fairfax

The 'Danger Age' Prompts Touching Appeal From Troubled Reader

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

[illegible] of 34 should imagine she's exempt [illegible] fevers is a mystery to me. [illegible] brings a letter from a woman at [illegible] who seems to think she's to be [illegible]

Miss Fairfax,

[illegible] love, who was a fel-[illegible] in high school, and [illegible] engaged the Christmas [illegible] graduation. At [illegible] he was in medical [illegible] father was a physician well established, he intended to take his son as an assistant as soon as he graduated in medicine.

"We were to be married at that time.

"Then this boy, whom I loved devotedly, got typhoid fever during an epidemic, and in spite of everything died. I was so brokenhearted that I went into volunteer nursing, hoping I'd contract some violent illness of die too. But that sort of thing never happens.

"I went on, year after year, in this dreary way, until finally I met the man with whom I have fallen in love.

"He has been married before. His wife is dead and he has two children.

"My sister tells me, unsympathetically enough, that he is marrying me to get a free caretaker for his children.

"I am really deeply in love, and I'm very fond of his children. Am I disloyal to my first love, if I marry this man?

"And am I as foolish as my family say I am?"

"SHOULD-BE-WISER."

Since my correspondent is evidently a sweet-tempered, warm-[illegible] young woman with a great capacity for love, probably a husband and two ready-made children is just what she needs to make her happy.

And I hope she will close her ears to the unkind remarks of her sister, who tells her she is being married by this widower as a convenience.

A lonely middle age is not an enviable thing, and "Should-Be-Wiser" will certainly not be lonely if she makes this marriage and acquires a husband and two ready-made children.

In questioning the great adventure of life—falling in love—it seems better to take a safe risk rather than mull over the pros and cons until it is too late and one finds oneself on the same old cinder path, going 'round and 'round, one day exactly like the other.

Best wishes to "Should-Be-Wiser."

Magic Ritual of Home-Grooming

By ALINE GOULD

YOU'VE been hearing about depilatories for a good many years. Whether you've been dithering with them or not, is something else again.

Some are so good as to warrant real badges of distinction, while others raise all sorts of grim problems and perplexities.

However, if you are really serious about getting rid of unwanted hair, there are certain definite things to be done in relation to this responsibility.

One of the very nicest of these is a "dry" shaver, an electrically-controlled affair, that follows every curve with almost uncanny simplicity.

Coarse hair is not only quickly and easily removed, but the skin is left smooth and velvety. Electric shavers are not new, but their high purchase price has kept thousands of men and women from using them.

Now comes one, super-built, efficient and dependable and so reasonable in cost, that there is no longer any excuse for unwanted hair. It is made for both men and women and the complete absence of fuss and bother attending the old style of razor shaving, should endear it to men in particular.

With Father's Day on Sunday [illegible] than this new [illegible] which affords complete shaving satisfaction.

If used every day it consumes [illegible] worth of current [illegible] guarantee, of course, and for simplicity and bathroom elegance is [illegible] unequalled.

So if you've experimented with depilatories and found them not quite to your liking, try this dry shaver. Or if you want to be really generous and give father a gift that he will prize for years to come (a gift that he will honestly welcome), make him a present of one Sunday morning.

It's a safe and splendid bet both ways and it will rid offending hair on the face, arms and legs as nothing you have ever tried.

To learn the name of this new "dry shaver" that can be purchased now at a very minimum of cost, call Arline Gould, Liberty 4000, week days until 5, or write to her at the Boston Evening American, enclosing a self-addressed envelope.

Tasty Dishes That Made Boston Famous

Celebrate Bunker Hill Day With a Patriotic Picnic or Dinner

FROM MARTHA LEE'S WEDNESDAY MORNING BROADCAST OVER STATION WMEX

JUNE 17th is Bunker Hill Day, all you historians and menu-makers!

Remember (or does your memory for dates stop at 1492?), how, in 1775, the gallant Revolutionary forces of Putnam and Prescott waited until they could "see the whites of their eyes" and then swarmed over the enemy on Breed's Hill to win against outnumbered odds?

Bunker Hill Day or Picnic Day, it is an occasion to celebrate with foods that made Boston famous!

Baked beans and brown bread you know about, then there's fish, from scallops to flaky cod and gingerbread and [illegible] cherry pie and all manner of good things.

[illegible]

BLUEBERRY MUFFINS

2 cups flour
[illegible] teaspoon salt
2½ teaspoons baking powder
[illegible] cup blueberries
[illegible] cup sugar
1 egg
[illegible] cup milk
[illegible] shortening

[illegible] through batter. Dip batter from bowl into well-greased muffin pans; fill each cup two-thirds full. Bake in a hot oven (400 F.) for 20 to 30 minutes, according to size.

General of all the Revolutionary forces was, of course, Father of our Country; he liked gingerbread best, and Bunker Hill loves it still and serves it with "sass."

WASHINGTON GINGERBREAD WITH APPLE SAUCE

1 cup molasses
Butter size of an egg
½ cup sour cream
1 level teaspoon soda
1 egg
2¼ cups flour (pastry)
2 teaspoons ginger
A little mace
Salt

Mix molasses and butter melted. Add beaten egg. Dissolve soda in cream. Add to molasses. Sift in flour with spices and salt last. Bake in a moderate oven or at 350 F.

Note—This recipe is a real old timer and if your modern culinary eye can't measure the butter the size of an egg use 4 tablespoons and the results should be perfect.

When done split gingerbread through the middle lengthwise. Combine [illegible] of [illegible] with beaten egg white, and spread [illegible] on [illegible] layer. Replace top layer and serve with added [illegible] whipped apple sauce or with whipped cream.

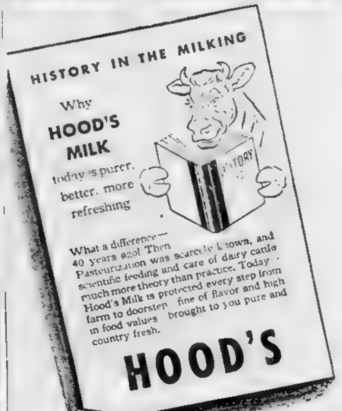
HOOD'S MILK — it's always good!

HOOD'S it's always good!



HISTORY IN THE MILKING

Why HOOD'S MILK today is purer, better, more refreshing

What a difference—40 years ago! Then Pasteurization was scarcely known, and scientific feeding and care of dairy cattle much more theory than practice. Today Hood's Milk is protected every step from farm to doorstep . . . fine of flavor and high in food values . . . brought to you pure and country fresh.

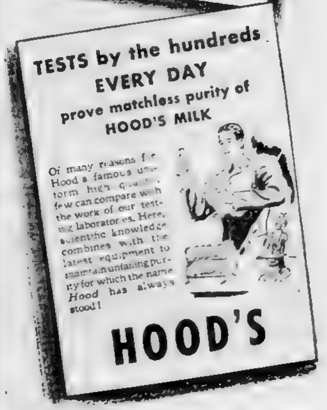
HOOD'S

Two Minutes for Lunch . . .

A glass of HOOD'S MILK fills the bill

No time for cooking? Then have a glass of good Hood's milk. It's a meal-in-one, balanced by nature to make the perfect food.

HOOD'S



TESTS by the hundreds EVERY DAY prove matchless purity of HOOD'S MILK

Of many reasons for Hood's famous uniform high quality, few can compare with the work of our testing laboratories. Here, scientific knowledge combines with the latest equipment to maintain unfailing purity for which the name Hood has always stood!

BOSTON after DARK

[illegible] HOLLAND

Now while it was generally hot around and about [illegible]day, it was a bit hotter on the golf links of a [illegible] so far west out of Boston that you can't make it with a dime phone call . . . Probably the lads at the club, who figured they had it all hushed up, will be chagrined to find it has leaked this far, but it can't be helped . . . Anyway, some of the better knowns were out on the putting meadows when the talk got around to politics and the like . . . A downtown commercial photographer made some such crack that he thought it a shame and etc. that judgeships and other important posts had gone, and were going, to ex-senators and ex-representatives who had to look in the directory [illegible] to find the way to the State House every day while they were serving . . . Well, in the party was a noted judge who formerly was in the Legislature, and the judicial back hair rose and he took the camera lad to task in words such as these: "Come, come, now, my friend, do not forget that I, too, was once a legislator!" . . .

With this the portrait snapper snapped back how [illegible] he forget it, and if present company wanted a hat [illegible] didn't they wear it—or something like that . . . [illegible] thing now being out in the open as no kidding matter, one word led to another and the photographer [illegible]ally threw a fist in the direction of the gentleman of [illegible] bench . . . Politely ducking the breeze, the jurist boomed a hard right from his pistol pocket and golfed the lad of the lens neatly in the eye, spanking him down [illegible]n the seat of his breeches . . . He was towed into the [illegible]ubhouse, horizontally, and has been wearing dark [illegible]asses . . .

Morning WILL Come:

When the newcomer came in he had the shakes so bad he could have clicked castanets just by holding them . . . One jaw was swollen, his nose was skinned and there was a purple blob on one cheekbone . . . "What happened?" asked the barkeep, solicitously, as he reached for the favorite . . . Downing two quick ones, the lad whooshed out a relieved breath . . . "I fell down," he said, "while shaving." . . .

Fur Flies on the Post Road:

New Comedy Team Star In Film

Hollywood's newest comedy team, Bob Burns and Martha Raye, are co-starred in "Mountain Music," [illegible] story of love among the [illegible] which comes to the Metropolitan Theater tomorrow.

The stage show for the week will be "Swingin' in the Breeze," brand new [illegible] featuring Lester Cole and his Singing Midshipmen, plus a large cast of popular stars.

MacKinlay Kantor, author of "The Voice of Bugle Ann," wrote "Mountain Music," which is said to be [illegible] to Burns' unique talents. Its locale is the Ozark Mountain region, Burns' native heath, the fame of which he has added to in his newspaper column and radio broadcasts.

The title is no misnomer—there will be plenty of [illegible] music in the Met's impending picture, we are assured, as well as feudin' and courtin' and [illegible] wedding.

In addition to Burns and Raye, the cast [illegible] John Howard and Terry Walker, Paramount's "magazine cover girl," who makes her debut in this picture. Others are Rufe Davis, ex-Oklahoma cotton chopper, Fuzzy Knight, Charles Timblin and Jan Duggan. Benjamin Glazer [illegible] directs.

Besides Lester Cole and his Singing Midshipmen, the "Swingin' in the Breeze" revue boasts Dr. Ostermaier's [illegible], formerly starred in the New York stage sensation, "Jumbo," and more recently seen in the Ringling Brothers and Bailey Circus. Others in the cast are McK[illegible] and Lavaile, Sunny Rice, Violet Carlson, [illegible] Lebanon Trio and the fast stepping Metropolitan Swing-O-Paters.

Two of Warner Brothers' outstanding [illegible] "Kid Galahad," a fight story that doesn't pull its punches, and "That Man's Here Again," hilarious comedy of a wealthy eccentric's attempts to bring happiness into the lives of those less fortunate.

Bette Davis and Edward G. Robinson are co-starred in "Kid Galahad," in which Humphrey Bogart, Wayne Morris and Jane Bryan are prominently featured.

Interesting feature of the film is that Miss Davis sings for the first time on the screen.

"That Man's Here Again" presents Hugh Herbert in the [illegible] of his career, the role of an eccentric art collector who is habitually genial and [illegible].

The supporting cast includes Mary Maguire, Tom Brown and Joseph King.

Connolly in 'Gone With the Wind'

Los Angeles, June 16—Walter Connolly, who has played innumerable Irish characters and Irish fathers on the screen, is the first actor to be signed for "Gone With the Wind." He is to play the role of Gerald, the Irish father of Scarlett O'Hara, and although the Selznick company may not verify this, it is the truth. The deal was made at the time Walter was borrowed for the Carole Lombard-Fredric March picture, "Nothing Sacred."

Louella O Parsons

Paulette Goddard for "Scarlett" also looms as more than a mere possibility. A test will be made shortly of Miss Goddard for this part. The only "fly in the ointment" that may prohibit her from appearing in the far-famed Margaret Mitchell story, is the asking price of $100,000. That's a lot of money for a girl who only made one picture and whose only claim to fame is being Mrs. Charles Chaplin.

Clark Gable, we [illegible] not play the role of Rhett Butler, since David Selznick is [illegible] in wanting to choose a Rhett from among the unknowns. He believes that "Gone With the Wind" will create new stars for him.

In the golden days of silence when beautiful, tuneful numbers were impossible to incorporate on the screen, "The Red Mill" was made by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer with Marion Davies as the star, and Owen Moore in the role of Captain Van Dam. How well I remember Marion with the blonde hair, little Dutch cap and wooden shoes.

Now M-G-M is remaking "The Red Mill" with Victor Herbert's tuneful music and Henry Blossom's lyrics. In the Davies role will be the new importation, Dana Lind, and Allan Jones will have the Moore part. Larry Weingarten, who is on his way to Europe, will produce it as his first picture when he returns from his holiday.

The loud weeping that's been heard around the world is Buddy De Sylva's tears. Darryl Zanuck had to take back his promise to lend Alice Faye for the De Sylva musical "A Young Man's Fancy" because due to Jean Harlow's passing Alice is needed for "In Old Chicago."

Chatter in Hollywood: Today is Jeanette MacDonald and Gene Raymond's wedding day—a day that has been looked forward to for over a year by all Hollywood. And I don't believe any bride ever received such beautiful presents as those that are being sent this popular pair. The gift from Nicholas Schenck and Louis B. Mayer is a car load of silver—well, anyway, two dozen solid silver service plates and a huge chest of flat silver. What a gift!

A line or two: Straight from my RKO spy, I hear that Katharine Hepburn is eating right out of the hand of Gregory La Cava and that she hasn't been such a good girl since George Cukor was on the lot. Wonder if all this could be because "Hep" realizes how badly she needs a smash picture . . . Foreign importations are so numerous lately, they haven't been [illegible] much [illegible] in Hollywood, but [illegible] will be different when [illegible], the Italian star, and [illegible] on her [illegible]

Jibe Maestro Reveals His Secrets

MEROFF WINS JITTER BUGS

By PEGGY DOYLE

[illegible]

Jitterbug—An ardent devotee of jibe music

Cats—Men of the orchestra

Barrelhousing—Each "cat" improvising for himself

Rubbing the high C—Just playing around in the highest register

Lick—A hot phrase in rhythm

Break—A hot phrase by a solo instrumentalist

Corn—Melodies played according to the standards of a few years back, i. e., old-fashioned playing

Noodler—Saxophone player who improvises

Break it down—"Going to town" via music

Monday player—A "cat" plays a sour note

Freak lip—A musician who plays hot one night and the classics the next

HE'LL TELL YOU

[illegible]

"What's jibe?" repeats the Meroff with a shrug. "That's easy. It's all the instruments jiving with each other. I named it jibe myself (this with pardonable pride). Jibe music, like most of the 'hot music' of the day, originated in New Orleans. I discovered it there among the marihuana-fogged bandsmen, who first got themselves 'high' on the weed in order to get into 'the outer world' from whence all these weird improvisations [illegible].

"Jibe, if you know what I mean, is orchestrated jam. And 'jam,' in case you don't know your modern syncopation, is a session in which it's every man for himself. Every musician takes the opportunity to be himself. In jibe, the individual work is carried over into sections of instruments. It's jam, in ensemble effect!

"In six months jibe music will have superseded swing. It can't fail to if we click like everybody expects us to. Why is jibe going to make swing take the count? To begin with, jibe is [illegible] faster than swing. You [illegible] that Cab Calloway is wild? [illegible] were twice as wild. You [illegible] to compare the record [illegible]

[illegible] different theaters together.

The hottest retort to be had from the good-natured Goodman was to the effect that:

"Swing has been coming on in this country for 15 years and it hasn't reached maturity yet and as for jibe, give it six months more."

To which Mister Meroff came back with:

"Jibe's here to stay, why even Goodman is jibing now. He may not know it but he's jibing more than ever before. So are a dozen other bands. You see, jibe is a step in advance of swing."

SENATE SPLIT ON RELIEF BILL

Washington, June 16 (INS)—With its Democratic ranks split the Senate today faced a major battle over a provision of the $1,500,000,000 relief bill calling for mandatory local contributions to the cost of all non-Federal Works Progress Administration relief projects.

President Roosevelt was injected directly into the contest when foes of the provision charged it would be a reflection upon him after he has expended around $12,000,000,000 of relief funds without any [illegible] restrictions. The President watered the party split by opposing the provision.

What this extra jacket does for you

NOVEMBER, 1930 . . . Double-Mellow OLD GOLDS were first to use a Cellophane wrapper as an added protection for cigarettes.

A good idea. So good that all other cigarette manufacturers adopted Cellophane, too. A good idea—but not good enough.

OCTOBER, 1935 . . . Double-Mellow OLD GOLDS introduced the EXTRA jacket. Double Cellophane. Double wrapping. Insuring the American cigarette smoker—for the first time—truly FRESH cigarettes anywhere he buys them.

TODAY . . . The OLD GOLD weather-tight, climate-proof package is no longer a theory. That the EXTRA jacket actually does deliver FRESHNESS to the smoker has been proved day in and day out over a period of nearly two years. And proved in every kind of climate: hot, cold, dry or damp.

So the OLD GOLD smoker enjoys not only the luxury of the choicest prize crop tobaccos. Not only the celebrated OLD GOLD double-mellow blend obtained by exclusive Lorillard methods.

He enjoys these fine qualities at their best—at their top form. Because Double-Mellow OLD GOLDS are always FRESH, thanks to the EXTRA jacket.

Always FRESH. Never stale. Always wholesome. Never irritating. Always full-flavored. Never weather-weary and climate-worn.

THIS IS LIFE

By

Robert E. Rogers

To Mr. George W. Coleman,
The Ford Hall Forum,
Boston, Mass.
My dear Mr. Coleman:

They tell me that you are celebrating your seventieth birthday today. That's a lot of time to have been going to and fro on the earth and walking up and down in it. But nowadays we don't take it as seriously as they did in the days of the Psalmist. Seventy years used to be the limit, he told us, but if by reason of strength they were four score years, then was their strength, labor and sorrow. We don't believe that nowadays. Seventy years is a matter of course now, and likewise a healthy head of hair like yours, and a cheek like a boy's.

ROBERT E. ROGERS

So long as you wear those half portion eye glasses of yours hanging on one ear I won't believe that you need 'em at all. And so long as you can fill Ford Hall with that strong half-nasal drawl of yours I'll know that you have the Psalmist licked

There's only one of you, of course, in Boston. Probably in the United States. And there's only one Ford Hall. David Niles tells me that next autumn the Ford Hall Folks will begin celebrating their thirtieth year. Your seventieth and Ford Hall's thirtieth will probably be celebrated together with a terrific whoop-de-doo . . . in a nice way of course

Ford Hall Model For Many Forums

And because of you there are a lot of little Ford Halls scattered round the United States, founded in imitation of yours and carried on pretty much in the same way. The Open Forum movement in this part of the world is quite as much yours as the original from which it stems. A good many of these various forums have hardly done as well as yours at Bowdoin and Ashburton, but that's because you can't be at them all to keep them going.

Originally, I understand, the Baptists sort of underwrote the Forum for you. That is, enough of them had faith in what you were doing to allow the Forum to use the quarters of the Social Union for its liberal, not to say radical, goings on. But in the past decade we experienced here as elsewhere a kind of tightening up of peace on earth good will to men.

Some Forumites Have Revolutionary Ideas

And that let a lot of the Ford Hall Folks out. Some of them are not particularly men (and women) of good will. They'd like to overturn some of our ancient institutions and smash them proper. Many of them, at that, are people who nowhere else in the world would have been given such opportunities to get on as here in the United States. So far as I can tell they are not particularly grateful. They don't care much about the American Plan. They prefer a Five Year Muscovite Plan—with firing squads.

But I will say that when you found you had to go it alone on the Forum without Baptist help they rallied nobly to finance it and support it. It has never been easy. Even this year there is a $500 deficit which the faithful are hoping to pay off in honor of your and the Forum's birthday. If every man and woman who ever heard even one memorable address on a Sunday evening were to send in a dollar, not only would the deficit be paid off but there'd be a permanent endowment for the work.

Long Life Proof of Forum's Success

The work has gone on very successfully for these thirty years. One of the proofs of its success is the undoubted fact that Boston has been and is free of serious labor troubles. There is a spirit of get-together and conciliation and compromise here which may stem from Ford Hall. I hope so.

There's a lot of people in these parts who would agree with Voltaire in saying that they don't approve what many of your speakers say, but they will stand up for having a place like Ford Hall, where such things may be said. And there's nobody in Boston who does not agree that behind the Forum is absolutely disinterestedness of purpose, integrity of intention, and unusual quality of brains. Maybe that's what we need to be saved. Anyway, Boston is one of the few places in these states where the conservatives and reactionaries can and do habitually give the radicals useful lessons in tolerance and forbearance and cooperation. Ford Hall has helped to do that. Long life to it—and to you!

ANN MARSTERS In Hollywood • A NEW SERIES

Jeanette Is Bride Today

This is Jeanette MacDonald's day of joy and in this chapter of her new Hollywood series Miss Marsters interviews Filmdom's latest bride. Miss MacDonald tells why she is happy and gives an inkling of what her future will be like as the wife of Gene Raymond. Their honeymoon is to be spent in Hawaii and the Orient. Miss Marsters' Hollywood series appears daily in the Boston Evening American and Sunday Advertiser.

By ANN MARSTERS
Boston Evening American Staff Writer
CHAPTER 24

Hollywood, Cal.

This is Jeanette MacDonald's wedding day. When she becomes the bride of Gene Raymond, it will be with all the solemnity and tradition of orange blossoms and white satin.

Jeanette is an old-fashioned girl at heart, who doesn't believe in flying elopements. She wanted her wedding to be beautifully and properly planned.

I saw her just before she completed her latest picture "The Firefly," for M.G.M., which was being rushed through so that nothing would interfere with her wedding plans.

She was glowingly happy, and so much in love that she found it not quite as easy as usual to memorize her lines. Now and then, when she would stumble over a line, she would laugh gaily and say

"Perhaps I'd better have it written on a blackboard."

Honeymoon Plans

Between scenes, she talked about the plans she has been making ever since last August, when she and Gene Raymond became engaged.

"I wanted to wait," she said, "until we could have a real honeymoon, and it was impossible, until now, for either of us to get much time off from our studios.

"We are going to take a three months' honeymoon to Hawaii and the Orient. I've been to Honolulu, but Gene never has—and we're both so delighted about it, that it's a wonder we don't just drop everything and run away.

"Yet I've always felt that no girl should wilfully deny herself a beautiful, formal wedding, and a lovely trousseau to go with it."

Certainly Jeanette has the loveliest trousseau that money could buy.

"About half of it," she said, smiling, "is in beach clothes—because I expect to do a lot of swimming in Honolulu. I have lots of bathing suits and sandals and beach coats and a couple of huge beach hats. I probably won't wear the beach hats, because I want to get a nice tan. Still—I think beach hats are wonderfully becoming.

"Bathing suits are SO difficult to buy," she went on, with a serious frown. "You never know which one you're going to like until you've worn them all—so the only thing to do is buy one of each type."

That sounds very sensible—if you can afford it—and Jeanette's plan for her future home is sensible, too.

She and Gene have their new home in San Fernando Valley already near completion. They have selected most of the furnishings, and when they return from their honeymoon, their home will be ready for them.

It seems, on the whole, the most sensible, normal, and nicest Hollywood marriage that we've heard of in a long time.

ANN MARSTERS JEANETTE MacDONALD

Jeanette MacDonald, singing star of the movies, shown on M-G-M lot with Ann Marsters, Boston girl reporter, is bubbling over with joy because today she becomes the bride of Gene Raymond, also a singer in the films. There is a new quality in her voice since her engagement, say critics. The warblers will spend their honeymoon in Honolulu. Miss Marsters is attired in costume she wore while playing "bit" in a recent picture.

Songbird To Wed Raymond

And Jeanette herself is sensible, normal and nice. She is lighthearted too—so lighthearted that she expresses her joy not only in her eyes, but in her walk and her gestures. (Gene Raymond has something to do with it, they say.)

They say, too, that Jeanette's voice has improved tremendously in the past year.

Robert Leonard, her director in "The Firefly," insists that her singing has improved about thirty per cent.

"I noticed," he said, "that when 'Maytime' was released, some of the critics suggested that she sang better because she was in love. Well—I'm no authority on that subject. Perhaps some psychologist could explain the theory that love, by making its victims lighthearted, permits them to reach new and higher notes. There may be something in it.

"But my personal opinion is that the explanation is much simpler than that. It's just continued hard work, day after day, never being satisfied, always reaching for greater perfection. That, to me, is the secret of Jeanette's improvement."

It is true that Jeanette is never quite satisfied with her own singing or acting, and she is forever striving to do better.

Stays Ambitious

Self-satisfaction, she believes, is anyone's worst enemy.

Jeanette said

"The minute you let yourself ride along on the wave, just because people around you are telling you how wonderful you are—then you're sunk

"I feel, too, that screen stars should fight against slipping into a rut and becoming known for just one type of performance. I want to keep on changing my characterizations. I never want to be typed, or permanently teamed with anyone—on the screen, I mean."

In "The Firefly," Jeanette portrays an adventurous and vixenish Spanish entertainer of the early Napoleonic period.

And you will be surprised, perhaps, to see her as a dancer as well as a singer. But Jeanette's career has included a period of dancing in musical comedy on the New York stage.

"This picture," said Jeanette, "has been the most strenuous I've ever done, what with having to brush up on my dancing for several hours a day.

"It will be so wonderful to be in Honolulu—being lazy in the sun."

That reminds us again that this is Jeanette MacDonald's wedding day. And so—congratulations Mr Raymond.

Tomorrow—How Songs Are Born—Ann Marsters gives a closeup of the famous Hollywood song-writing team, Gordon and Revel, at work.)

$5 for Your Ideas on Jean Harlow Film

WHAT do you think of the extraordinary plan to release Jean Harlow's picture, "Saratoga," on which she was working until a few days before her death?

M-G-M officials are considering leaving intact all the scenes which Jean made; having the remaining scenes completed by another actress.

To bridge the gap between the living and the dead, Lionel Barrymore would announce on the screen that, because of the passing of Jean Harlow, another actress had finished the picture.

Write your opinion of such a plan to Ann Marsters, Boston American

Five dollars will be paid for each letter, on this subject, published in the Green Spotlight section of the Boston Sunday Advertiser next Sunday. Letters must not exceed 200 words.

4 Win High Honors At Wellesley

Decades hence when they are old and gray four pretty Wellesley seniors will look back to June, 1937 as the proudest [illegible] most glamorous time of their lives.

The quartet have been chosen to receive the most signal honors that can be bestowed upon any of the fair co-eds at the famous fount of knowledge.

That [illegible] is the office of senior marshal. With it goes all the prestige and dignity that indicates character, charm, ability and precedence.

Miss Edar Fleming of Bethesda, Md., chairman of the House President's Council and Miss Mary Bruce Taylor of Montclair, N. J., president of the class of '38, will be senior marshals at baccalaureate services.

Miss Katherine Forsyth of Ben Avon, Pa., president of the college government board and Miss Catherine Parker of Oxford, N. Y., chief justice of the college superior court will serve as senior marshals at commencement. Dressed entirely in white this quartet will direct ushers who show guests to their seats. They will carry white batons, their symbol of office.

They also will lead the procession of graduates into the chapel, counting them off in order into their row of seats.

Imagine a year of study at the "School for Fashion Careers" at Nine Rockefeller plaza in New York City, established by the famous stylist Tobe and the equally famous Julia Coburn, whose long style career included a Hearst connection and being fashion helmsman of a woman's magazine

Jordan Marsh Company is godfather, sponsoring a contest which will surely find New England's best fashion talent as surely as it exists. No matter what ramification beckons — the buying end, advertising, designing, editorial, radio work, publicity, shop counseling—some young woman is going to have the road cleared ahead of her as though all the green lights flashed on, sirens screamed and a motor cycle escort sped her on!

Two Years of College Desirable for Contestant

Seven hundred dollars' worth of tuition is the prize, but the winner must be prepared to pay her own living expenses in New York. It will be impossible to work for expenses and study, too, because courses and field-work are to be intensive, taking the best hours of the day and many of the evening.

Winning is definitely not a matter of chance. The winner must work hard for her goal, and prove herself ideally fitted to undertake the work. Requirements for entrance: Good background and education, preferably with at least two years of college, junior college or art school, or equivalent in travel; each applicant must be 21 years of age by September 13, 1937, the day on which the Fashion Careers School opens.

Register at Jordan Marsh Company's Fashion Center, any time from Monday, June 21 through Saturday, June 26.

For three consecutive weeks thereafter, tests will be mailed to applicants. You can take my word for it that some of the questions are knotty problems, but all are fascinating They will require research, tax your ingenuity and imagination, keep you trotting around town with fashion senses sharpened . . . but, ah how you will enjoy them! If you don't, drop the idea immediately!

Judges to Select Six Best Candidates

Fashion editors of Boston and store executives will act as judges (I have been complimented by being asked to serve, too). They will choose six candidates for the prize; in turn, the six candidates will be judged by the heads of the "School for Fashion Careers" for the final winner, and a few coveted "honorable mentions"

Allure of fashion work is no more plainly emphasized than in the remark of Miss Edna Somers, director of the Fashion Center. Discussing the exciting details of the contest suddenly she—with several years to her credit as stylist—sparkled as though she were a thoroughly thrilled schoolgirl

"Wouldn't it be fun to start all over again, to win the prize and take that marvelous course!"

At one roof the other night we saw Pat Phelan, deb-to-be, who wore ingenue pale blue net, and big sister Ginny in a splashy Gauguin print silk evening frock. Phyllis Forbes' luggage and white print silk was quite formal, with camisole decolletage . . . And Caroline Pierce came in from Milton in one of her favorite pretty tweeds, this time a rose-pink with matching turban and blue crepe blouse . . . Janice Miner Berry wore light blue tweeds, also.

Sport Thoughts While Strolling Through the Air

AUSTEN LAKE

CHICAGO, JUNE 16—IN LESS uproarious times, the elm-shaded lawns and Colonial comforts of Monroe, Mich., would be a charming spot to loll the month of June away. But it was a relief to escape from the strike-ridden area where bearded vigilantes christianized CIO sluggers with pick handles, and to the prize-fight spot where Jim Braddock and Joe Louis are billed to assault each other scientifically next week.

Somewhow it is less fun to watch men fight over jobs than men whose job it is to fight.

It was in the rose glow of early evening when our big, nickeled transport plane left Detroit and flew west over the "wrist" of the geographical "boxing glove," which is the State of Michigan on the map.

We who sat in our bucket-seats and peered questioningly down at checkered-greens and thread-like roads were strangers to each other. But it didn't matter now. Strangers so piercingly scrutinized by the dungareed-guardsmen in spunky Monroe were just a lot of folk with meaningless faces now.

CLOUDS, LIKE LARGE CLOTS OF CREAM, drifted past our wings, swirling in the back draft of the propellors. Early beacons blinked on the horizon. A stewardess, a perky girl in slate grey, handed around late afternoon editions, offering gum-sticks as aids to air-nausea and cotton pellets to lessen wear on the ears.

Now, at this moment, insisted imagination, a meek and chastened set of CIO pickets would be reforming their lines along the river road, by permission of Monroe authorities—men who looked around apprehensively as they paced their unenviable patrol.

* * *

A few remaining journalists of that cynical strike-reporting breed will be hovering near and hoping for a newsworthy fuss before their press-deadlines. But the strike war in that quarter was over, unless the CIO's had mental aberrations and resumed their sluggings. Little chance of that! News . . .

* * *

HEADLINES . . . News, the plane's motors seemed to drone. A wasp-waisted mail plane scudded by. No rain, nor sleet, nor hail shall keep them from their appointed rounds—well, the postoffice slogan went something like that. It was bumpy over Ann Arbor, and a male passenger, his complexion pale green, stumbled back to the lavatory. The perky stewardess took his elbow solicitously, but she grinned behind his back.

The big football crater of Michigan University looked like a concrete dimple from 5000 feet. Remember that big Michigan kid who split his lip in the Columbia game, a clean cut cleft that welled in the form of an open V! And how they sewed him up with fiddle gut and sent him back with a bolster bandage on his mouth! Yeh

* * *

THAT LEFT MOTOR sounded sputtery, and the wing trembled with the eddies of air. Slender looking slivers, those wings, when one is up in the air. Wonder how they were fastened to the plane's shoulders? Wonder if the bolts . . . well.

Dusk now, and bead-like strings of road-lights led ahead to a central, shimmering pool—an incandescent puddle that pulsated like swarms of fireflies.

"Michigan City," said the stewardess, leaning over to look through the port. She smelt pleasantly like cedar shavings.

* * *

MICHIGAN CITY. Braddock trains down there. Hope it isn't one of the flea-bitten camps like Orangeburg where Sharkey trained for Louis. Phooie! That room with the rain-stained wall paper, the loose shutter that creaked, and the things that crawled in the ceiling. The stale body odors and sweetish liniments in the down stairs parlor where Sharkey had dressed and curled his lip at the press. Phooie!

MICHIGAN CITY. That was where that strike reporter from the Toledo Blade said he left his wrist watch last week. What had he said? He knew he would get it back because the chambermaid was honest. He knew she was honest because she drank half of his flask while he was out and hadn't filled it back to its former level with water. Yeh . . .

Lindbergh used to fly his route," said the stewardess. She smelt like freshly sharpened lead pencils. Lindbergh! That news reel chap had told a funny one about him in Monroe last night. How Lindy contracted his first and lasting hatred of newspapermen.

"We were covering a train wreck in Kansas City," the news reel chap had started. "Lindy was an obscure pilot hired to fly pictures for the Chicago Tribune. We had a camera man named Burkhardt from the Detroit Times who hated this Tribune picture guy," continued the news reel chap, "so when Lindbergh comes running down the road in his goggles and leather suit, yelling, 'Chicago Tribune, where's the plates for the Chicago Tribune?' out jumps this Burkhardt and shouts 'O. K.' Well he gives Lindy a bundle of unexposed plates and says, 'hurry these to the office,' and Lindy rushes off and flies a lot of duds back to Chicago."

[illegible] truck but the newsmen had laughed. Guess Lindy had [illegible] to hate newspapermen.

* * *

IT WAS INKY OUTSIDE NOW The yellow finger of an aerial beacon swept searchingly following by a blink of red. News . . . Headlines . . . News, droned the motors.

A sports column in the Chicago paper reported Joe Louis with wrinkles of fat about his waist line, "torpid, loggy and disinterested." An adjoining paragraph said Braddock looked "electric, lean and eager" and called him the "master of 100 punches."

Funny! Sounds almost as though these were New York editions and were flying toward Bagdad-on-the-Subway where the journalists generally distort prize fight facts to make a holiday for the promoters. Louis torpid-and-loggy and Braddock lithe-and-lean would make a balanced fight. Yeh. . .

* * *

THE STEWARDESS passed down the lurching aisle fixing safety belts snapping the clasps with deft twist. Her scent was like the [illegible] we had whittled in early boyhood. The ground, vague and treacherous came up to meet us, and the big balloons on the under-carriage bumped along a concrete apron. The nickeled bird, its aerial grace gone on the ground, trundled to a stop.

"Chicago," said the stewardess. Rancid gusts rose from the stock yards. A negro porter almost indistinguishable in the gloom, took our bags. News . . . Headlines . . . Droned the dying snort of the motors. Yeh. . .

Endeavour's Off for Practice Spin

Newport, R. I. June 16 (AP)—Endeavour I and Endeavour II from which T. O. M. Sopwith will choose a challenger for the America's cup, sailed out of the harbor today for practice spins.

Ranger, undefeated entry of Harold Vanderbilt in the preliminary races to settle a cup defender had returned from the Herreshoff yards in Bristol and was planning to sail later in the day.

Arriving from Bristol she tied up alongside the motor yacht Vara which furnished the power for minor drilling on the new mast with which Ranger was fitted at Bristol.

Sopwith sailed out aboard Endeavour II while Endeavor I was in command of Fred Sergeant. The latter said the two English yachts would probably start racing next week to determine the challenger. Under the rules Sopwith's choice must be made known July 1, 30 days before the races.

HAIL BOR

As Next Welter CHAMPION

"The next welterweight champion of the world" will be on display Saturday when Nat Bor whirls through his final vigorous workout at New Bedford for his fight next Tuesday night at National League Park with Handy Andy Callahan of Lawrence.

Bor is called the "next champion" by his manager David Lumiansky which might be immediately overlooked were it not for the fact that Lumiansky, unlike other fight managers, seldom goes overboard on such statements, being utterly different from most pugilistic pilots in that he isn't given to popping off—at random.

Lumiansky is a high class judge of fighting flesh, having handled such leather-pushing notables as Jock McAvoy, Chick Suggs, Al Brown and others. When he terms Bor the "next champion" it is not easily laughed off.

Pres. to Attend All-Star Game

Washington, June 16 (AP)—A right harder who broke into the majors 20 years ago but who didn't become famous as a hurler until 1933 will be the starting pitcher in baseball's all-star game here July 7. He is Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Owner Clark Griffith of the Washington Senators said he had made a "deal" with President Roosevelt to pitch the first ball.

The major league deadline on trading ended last midnight but Griffith explained he had "signed" the President beforehand and that baseball Commissioner Kenesaw Landis wouldn't have to rule on any violation.

"The President told me he was looking forward to attending the game," Griffith said.

"He's already getting his arm limbered up. I told him he'd have to be in top shape, for he'll face better batters than he's ever tackled before."

This is the first time in the five years of baseball's All-Star games that the President has taken part.

WHITTEMORE N. E. SENIOR CHAMP

HALE Defeated TWO UP

SET NEW MARK FOR EVENT

By BILL GRIMES

Woodland Country Club, June 16—Parker W. Whittemore of The Country Club, Brookline, playing in his first New England senior golf championship won the title today at Woodland Country Club with a 73.

[illegible] coupled with his 78 of yesterday in the first round, gave him a 151 total and a new all-time record and a margin of two strokes over Fred Hale of Belmont, the defending champion.

At the start of the second and final round Hale was 1 up on the 65-year-old Country Club veteran.

Whittemore canned an 8-footer on the first hole for a birdie three which squared the match, but on the next hole he was short with his second shot and made a 6-footer par which Hale got and was again one up.

Hale ran in a 25-footer for a birdie 3 at the 400-yard third hole. At this point Whittemore's second was a long, his ball running up almost to the fourth tee, from where he played a remarkable shot off hard bare ground to within three feet of the cup and made par.

They both got 4's at the fourth [illegible] a birdie at the short fifth when Whittemore holed an eight [illegible] for a deuce and reduced Hale's lead to one stroke.

HALE OPENS GATES

Although neither was home in two at the uphill 6th they both chipped stoney and sank puts for a par 4. Hale opened the gates at the length 7th by 3-putting which cost him a stroke and evened the match again.

Following an exceptionally long drive Whittemore was short in two going to the eighth but he chipped on and got his putt for a par and remained all even.

They continued along even for the next three holes.

After regular 5's at the long 10th Hale was trapped and Whittemore was over the 11th green, but Hale exploded out of the trap and canned a 15-footer after Whittemore had chipped dead to the pin for his three.

CHIPS TO PIN

Although neither was home in three at the long 11th, both got 5's, Hale running in a 7-footer.

At the 12th both pushed their iron shot, and Hale who was well to the right of the green was just on the putting surface with his second and Whittemore chipped up to within three feet of the pin to take the lead when Hale failed to get down a long putt.

Whittemore pulled his drive into the rut at the 13th, and due to a bad lie, only got out on the fairway with his second. Hale's second went over the green where he chipped back to within 6 feet of the cup and pulled up on even terms with his opponent by holing his putt as Whittemore took a five.

Both were in trouble at the short 15th with Hale in a trap and Whittemore well to the right of the green, each taking four with the ex-champion just missing a 25-footer.

Hale pushed his tee shot into the trees at the 16th and was short in two. Whittemore took two fine shots and was home for an easy four, which him in front by one stroke.

At the 17th, Whittemore went well to the left of the green and Hale was over in two. Hale's chip was short and he missed his putt for a four. Whittemore pitched on and his ball ran up about four feet from the cup, which he holed for four to take a two-stroke lead.

Going to the 26th and final hole they both were on in two and got 4's.

Americans Score Wins in London

London, June 16 (AP)—Wayne Sabin of Hollywood, Calif., reached the quarterfinals of the Queens Club tennis tournament today, defeating R. J. Ritchie of England, 6-3, 9-7.

Ritchie made a great comeback after being down 2-5 in the second set, but Sabin finally recovered to save the set.

Hal Surface of Kansas City joined Sabin in the last eight by virtue of a 6-2, 3-6, 6-1 victory over Charles Harris of West Palm Beach, Fla.

(Bunny) Austin, British Davis Cup ace, won a delayed second round match from A. W. R. Caws 6-1, 6-1.

Bryan Grant of Atlanta scampered to an easy 6-2, 6-2 victory over his Davis Cup team-mate, Gene Mako. The Georgia mite delighted the gallery with his brilliant recoveries on what looked like sure-point winners for Mako.

Don Budge, top-ranking American ace, needed just 14 minutes to dispose of R. O. Williams, 6—0, 6—1.

Austin, playing his second match of the day, put out R. A. Shayes, 6—2, 6—0, to reach the quarterfinals where he will meet Surface tomorrow.

Both American entrants in women's singles, Katherine Winthrop of Boston and Mrs. Dorothy Andrus of Stamford, Conn., and New York, were eliminated. Miss Winthrop lost to Joan Saunders, of England, 6—4, 3—6, 6—2, and Mrs. Andrus to Katherin Stammers of England, 6—1, 6—3.

In the second round of men's doubles, Surface and Harris defeated Frankie Parker, Davis cup player, and Larry Hall of San Jose, Cal., 6—2, 6—2. Mrs. Andrus and Mme. Sylvia Henrotin of France defeated Miss D. M. Royall and Joan Physick, 6—1, 6—0. Alice Marble and Miss Winthrop withdrew from the doubles as a heavy rain halted play.

Pitchers Worry Marse McCarthy

New York, June 16 (INS)—Although his New York Yankees are still leading the American League today, Manager Joe McCarthy admits he is worried over his depleted pitching staff.

"Pearson, Broaca and Chandler are still on the shelf," said Joe, "and I don't know when they'll be ready to take their regular turn. The closeness of the race may add a lot to the box office, but it takes a lot from my sleep."

Hi Lo Jack Dog to Watch at Taunton

By MATTHEW KEANEY

BEST BET—HI LO JACK—8TH RACE

Taunton, June 16—Hi Lo Jack, one of the best dogs to show thus far in the Sportsmen's Park meeting, looks every inch the winner in the eighth at the Taunton dog track tonight and is my choice for the safest wagering hazard on the card.

FIRST RACE—FUTURITY
OUR FEZ, REVIEW, RED COUPON

P P	Dog, Owner	Wt.	Odds
4	Our Fez, H Bagwell	61	7-2
4	Review, J. Boone	56	7-2
2	Red Coupon, J. Prevatt	68	4-1
2	Lock's Lassie, L. Butterworth	64½	6-1
1	Joe D Rock, J Fortier	58	6-1
7	Black Stony Point, C Looney	61	8-1
8	Brindle Barney, F. Spencer	55	10-1
3	Overboard, L. Kirkpatrick	60	10-1

SECOND RACE—5-16 MILE
PRAIRIE MOON, CHORINE, BLUE BALFA

P P	Dog, Owner	Wt.	Odds
2	Prairie Moon, W Bryant	61	2-1
1	Chorine, J. Williams	58½	3-1
8	Blue Balfa, O. Beckner	56½	4-1
8	Nehi, H Spencer	60	7-1
2	She's A Gallant, J. Prevatt	60	6-1
6	Nelva Andrews, J Fortier	54	8-1
4	Rosanna, F Palermo	48	10-1
7	King Tigerlily, C. Shively	64	12-1

PRAIRIE MOON drops down a notch or two in the class scale and must be given the edge over this field. CHORINE's last was not her best. Tonight should be another story. BLUE BALFA close in its last, should be in the money.

THIRD RACE—¼ MILE
RUNYON'S TAVERN, PIN RAIL, CLICK

P P	Dog, Owner	Wt.	Odds
8	Runyon's Tavern, O. Wahlauf	63	5-2
6	Pin Rail, J Fortier	64	4-1
1	Click, H Spencer	61	4-1
2	Top Hill, Cedar Pt Ken.	64	6-1
3	Valley Moon, O. Beckner	66	8-1
4	Crafty Chief, W. Bryant	58	10-1
7	Crafty Fad, P. Conway	63	12-1
5	Indian Twinkle, E. Raine	49	12-1

Otto Wahlauf reports RUNYON TAVERN ready for his best effort, hence we take him to win. The promising juvenile PIN RAIL will be close, while CLICK, if it has plenty of racing room, should be in the money.

FOURTH RACE—FUTURITY
VERNON GLEE, BLACK BAT, MY BILLIE

P P	Dog, Owner	Wt.	Odds
5	Vernon Glee, P Binda	63¼	7-2
1	Black Bat, J. Fortier	61	4-1
7	My Billie, W Prevatt	59	4-1
4	Tanta, L. Butterworth	66	4-1
6	Tip Off, H. Spencer	66	6-1
3	Black Moment, O. Beckner	61½	8-1
8	Daffy Hare, F Spencer	55	8-1
2	Prancing Step, D. Sullivan	63¼	10-1

VERNON GLEE, an easy winner in its last, should repeat, while BLACK BAT, a promising youngster, will be close. MY BILLIE a possibility to upset it all. Were TANTA in an inside box this one would be a possibility.

FIFTH RACE—5-16 MILE
DEMONSTRATOR, MARGE CLARK, BABY HARE

P P	Dog, Owner	Wt.	Odds
1	Demonstrator, C Looney	59	5-2
3	Marge Clark, M Dubiel	62	7-2
5	Baby Hare, H. Spencer	49	5-1
7	Playhouse, F Stats	55	6-1
4	Noble Ben, W & Shalleross	68	6-1
6	Columbia River, Premier Ken.	67	6-1
8	Real Shy, Cedar Pt Ken.	63	10-1
2	Brandy Joe, F Palermo	66	10-1

Case puts DEMONSTRATOR on top in this number, but he'll have to display it all to beat MARGE CLARK. BABY HARE runs well on the rail. If it gets to that point then things might happen. PLAYHOUSE likes the distance and with better boxing might upset.

SIXTH RACE—FUTURITY
MUTTON SUET, JACK'S REJECTED, HAPPY LAD

P P	Dog, Owner	Wt.	Odds
5	Mutton Suet, M Dubiel	59	7-2
6	Jack's Rejected, P Conway	67½	4-1
7	Happy Lad, C. Looney	67½	4-1
8	Jerry Actor, F Spencer	54	6-1
2	Buddy J, T. Baird	61	6-1
3	Fell's Lad, Jess Williams	64	8-1
1	My Hazard, J. Highhouse	70	8-1
4	Bray, O. Beckner	61½	10-1

MUTTON SUET looks the tops in this event and while JACK'S REJECTED was not his best she should be close to the top at the wire. HAPPY LAD seems better suited here than in its last. The others don't possess much to rate them on.

SEVENTH RACE—5-16 MILE
TRIUMPH, SMALL SHOT, SLICK HARE

P P	Dog, Owner	Wt.	Odds
7	Triumph, S. Chambers	71	2-1
2	Slick Hare, H. Spencer	61	4-1
3	Garry's Pond, K. Stephenson	60	7-1
6	Frisco Bebe, E. Rhine	51	8-1
5	Sharp Donald, McDonough	64½	8-1
1	Lucille Larry, S. Breeze Ken.	60½	10-1
8	Colonel Jamestown, Wohlauf	65	12-1
4	Small Shot, G. H Rogers	56	3-1

TRIUMPH appears much the best of this lot but will have no cinch beating SMALL SHOT. SLICK HARE is well suited at this distance and should be in the money.

EIGHTH RACE—FUTURITY
HI LO JACK, SWAMP ANGEL, SALLY TITE

P P	Dog, Owner	Wt.	Odds
6	Hi Lo Jack, L. Kirkpatrick	68	8-5
2	Swamp Angel, Standard Ken.	55	7-2
3	Sally Tite, F Athanasaw	55	3-1
7	Pilgrim, G Rogers	66	6-1
1	Lady Blondell, S. Chambers	60	8-1
8	Mr. Ted, J. Ayotte	67	12-1
4	Silver Lane, S Breeze Ken.	55	20-1
7	Fawn Leader, F Falk	63½	30-1

HI LO JACK, one of the best racing at this track, has shown in recent efforts a degree of class which makes top rating a necessity. SWAMP ANGEL is improving each out. If SALLY TITE has room in the stretch she'll be close.

NINTH RACE—5-16 MILE
ANOTHER CHORD, CAULD KAIL, PARADE

P P	Dog, Owner	Wt.	Odds
2	Another Chord, F Stats	60½	3-1
3	Caud Kail, M Sparks	67	9-2
4	Parade, J. Highhouse	65	5-1
1	Careful Player, Kirkpatrick	61	5-1
6	My Cherry, Glenwood Ken.	64	5-1
7	My Burger, Standard Ken.	65	6-1
8	Lady Has It, W. Bryant	59	10-1
5	Carl Ed, F Athanasaw	64	10-1

ANOTHER CHORD after a futile few or two, seems ready to win. This looks like the spot. CAULD KAIL, which has shown some class, had trouble last out or things might have been different. PARADE, with its stretch running ability, should be close.

TENTH RACE—FUTURITY
TRAFFIC ESCORT, MULTNOMAH ROBIN, MR. TICKLER

P P	Dog, Owner	Wt.	Odds
4	Traffic Escort, S. Chambers	67	3-1
1	Multnomah Robin, Wohlauf	66	3-1
5	Mr. Tickler, N'gansett Ken	66	4-1
8	Princess Breeze, S. B. Ken.	61½	7-1
3	He Roll, J. Boone	62	8-1
2	Girl Crazy, Jess Williams	61	8-1
7	Brave Show, J. Highhouse	63	10-1
6	All State, F Rhone	59	12-2

TRAFFIC ESCORT, a classy veteran, looks much the best here and should score. MULTNOMAH ROBIN should profit through the grade box and be close with MR. TICKLER in the show hole.

Jockey Gray Closing In on Leaders

By Associated Press

What is left of the stars of the three-year-old division will be divided again Saturday with the $25,000 American Derby at Washington Park and the $10,000 Dwyer Stakes at Aqueduct scheduled for the same day.

The Derby probably will draw the largest field but the Dwyer will be the objective of Maxwell Howard's Sceneshifter, generally regarded as the best of the division now that War Admiral, Pompoon and Reaping Reward are on the sidelines.

The son of Sickle's second in the Shevlin last Saturday was good enough to warrant sending him west for the rich Chicago stake, but Trainer Earl Sande decided to keep his charge in New York for the Dwyer. Later the colt may be shipped to Chicago for the Arlington Classic on July 24.

Apprentice A. Gray, who is riding with fine success at Omaha, is gaining rapidly on the leaders in the race for national jockey honors. With nine winners in the last week, he has brought his total to 90, just 15 behind B. Neal, the leader, and only one back of S. Roberts, who is riding at Washington Park.

The name of no horse of rank past three years of age is missing from the roster of eligibles for the $10,000 Sussex Handicap, a mile and a quarter race which will have its premiere at Delaware Park, July 17. Among the 32 nominees are J. A. Manfuso's Aneroid, winner of the Suburban Handicap in near record time; George D. Widener's High Fleet, high ranking filly; the Wheatley stable's Snark, William duPont, Jr.'s, Rosemont, Mrs. Payne Whitney's Memory Book, E. K. Bryson's Calumet Dick and Mrs. Walter O'Hara's New Deal.

The 21-day meeting of the Empire City Racing Association, which opens July 1 and runs to July 24, promises to eclipse anything ever before staged at the hill top track. Seven stakes with a total value of $50,000 in added money are on the program. Richest of the group is the $20,000 Butler Handicap for older horses.

15-Mile Auto Race At Newmarket

Newmarket, N. H., June 16—Another series of auto races will be held at the motor speedway here Sunday afternoon, with daredevils from all parts of New England entered.

The feature race will be over the 15-mile route, with five 5-mile races and a special race also on the program.

Bob King of Waltham, former New England champion, will pilot Lonnie Porter's McDowell Special in the race. King also plans to give an exhibition against time in his midget car.

Bill Fox of Newton, "Dizzy" Vance of West Roxbury, George Lewis of Newton, and Hal Keizer of Concord, are some of the others entered.

PUBLIC Divided on TRADE

WAITS QUINN'S $35,000 SPREE

By JOE CASHMAN

John Q. Public of Boston was reserving decision today on the merits of the Wally Berger for Frank Gabler swap.

The ultimate verdict hinges on wha Bob Quinn is able to buy in the way of playing material for the $35,000 in cash the Giants handed over in addition tion the young pitcher to acquire the Bees' home run king.

At the moment, the Bees seem to have the worst of it.

Giving Berger for Gabler is like exchanging War Admiral for a selling plater.

COIN WON'T WIN GAMES

Walloping Wally may have lost his throwing arm, may be slipping rapidly as a slugger and may have out-lived his usefulness here, but he owns records which establish him as one of the game's greatest while Gabler still remains just an other pitcher named Joe.

And the coin involved won't, by itself, win any ball games for the Bees.

But it might well happen that as a result of the money obtained Quinn will acquire young minor league talent that will cause this deal to go down as one of the most beneficial ever made by the Swarm.

Bob is already embarked on the effort. He's started on a scouting tour of the American Association, where a year ago this time he discovered Lou Fette and Jim Turner.

If he could find another pair as classy as those 30-year-old rookies, he wouldn't have to worry about the local reaction to his latest deal. Everybody would be approving it.

WOULDN'T TAKE HALLAHAN

The passing of Berger, decided upon just before last midnight's ban on trading, was anything but a surprise.

Quinn has long felt that Wally has seen his best days and repeatedly admitted that he was making efforts to get rid of the blond basher.

It wasn't expected, though, that the California clouter would end up with the Giants. The Pirates and Reds were the clubs that were hottest on his trail, and Manager Bill Terry of the New Yorkers had often been quoted as saying he wasn't interested in the Bees' star.

The Pirates quest failed because they would give only cash. The Reds were willing to give Bill "Lefty" Hallahan and money but the Bees' bosses wouldn't consider the veteran southpaw.

Then Quinn contacted Terry or vice versa.

New England fans liked Berger personally. So did Quinn and Manager Bill McKechnie. Wally's the sort of a guy everybody likes; modest, pleasant, courteous, obliging and well behaved.

On the other hand there was a wide difference of opinion as to his ability.

HIGHEST PAID OUTFIELDER

For the past three years he was the highest paid outfielder in the National League.

Some held he deserved that distinction. They pointed to his seven-year big league batting average of .305, his almost 200 home runs, his feat of leading the league in home runs and runs batted in back in 1935, his stunt of getting up out of a sick bed and hitting a home run which landed the 1933 Braves in the first division, his record-breaking drives in various parks around the circuit.

Others insisted he was overrated. They said he was too easily fooled by smart pitchers. They claimed he failed far more often than he delivered when a safe hit meant a ball game.

In our opinion Wally wasn't as great as his admirers rated him nor as mediocre as his critics liked to paint him.

He was never the greatest outfielder in the league, but he was far above the average, both as a hitter and fielder as outfielders go, and the classiest player on the ball club.

Ramona May Best In Fourth Event

By SAM COHEN

BEST BET—RAMONA MAY—FOURTH

Ramona May, unable to grace the winner's circle this current meeting at Wonderland Park, is nicely placed in a cheap fourth race for non-winners and should beat this field without much effort tonight.

[illegible] Tom [illegible] has [illegible] of the early [illegible] "hot box" tonight for the eighth race feature and [illegible] White Helen or Twinkle's Laddie can upset.

FIRST RACE—5-16 MILE
FREDA'S PLAY, WINGED BULLET, UPTOWN LASS

P P	Dog, Owner	Wts.	Odds
5	Freda's Play, John Allen	58	9-5
1	*Winged Bullet, John Kernan	66	7-2
4	Uptown Lass, Jess Bingham	68	5-1
7	American Dictator, Gus Maire	[illegible]	10-1
6	Cladder River, Ruth Browne	55	4-1
2	*Spring Clear, Dan Cahill	71	6-1
8	Singing Wood, Samuel Minden	60	8-1
3	Joe Maguire, Kenneth Deane	61	15-1

FREDA'S PLAY [illegible] opener. She has [illegible] below her true form. WINGED BULLET [illegible] the [illegible] UPTOWN LASS [illegible] reverse the order of things. Don't overlook a fleet little Miss named CLADDER RIVER.

SECOND RACE—FUTURITY
FRIENDLY PAL, ROUGH NECK BOY, ACT DESPERATE

P P	Dog, Owner	Wts.	Odds
7	Friendly Pal, Sid Manor	67	8-5
2	Rough Neck Boy, D. Allen	56½	8-1
4	Act Desperate, Arch Deleer	62	4-1
1	Golden Vixen, Earl Gaspar[illegible]	64	9-2
8	*Frisco Irishman, Ben French	[illegible]	8-1
5	Count Bedgrove, D. Leahy	73	7-2
3	Ann True, H. N. Franklin	50	5-1
6	Cherda, John Pesch	72	6-1

FRIENDLY PAL has shown so much early foot that tonight he might just to scratch a nose victory over ROUGH NECK BOY who is due to wake up. ACT DESPERATE [illegible] GOLDEN VIXEN [illegible].

THIRD RACE—5-16 MILE
FRIENDLY SHOE, DANCING DUKE, TERRY BOY

P P	Dog, Owner	Wts.	Odds
6	Friendly Shoe, H Alderson	60	7-2
8	Dancing Duke, R B Carroll	72	6-1
7	Terry Boy, Cherry Val. Ken.	73	9-2
5	Midnight Judy, John Allen	65	4-1
4	Skimalong, Jess Bingham	67	6-1
2	Uniaid, Sid Manor	50	7-2
1	Bi Chocolate, H N Franklin	49	6-1
3	Red Hill, Benny French	56	8-1

FRIENDLY SHOE just missed in his last try and tonight figures [illegible]. DANCING DUKE [illegible].

FOURTH RACE—FUTURITY
RAMONA MAY, JUST PEPPER, RAID THE ROOST
(Non Winners)

P P	Dog, Owner	Wts.	Odds
3	Ramona May, R F Randle	58	[illegible]
2	Just Pepper, Freda Koontz	64½	5-1
7	Raid The Roost, A. Deleer	67	10-1
5	Turmoil, John Allen	58	6-1
8	Ada Lee, Jess Bingham	64	[illegible]
4	My Galloper, J. E. Miles	71	[illegible]
1	Case Springs, H Alderson	60	[illegible]
6	Buster Green, W. Worthington	62	8-1

RAMONA MAY [illegible] get in the money and should repeat his last performance.

FIFTH RACE—5-16 MILE
WHOOPEE'S ANDREW, GAY MATRON, ARTHUR BOY

P P	Dog, Owner	Wts.	Odds
6	Whoopee's Andrew, Carroll	61	7-2
7	Gay Matron, C. M Hall	64	6-1
2	Arthur Boy, H. Highhouse	61	4-1
5	Blue Count, D. Callaghan	65	7-1
4	Effie M, R. F. Randle	53½	8-1
3	Rolling Garry, Bud Sunday	56	9-2
1	Brda, H. E. Alderson	53	9-1
8	Dummy, D. Leahy	63½	9-2

WHOOPEE'S ANDREW should be able to prove he is the class of this race. GAY MATRON is a game miss, with plenty of speed and will be right in the race. ARTHUR BOY is early footed and may steal enough to last for show. EFFIE M is dangerous, comes home fast and is track wise.

SIXTH RACE—FUTURITY
DIGHTON, TENNIS COURT, BAY SPAN

P P	Dog, Owner	Wts.	Odds
1	Dighton, D. Callaghan	[illegible]	[illegible]
2	Tennis Court, Dan Oswald	66	[illegible]
4	Bay Span, R. B. Carroll	62	9-2
8	Even Wager, Dennis Leahy	65	6-1
3	Tiz A Gangster, H. Ball	60	6-1
7	Robette, J. W. Randall	55	8-1
6	Reen Brock, Freda Koontz	47	7-1
5	Ben Machree, Sid Manor	58	12-1

DIGHTON is long overdue and should awake from his dreams and smoke out this company. TENNIS COURT is a pretty consistent racer and figures well up in this company. BAY SPAN should improve plenty. Tab TIZ A GANGSTER, much better than rated.

SEVENTH RACE—FUTURITY
HILL ROLL, SMOKEY, RINGING BREEZE

P P	Dog, Owner	Wts.	Odds
4	Hill Roll, J. E. Miles	60	7-2
6	Smokey, Merton B. Ward	64	2-1
8	Ringing Br'ze, G. Lippold, Jr.	66	4-1
2	Kan City Kitty, Mrs Failing	58	9-1
7	Jeff Devil, H. K. Highhouse	60	15-1
6	Sky, Freda Koontz	63	5-1
3	*Agile Adder, Dan Oswald	63	7-1
1	Just Noodle, Dennis Allen	58	6-1

HILL ROLL was running right under that hot box all winter with very strong dogs. Looks as if this might be his night to roll home. SMOKEY will be the chief contender. RINGING BREEZE is going to be hard to keep out of the money.

EIGHTH RACE—REVERSE COURSE
LORETTA, WHITE HELEN, TWINKLE'S LADDIE

P P	Dog, Owner	Wts.	Odds
4	Loretta, John Pesch	58	9-5
8	White Helen, John Allen	55	5-1
2	Twinkle's Laddie, W [illegible]	57	4-1
6	Chief Justice, H. Highhouse	63	7-2
7	Carmen, H. E. Alderson	60	6-1
5	Guess What, J. E. Miles	60	7-1
1	Red Raider, Cherry Val Ken.	62	8-1
3	Speedy Karl, Gus Maire	56	10-1

LORETTA should be able to go the route and be right up on top. WHITE HELEN has been showing a lot of [illegible] running and figures. TWINKLE'S LADDIE's last effort rates him as a contender.

NINTH RACE—FUTURITY
MISS LUCKY R., SQUAREHEAD, *FAIRFIELD'S GLOBE

P P	Dog, Owner	Wts.	Odds
6	Miss Lucky R., Cherry V. Ken.	[illegible]	7-2
8	Squarehead, D. Callaghan	61	8-1
2	*Fairfield's Globe, D. Oswald	60	6-1
8	Justa Bear, John Pesch	55	6-1
1	Always Eve, H. N. Franklin	70	8-1
3	Englewood, Lewis W. Randall	60	9-2
3	Kemp, Jess Bingham	66	7-1
6	Mildred Br'ze, G. Lippold, Jr.	67	10-1

Among these well rated top dogs MISS LUCKY R. should get the call but only on a top effort on her part. SQUAREHEAD has only to repeat his last race to reverse all this. FAIRFIELD'S GLOBE should be right up in here as his opposition is not so tough. JUSTA BEAR is dangerous.

Mel Harder Puzzle to DiMaggio

New York, June 16 [illegible] New York [illegible]

"Yes," smiled the Yankees' great young fly chaser, "I probably could get more than 60 homers playing there every day but just to make doubly sure I'd like to have Rajah Hornsby's pitchers working against me all the time."

[illegible]

There have been many hitters who had some particular "cousin" among the pitchers, as Joe Tinker had his Christy Mathewson, but the oldest baseball man can't recall when one hitter had a whole pitching staff under such complete subjection as DiMaggio has the Browns.

HITS ANYTHING

"It's funny," says Joe, "they threw me everything in the book. Fast ones, slow ones, hooks, sinkers, sailers, knucklers and screw balls. But no matter what they throw or where they throw it, the ball looks like a balloon coming up and I just belt it."

[illegible] Harder of the [illegible] Indians. [illegible]

"I'm always surprised when Hogsett gets me out," declares Joe, "and I'm just as much surprised whenever I get a hit off Harder."

[illegible] much better on the road than he does at home in the Yankee Stadium.

"The Yankee Stadium is a pitcher's paradise," says Joe. "All that white concrete makes a tough background for the hitter and, if you're a right hander you can knock a ball nine miles to left center and it's just another out. But the same kind of a wallop is a home run in most of the other parks.

"That St. Louis park is best of all. The left center fence isn't too far away and the background is fine. So are those St. Louis pitchers."

Gov. Hurley to See Louis, Braddock Go

Chicago, June 16 (AP)—Two former champions—Jack Dempsey and Gene Tunney—and five governors will attend a party to be given by Sheldon Clark, millionaire Chicago sportsman, when Joe Louis battles Heavyweight Champion Jim Braddock next Tuesday night at Comiskey Park.

The governors will be Henry Horner, Illinois, Frank Murphy, Michigan; E. W. Marland, Oklahoma; M. Clifford Townsend, Indiana, and Charles F. Hurley of Massachusetts.

In 1927 Tunney and Dempsey battled at Soldier Field before more than 100,000 fans who made the largest "gate" in the ring's history, about $2,500,000. Clark was one of the judges at that fight.

What the Stars Did

By Associated Press

CLAY BRYANT, Cubs—His five-inning one-hit relief job for fifth win of year stopped Bees, 5-4, and put Chicago in first place.

JOE DIMAGGIO and RED RUFFING, Yankees—Former hit safely in 18th straight game with triple and single; latter hurled four-hit, 3-0 shutout of Indians.

JOHNNY MIZE, Cardinals—Three-bagger and two singles paced 14-hit attack that swamped Phillies, 13-4.

GUS SUHR, Pirates—His two hits, one a homer with two on, drove in four runs as Bucs topped Hubbell and Giants, 7-5.

AL HOLLINGSWORTH, Reds—Checked Dodgers' rally in ninth for 4—3 victory.

BILLY KNICKERBOCKER, Browns—Smashed out two doubles and handled eight chances at short as Athletics bowed, 5-1.

CLETUS ELWOOD POFFENBERGER, Tigers—Held Senators to three hits in 6 1-3 innings as Detroit won in 15 innings, 9-8.

LEFTY GROVE, Red Sox—Scattered seven hits and gave up one unearned run in 5-1 setback of White Sox.

Allison Fears German Team

Dallas, Tex., June 16 (AP)—Businessman Wilmer Allison, who sneaked out of retirement long enough to win the Texas tennis title, believes his old Davis Cup cronies will have to bring back the goblet this year or sit back and swallow for years to come, a German monopoly on tennis.

"The Germans are the ones to fear," said Allison. "Baron von Cramm is the greatest player in the world today. Once the Germans get hold of the Davis cup they're liable to hold onto it for 20 years."

Boston Wishes Berger Well | $150,000 Pot For Braddock

By JACK CONWAY

Mr. Boston

BOB QUINN OF the Bees may be relied upon to use the $35,000 he secured in the deal by which Wally Berger was sent to the Giants for Frank (Gabby) Gabler, a young pitcher who came up from Nashville two years ago, for additional playing strength.

The Bees need ball players more than cash if they are to improve their standing in the National League race. Quinn would gladly part with the $35,000 he received from the Giants for a first class outfielder or infielder.

It is likely that with $35,000 to spend Quinn will come up with two good ball players.

Bob secured Lou Fette for $20,000 and two players. If Quinn can execute another deal as good as the Fette one the fans will be satisfied.

Wally Berger will carry the good wishes of Boston and New England fans as he invades New York with the Giants. Berger was one of the few players who gave their best efforts for Bill McKechnie during the dark days [illegible] local National League baseball

Berger's home runs were always a pleasant tonic to Boston baseball.

Wally was never a great hitter in critical moments of ball games. He was more likely to pop out to the infield than to get a hit when there were men on bases and a single meant the winning of a ball game.

Berger was a fast, graceful fielder, and a good base run[illegible]. He [illegible] season with a batting mark of .300, [illegible] was [illegible] the many heartaches he had [illegible] internal difficulties of the club with [illegible] was [illegible].

Berger [illegible] paid well even when the club's treasury [illegible] down $12,500 a year but probably felt that [illegible] were with the Giants or Cubs he would have been paid [illegible].

Berger at his peak in New York would easily have been worth $20,000 a year.

In the autumn of his career, Wally crashes the big town, and it is my wish that he play the best baseball of his career. He is deserving of a break.

$150,000 FOR BRADDOCK

JIMMY BRADDOCK will do well if he ends up with $150,000 of the $400,000 purse he expects to get for his 15-round world championship bout with "Bomber" Joe Louis in Chicago next Tuesday night. This should be enough money to keep Jimmy, the missus and their three children in comfort.

Even at the present low interest rates, Braddock's $150,000 will return him $100 a week.

I do not believe Braddock will risk his money in hazardous investments. Jimmy was in the money back in the carefree days of boxing in 1927 to 1929. He received some large purses, but lost his ring earnings in poor investments.

Among other things Braddock purchased a taxicab company, and I think Boston men in that kind of business will agree with the champion that there are many disappointments in connection with the operation of taxicabs.

I understand Braddock's expense in the championship bout will be first taken out of the purse. Jimmy will then split the balance with his management, which is headed by Joe Gould.

* * *

Joe Gould's Future

GOULD WILL not worry too much about the future as he pockets his end of the purse. Joe has always taken life as he found it. He will probably try to run his slice of the spoils into a million dollars, and will end up managing other boxers.

Gould's life has been the boxing game. Even if he had a million dollars he would get more enjoyment climbing into a corner with a boxer before a big fight than in any other way.

Once one has been around boxers for 20 years like Gould, it is impossible to get interested in the ordinary thrills of life.

I contend there is more real excitement and enjoyment manipulating a heavyweight boxer on the eve of a championship bout than in any other branch of athletics.

Braddock would rather defeat Louis than accomplish anything else in life. He knows the public generally rates Louis as the best heavyweight in the world, and if he can defeat him he will be a real miracle man.

They said it was a miracle when Braddock, just off a welfare rolls, outscored Max Baer in a bout for the heavyweight championship of the world. Sports writers and fans will be lost for words if Braddock should now conquer Louis.

Braddock rates Louis as [illegible] another heavyweight. I don't [illegible] Jimmy knows what [illegible] while he [illegible] believes that [illegible] is not the most courageous boxer in the world [illegible].

Braddock feels if he keeps doing his best in the ring next Tuesday night that Louis may crack wide open at any time and that he can then go on to win.

Win, lose or draw, Braddock will still have $150,000 for himself when all expenses and management are paid.

This should be sufficient to heal Braddock's physical wounds and also his injured pride in case Louis should nail him on the chin with a best Sunday punch.

"Brown is a much better boxer than McCoy and could win on points easily," said McCarney. "Natie, however, will try for a knockout as he wants to prove he can punch better than McCoy."

McCoy and Brown have both kept in good condition since their bout was postponed until tonight on account of poor weather conditions.

Rip Valenti, Goodwin Club matchmaker, reports a brisk sale and with popular prices looks for a large crowd at Fenway Park tonight.

The Goodwin Club is offering the best preliminary card of the season.

Dante Yanetti of Chelsea, Sammy Fuller's protege, will clash with Bobby Allen of Nova Scotia in the eight-round semi-final.

Roy Kelley of Brookline, Heavy All America finalist, will oppose Fanis Tzanatopoulos of Lynn over the eight-round route.

Fairplay Victor In Royal Hunt Cup

Ascot, Eng., June 16 (AP)—E. Middlemas' Fairplay, an 18 to 1 shot, today won the Royal Hunt Cup of seven furlongs 155 yards. H. G. Bazraves' Couvert, which started at 100 to 6, was second and J. P. Hornung's Pegasus 2½ to 1 in the betting, third.

J. J.'s TRANSFORMATION

This is the eleventh of twelve special articles in which a great boxing authority makes known the results of his personal study of the most remarkable of all "come-back" champions. The author discloses the amazing effects of a dental operation on Braddock.

By HUGH FULLERTON

There always is some physical cause for any unusual change in an athlete. If anyone had known in the spring of 1934 what physical change was taking place in Braddock he could have become rich.

Five to one against Jim in the Corn Griffin affair, five and six to one against him in the Lewis match, five to one against him when signed to fight Art Lasky, then 10 to one that Max Baer would beat him. But no one knew of that hidden change except Jim!

From a discouraged, almost despondent tired man, Braddock was commencing to feel good and to enjoy the health and strength he knew when he was blazing ahead as a light heavyweight star.

He blamed his lack of energy and strength, ambition and spirit, to worry over his family, over unemployment and loss of prestige combined with a deficient and unbalanced diet.

PICKS UP WEIGHT

His teeth, or four of them, were in bad shape. Three had been loosened in boxing, and one broken. The teeth had tightened in the gum and gave him no special trouble.

Of course during his period of poverty, there was no money for dental treatment.

And as they seldom ached, Jim never thought of seeking the cause for his surprising slump of a fighter in teeth until a dentist friend advised the removal of the three that had been loosened, because they were ulcerated at the roots.

Soon after the teeth were out, he commenced to feel better, stronger, more hopeful. Recall how he had grown steadily in height and weight up to the time he met Tommy Loughran in the fall of 1929.

He had reached 183 pounds in fighting condition, then, seemingly without cause, he had slipped back into the 175 pound class and ceased to gain.

With those teeth out, Jim commenced to gain weight again and grow taller.

In a little over a year after the dental extraction, he added an inch to his height, rising to six feet three inches, and went above 200 pounds. His fighting weight after hard training, is around that 200 mark.

Braddock also attributes the gain to a change of diet from hash to thick steaks [illegible] ring.

Probably freedom from worry and a better diet helped, but the release from the bad teeth undoubtedly was the chief cause of his suddenly retarded growth and his lassitude and lack of ambition.

REPAYS GOVERNMENT

The short delay before the Lasky bout helped. He weighed 183 to Lasky's 197. He beat Big Art handily in a surprisingly easy fight, checking him chiefly with his left.

Jim was lucky again, for he undoubtedly caught Lasky below his normal condition because of his pleurisy attack and besides that Art had a damaged hand.

The bout netted Braddock more than $4000. He was able to pay his debts and repay the government about $325 the money granted him for relief.

From a down-and-outer on relief he had leaped up the luck trail and was the logical contender for the world's heavyweight championship. But neither the public nor the New York State Boxing Commission believed it.

The Commission vigorously opposed his being matched with the champion, declaring that Braddock was not a fit opponent for Max Baer.

Along James J. Johnston entered the picture. The moment he signed Braddock to an agreement to fight Baer, Johnston started to work. He despised the clowning and [illegible] and wanted him beaten.

"You're the next champion," he told Braddock. "Baer is the worst champion we ever had and I want him licked. If you don't knock that gigolo out of the fight picture, I'll lick you myself."

Johnston who can fight with his tongue and brain as well as with his fists worked on Baer. Nothing like it ever was known in the fight racket.

He told Max he was a has-been, a quitter, a washed up scared to death of Braddock and he drew vivid and sometimes lurid pictures of what would happen in the ring.

Almost everyone supposedly on the inside of the fight game knew that Baer had gone back, that he probably could not get in proper condition but they refused to believe Braddock could win.

They knew that Baer was a terrific hitter and that, at long range his swift sweeping right always was dangerous.

The betting started at four and five to one that Baer would win, and went as high as ten to one with three and four to one offered that he would knock Braddock out.

Few knew that Braddock was gaining sound weight and even increasing his strength. He took on seven pounds in ten days of training at Loch Sheldrake and was hearing an [illegible].

Never has a fighter been better coached as to how to beat an opponent. He was drilled to keep in close to Baer and inside of Maxie's long sweeping swings.

Braddock knew how and why Baer had beaten good men. Jim planned his fight weeks in advance. But his stunning victory over the champion was due more to psychology than to strength and condition.

Johnston was never busier as a psychosizzler—urging Braddock to greater efforts while ridiculing and taunting Baer at every opportunity.

ASKS FOR PRAYERS

Braddock, working outdoors in the keen mountain air, eating well and freed from worry, climbed to 211 pounds before he commenced to reduce for the fight.

The story of that fight is too well known to be repeated. Braddock, cool, perfect conditioned, confident, obeyed orders, kept inside Baer's murderous long swings, took few chances and using his left as Loughran had used his against him he never let Baer rest or get settled.

Jim took no chances by trying to knock out the clowning champion. Before the 10th Baer knew he was beaten and became wild.

Braddock became more machine-like until the 15th and last round when Baer made a desperate rally trying for a long shot knockout.

Braddock suddenly seemed to tire and for a moment looked bad. Jim was not hurt but seemed exhausted.

I queried him about that round. Physically he was as fresh and as strong in the 15th as at any time in the fight, but sudden realization that he was winning, that—in a few more seconds—he would achieve victory, become the heavyweight champion—that the goal of his lifetime, which he had ceased to hope to reach, was at hand—resulted in a brief nervous shock that seemed to weaken him.

He couldn't believe it. The Jimmy Braddock—down and out one year before—was to be champion holding the very title his idol, Jack Dempsey, had held! Small wonder that Jim felt suddenly weak and breathless.

A sharp blow to the head jarred him out of his half trance. Jim jolted Baer backward with a left to the ribs, the bell rang.

Braddock was champion of the world! A miracle had happened.

ARTICLE 13

"Strange Field Landings"

The care exercised by the academic board at the training center before eliminating a student for lack of inherent flying ability, and the instruction in "hurdles" given as a preliminary to strange field landings and cross country flying was covered in the last article.

Toward the end of the primary training stage of instruction at the Air Corps advanced flying school the student is given instruction in "strange field landings."

After the instructor has explained carefully to the student how landings in small fields should be made, what reconnaissance of the field should be made before landing, and how the various obstacles commonly found on landing fields appear from the air, the instructor and student take off for what is, in effect, a short cross country flight.

The instructor selects a field in which the student has never before landed, and directs the student to land in it. This is one of the most [illegible] phases of primary [illegible] and the student feels that he is really beginning to find out something about flying.

On receiving the signal to land in a field the student circles the field to look it over, notices the wind direction, the slope of the proposed landing area and the obstacles around it.

He then comes down and flies across the field at an altitude of about 30 to [illegible] feet and slightly to one side so as to make a detailed inspection of the exact part of the field which he will use.

He then goes back and lands just as he had been taught to do in "hurdles." If he makes a "mess" of his landing, the instructor takes the controls and he tries again.

After landing and listening to the not always complimentary remarks of the instructor, the student gets out of the plane, walks over the field to be sure that there are no obstacles which might interfere with his take-off.

This is repeated on successive fields until the instructor is convinced that the student is able to make safe landings on fields he has never used before.

After hopping from field to field for half an hour or so, the instructor stops for a short rest and to talk over with the student the landings that he has made. The actual criticism of the student's work takes a comparatively short time.

Thereafter this talk is apt to consist of stories of troubles encountered by others on forced landings. There are many such stories, most of them based on fact.

For instance, one student on solo night cross-country landed all right and jumped out of the cockpit into a gully 15 feet deep. In landing, his wheels had missed the gully by three feet and the plane was, after his landing, in perfect condition. The poor pilot, however, had to go to the hospital.

The next article will discuss recognition of the "Dodoes" at Randolph Field.

As June 28, the date of the New England championship tournament at Franklin Field approaches, model builders are busier than ever constructing their glider, stick and cabin model planes.

Edward J. Domohowski of 32 Summer street, Hyde Park, has named his gliders, the third of which he reports he has just finished. The first is the "Skimmer", the second, the "Cloud Duster" and the third flies well but is yet unnamed.

Joseph Walsh, of 96 Willis street, New Bedford, has finished a glider and a cabin model of original design and is now building a stick model.

Lowry Russell of 276 Highland street, Dedham, reports his twin-pusher model has the habit of stalling but hopes to correct it by adding more power or adjusting the wing.

• • •

Charles Freeman, Roxbury Junior Birdmen Ace, who assisted Frank Pasquarosa, instructor of the model plane section of the Roxbury branch of the Boys Club of Boston in conducting a recent model plane meet there, has announced the results.

The contest was open to Roxbury model builders only. The chief winner was William Konaxis who will receive an engraved trophy. The next four winners get kits. They are John Wilson, Arthur Badivian, Edward Bagley and Robert Sebring.

The results were as follows. Scale Contest (appearance). First, Sebring, American Eaglet; Badivian, Fearwing Speedster; Konaxis, Fairchild 22, Wilson, Monocoupe and Bagley, Aeronca.

Flying Scale: Konaxis, 24s.; A. Ridgeley, 16.1s.; Arthur Bunker, 14s., Bagley, 13.5s. and Badivian 13s. This was an outdoor event.

R. O. G. Stick, Konaxis, 1 m. 21.2s. Wilson, 58s.; John Gapolan, 55s. Bagley, 34.8s. and Badivian, 18.[illegible]s. This was an indoor event. George Thompson also served as a judge.

• • •

The Arlington high school model airplane club, Junior Birdmen squadron No. 1697, recently were guests of Captain Albert L. Edson, East Boston Airport superintendent and the Inter-City Air Lines. Among other things they were shown the weather bureau's instruments.

Members have held two contests in the past month, Donald Robinson, Jr., Robert Cade and John Frey[illegible]n, scoring the most points.

Radioland Reflections

By N. F. T.

AS predicted here, big business has been done with John Barrymore by the broadcasters. He is taking to the radio realm in a dramatic way (WBZ) next Monday night, with a 45-minute "Hamlet" impression for his first airing. It will start at 9:30 p. m.

Selectively, the spot is no cinch to assume. It's in there stacked up against the last half hour (WEEI) of the "Radio Theatre" drama directed by Cecil B. DeMille. Even from there it runs smack into the first 15 minutes of Wayne King's rather cooling music, which gets under way at 10 o'clock. Six settings of "streamlined" Shakespearean classics are scheduled to star John to complete the sustaining series, with no commercial sponsorship involved. The term "streamlined" as applied to the effort, is one coined by Barrymore in making the announcements.

"N. F. T."

NETWORK NOTES

Both Jessica Dragonette and Charles Kullmann will portray dual roles in the presentation of Sigmund Romberg's musical romance, "Maytime," in the "Beauty Box" broadcast this evening (WEEI) from 9:30 to 10 p. m. They will each play two roles as parted lovers of 1840 and as their respective descendants, a granddaughter and a grandson, who fall in love in 1917.

• • •

Fred Allen, that merry maestro of matchless mirth and medieval mountebanking, that Massachusetts' Mickey Mouse, will go alliterative in a big way with dizzy ditties, Busy Bees and a Gibson girl during his hour (WNAC) with Portland Hoffa, The Mighty Allen Art Players and Peter Van Steeden's Orchestra, meaning at 9 o'clock.

The genial "Town Hall Tonight" host announces for his talent parade Bill Butler's Busy Bees, Owens and Parco, doing dizzy ditties deftly, and Virginia Gibson, sometimes called Ginger, variety vocalist.

HUB HIGHLIGHTS

Another of those striking preview periods (WMEX) is coming through from 8:45 to 9 o'clock tonight. Voice reproduction and scenes from the filming of "A Day at the Races" with the Marx Brothers will be the offering, negotiated by special arrangement between local fur interests and the M-G-M studios of Hollywood.

• • •

Tomorrow's regular "Community Bulletin" turn (WEEI) between 4:10 and 4:30 is fashioned to reflect due credit upon the House of the Good Samaritan, with dramatic interludes holding forth under the supervision of Johnny Neagle, alert air activity planner for the "Community Bulletin" interests.

• • •

Many a time it's a tight squeeze for those "cut-in" announcements hereabouts. The theme music at the closing of a feature hour or half hour very often must be clipped to insert the short station sparks contracted by local stations. Tightening up or "running behind" by as much as 15 to 20 seconds by any of the big variety coast to coast settings, causes much consternation and concern to the broadcasters in scores of cities.

• • •

GRAND GESTURE

The bell-like tones of Lily Pons, radioland's popular coloratura songstress, will serve as wedding bells (WEEI) late tonight from 12:[illegible] to 1 a. m.

At that time Miss Pons will sing a special serenade to her intimate friend, Jeanette MacDonald, who is being married in Hollywood to Gene Raymond, film star. The wedding is a late evening affair, according to Pacific Coast time, really Thursday morning in our Eastern area.

Accompanied by Andre Kostelanetz at the piano, Miss Pons will sing Carry Jacobs' ballad, "I Love You Truly," Cesar Franck's "Le Mariage des Roses" and if time permits, Gounod's "Ave Maria."

What People Most Eagerly Want to Know

Stocks, Business Giving Way to Roosevelt and Labor Prospects

By B. C. FORBES

Usually when this writer is "on the road," two questions most frequently asked are:

"What do you think of the stock market?"

"What is business going to do?"

R[illegible] both in Canada and in this country the subjects most often raised pertain: First, to labor. Second, to Pres[illegible] R[illegible].

B. C. Forbes

S[illegible] is relatively more animated in Canada today than here. Many Canadians have at least paper profits on mining stocks. The ma[illegible] are low-priced, extremely speculative, not classifiable as investments.

Not for a long time has stock speculation been at a lower ebb than it is now in the United States. Dealings by the public have been averaging only a few hundred thousand shares daily on the New York Stock Exchange, although in-and-out dealings by exchange members have continued fairly active—approximating, lately, 20 per cent of the total turnover.

One consequence is that stock exchange seats have fallen to $65,000, which contrasts with a peak of $625,000 reached in 1929. Not only so but Wall Street says that an abnormal number of brokers are anxious to dispose of their memberships because of inadequate income. Incidentally, the prospect is that quite a number of smaller firms will fold their tents before the year ends.

It is an old, old story. When stock quotations are advancing the public rush to buy; when a sharp decline sets in, their ardor cools.

The downswing in the last three months has been rather severe. One compilation covering 50 stocks shows a drop from 143 early in March to 125, while the Dow-Jones industrial average has fallen from 194 to 165 and the railway average from 64 to 54.

Curious it is that, while people are eager to buy everything else at low prices, they much prefer to buy shares at high rather than at low prices.

At this juncture, I prefer to be noncommittal when asked regarding stocks. After such a substantial shading of market values a more or less substantial recovery would be logical. On the other hand, because of labor, political and other uncertainties, including the possibility of a recession in trade this summer, it may be that lower prices will be experienced.

As for trade and industry, the fact is that statistics are still, on the whole, favorable. New York stores, a fairly trustworthy guide, record very substantial gains over this time last year. And most industries, outside of those suffering from strikes, are still doing well.

Contrarywise, sentiment in the highest places is still very cautious. My contacts and conversations impel the conclusion that few heavyweight investors have been buying extensively.

Only a rash person would venture to predict what is likely to happen politically. President Roosevelt has given no conclusive indication that he has modified his program or ambitions in the slightest.

Moreover, all Supreme Court decisions during the last session were favorable to the New Deal, in contrast with rulings delivered during previous sessions.

One man's guess is as good as another's regarding labor possibilities. Employers are deriving some encouragement from latest events in the steel strikes. But the whole situation is liable to change drastically overnight.

Venturesomeness isn't inspired by prevailing conditions.

MACHINE Industry WORRIED

STRIKES MAY DISRUPT PLANS

New York, June 16 (AP)—After two years of notable expansion in production, the machinery industry is worried lest the current wave of industrial strikes temporarily disrupt its plans for further gains.

Concern of manufacturers was mirrored today by the observations of American Machinist which said "interruption of production by strikes, threats of strikes and shortage of materials due to labor troubles cannot help but leave its imprint on the industry."

But serious losses will be avoided and the industry will be afforded a good opportunity to set a new high mark for output in the post-depression period if labor troubles are cleared up in the near future, trade circles believe.

IN GOOD POSITION

To emphasize the point the industry still is in a favorable position in spite of protracted labor unsettlement, the American Machinist pointed out that many machine tool builders have large backlogs and added that some "would welcome a respite to shorten deliveries were it not for the shadow of labor agitation in their own shops."

Tool and machinery builders continue to count on a large flow of new business in connection with the modernization programs undertaken within the last year or so in various industries, according to observers.

This movement is thought to be far from completion. It is well along toward the goal in some industries, but in others production and manufacturing fields it is just starting.

Demand for new equipment has been spurred by the rising trend of operating costs. Increased wages, social security costs and other factors making for higher production expense are said to have prompted many manufacturers to turn to modernization for whatever it might yield in the direction of economies and expense control.

U. S. Gold Fund Is Nearing Billion Dollar Mark

Washington, June 16—Although the treasury's inactive gold fund may pass $1,000,000,000 within the next week, there is no indication here that the government plans to discontinue its sterilization of further gold acquisitions.

When the inactive fund passed the $500,000,000 mark on April 20, the official attitude was that it could at least double without raising any question of its continuance.

Now that it has doubled in less than two months, the intention to continue sterilization still remains unchanged as far as can be learned. The treasury's large borrowings on [illegible]es this month are believed to indicate a determination to continue the existing sterilization mechanism.

In Congress, however, several bills have been introduced to end the sterilization operations or to change them into another form so that they will not add to the interest burden on the treasury.

May Statistics Reveal Picture Of Industry

By LEWIS HANEY

(Professor of Economics, New York University)

New York, June 16—Perhaps an examination of the available statistics for May will help toward a better understanding of our industrial situation.

* * *

To begin with we find signs that the iron and steel industry was getting back to a more normal position. Production was kept quite closely in line with consumer requirements. Shipments were reduced. And steel scrap prices reacted sharply to correct the speculative run-up of the first four months.

Some abnormalities remained, however, as seen in the high percentage of blast furnace activity and the sharp reaction in number of blast furnaces while all other indexes rose.

The position appears to resemble somewhat that found in June, 1934, or possibly July, 1923. In either case, further reaction would be suggested. At present, however, the labor situation is so important a factor that it seems easily possible that a return of industrial peace would restore more favorable conditions.

Certainly we have here one of many illustrations that this is no normal or irresistible cyclical upswing. Thus there is hope in the possibility that changes in policy may quickly reverse the current decline.

* * *

Machine tool orders fell sharply in May. But again this erratic barometer leaves us in doubt. It is not down to the March level and is much above the low of the February reaction. In fact, it is above the peak reached in 1929. The three-month moving average has not yet turned down.

Railway equipment buying also subsided. In May only 14 steam locomotives were ordered, which compares with 84 in April and 10 a year ago. For all kinds of locomotives, both the unfilled orders and the shipments declined. But the unfilled orders remained more than eight times the number shipped. New freight car orders dropped sharply and were below a year ago.

Nor was activity in the building industries very encouraging. "Permits," for example, were down more than the usual seasonal amount, making the third monthly decline in the adjusted index. Here the upward trend seems to be broken. There was also a sharp drop in residential construction contracts let. The heavier types of construction, however, seem to have done better, including public works.

One sidelight on residential building appears in the increase in rents, which averaged about 1 per cent in May and was over 11 per cent for the year ending with May. The question now is, will the higher rentals offset higher building costs? Will they drive people to economize space and use old buildings?

At this point we note that zinc stocks declined again, and amounted to only a week's supply. But the decline was small, and production gained on shipments. Copper stocks increased. Certainly the edge is off the nonferrous metals boom.

* * *

Factory employment and payrolls form one of the bright spots in the statistics. In New York State, employment was 89.6 per cent of the 1925-27 average, which means practically no change from April. But usually there is a drop of 1 per cent. The weekly payroll was $13.2 million, against $9.3 million in May, 1936.

Metals and machinery—especially electrical appliances—showed large employment gains. Cotton and silk textiles and shoes did the worst.

Accordingly, department store sales held their ground well, increasing over April by the usual seasonal amount. The adjusted index remains unchanged at 93 per cent of the 1923-25 average, which is 11 per cent over a year ago.

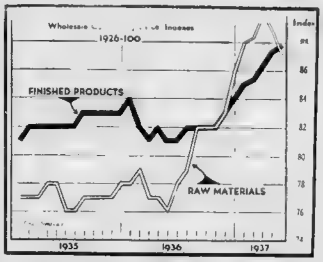
Atlanta territory made the best showing, with Dallas and the Southwest next. The districts on Minneapolis, Cleveland and Boston, appeared most backward, on account of strikes and unfavorable weather.

Wholesale commodity prices declined again, and the same bill of goods that would have sold for $115.16 on May 1, could have been bought for $113.37 on June 1. It is important to observe that this was still 16½ per cent over a year ago, and that the bulk of the general rise in prices has been retained.

* * *

At the moment, it seems that industrial production has outrun demand, chiefly because of political and labor uncertainties. Since these uncertainties are mostly government-made, we may expect the government to try to unmake them before long. The stage is being set for renewed inflationary measures.

FINISHED PRICES CONTINUE UPWARD



The sharp rise in raw material prices, which culminated in a peak during March, had resulted in a steady upward movement in prices of finished products. Despite the drop in raw material prices during April and May, finished prices continued to gain.

During the period from May, 1936, through March, 1937, raw material prices rose fully 18 per cent. In the same period, finished goods prices gained about 7 per cent. With industry faced with materially higher labor costs as well as higher taxes and other expenses, advances in prices of many manufactured products were to be expected.

Since March, raw material prices have declined 3.3 per cent, while finished products prices have risen an additional 1.4 per cent.

ELECTRIC POWER

Production at Record High

New York, June 16 (AP)—The Associated Press index of electric power production advanced for the week ended June 12 to 121.5, a record high, and compared with 119.0 in the preceding week.

A year ago the index, which is adjusted for seasonal and long-term trend, stood at 109.8. The previous record for the index was 119.8, established in the week ended December 12, 1936.

The range for recent years follows:

	1937	1936	1935	1934	1933
High	121.5	119.8	105.5	97.4	91.9
Low	116.3	102.0	94.1	91.9	80.2

The Edison Electric Institute reported actual production for the week was 2,214,166,000 kilowatt hours, a gain of 3.9 per cent over output of 2,131,092,000 kilowatt hours in the preceding week. The increase over last year's comparative was the widest since the week of January 9 and output was the best since the week ended January 3. Production in the same week last year totaled 1,945,018,000 kilowatt hours, or 13.8 per cent under last week's figures.

The institute reported the following percentage increases according to major geographic areas: New England 9.2, Middle Atlantic 13.4, Central industrial 12.9, West Central 4.4, Southern states 13.8, Rocky Mountain 27.9, Pacific Coast 9.1.

Ross New Head of Credit Association

Spokane, Wash., June 16 (AP)—Election of J. Gordon Ross of Rochester, N. Y., as the new president of the National Credit Association was virtually assured today by his nomination without opposition. E. K. Barnes, Spokane, is the retiring president. The election, regarded merely as a formality, will be Thursday.

Leo Karples, Birmingham, Ala., was nominated for first vice-president and A. E. Kaiser, Los Angeles, for second vice-president.

French Franc Up Against Dollar, Sterling

New York, June 16 (INS)—The French franc appreciated sharply against sterling in opening deals in foreign exchange markets today on the news that the Blum government had won backing of the Chamber of Deputies for its program to defend France's currency.

In the local market the rally failed to hold, however, and the franc lost ⅛ point from yesterday's closing to 4.45¼ cents. Extensive offerings necessitated renewed support by British and French control authorities.

The futures market continued highly nervous and it is expected to remain so until the Blum program has been definitely set. In London, where spot francs opened at 110.72 to the pound and later reacted to 110.91, forward francs weakened sharply, being offered at 6 3-16 francs discount for 90-day money and 3¼ francs for one month.

Other foreign moneys were unchanged to lower. The British pound eased ⅛ cents to $4.93¾, the belga was unchanged at 16.88½ cents, the Swiss franc lost ½ to 22.92 and the guilder held at 54.99.

Scandinavian and Japanese rates were lower. The London gold rate was unchanged at 140 shilling 5½ pence while the U. S. equivalent lost 1 cent to $34.69. About 490,000 (about $2,400,000) was offered at price fixing time and all taken for arbitrage.

Labor Troubles Are Threatening Big Recovery

By LESLIE GOULD

International News Service Financial Writer

New York, June 16 (INS)—Alice in Wonderland has nothing on the situation prevailing in this country, and in fact throughout the world today. Here a great, strong recovery from a deep, costly depression is being threatened by serious labor troubles and strikes. And the major disagreement between employers and employes is not over wages and hours, but over who shall have the right to speak for the workers.

The purge in Russia with eight of the leading generals executed as traitors on top of other recent mass trials and death sentences handed out to other public idols and leaders.

NAZI CONCERN

Nazi Germany's reported concern over American labor policies.

The drive by the brokers to increase commission rates to the public, when there are approximately as many stock exchange firms and partners as there were back in the boom days of 4 and 5 million share trading. Trading currently is around 600,000 shares a day.

Then, in stocks a bear market has developed, although this country and the whole world is headed for one of the greatest inflations ever seen—which means a boom before the final crash.

The politicians and many of the economists and bankers are bemoaning the tremendous increase in world gold stocks. Two and three years ago they were lamenting the fact that there was not enough to go around and that a substitute would have to be found for this international yardstick of values.

FARM LABOR

There is a shortage of skilled labor and workers on the farms, but the government is appropriating a billion and a half dollars for "unemployment" relief.

In Europe, three of the great powers are engaged in open hostilities—Russia versus Germany and Italy—but it is called a Spanish civil war.

And if that were not enough, in New York Mayor LaGuardia has a "hurdy gurdy" man—an organ-grinder to the initiated—arrested under an anti-noise ordinance. The court forces the organ grinder to sell his musical instrument, which has provided him and his family a living for 35 years, then gives him a certificate so that he can go on home relief. He will receive $13 weekly without working.

And so it goes, everywhere.

If all this is not Lewis Carroll, then 2 and 2 make 5. Maybe it does, at that.

'Gas' Stocks, Crude Output Off in Week

A further draft of 498,000 barrels on gasoline stocks and a curtailment of another 22,250 barrels daily in production of crude oil featured the week's statistics for the oil industry. Refinery operations were stepped up moderately.

Production of crude in the United States was estimated at 3,515,900 barrels daily in the week ended June 12 by the American Petroleum Institute. Although this is about 150,000 barrels higher than estimated daily requirements made by the Bureau of Mines, it is the lowest production in five weeks. The peak was 3,573,700 barrels touched in the seven days ended May 29, last.

Texas, which made a sharp cut in allowable production beginning June 1, accounted for the largest part of the decline last week.

$2,000,000 Nash Expansion Plan

Nash automobile plants in Kenosha, Racine and Milwaukee, Wis., have scheduled a $2,000,000 expansion program to keep pace with increasing sales, Courtney Johnson, general sales manager of the Nash Motors division of the Nash Kelvinator Corp., announced on arrival in Boston this morning. Shipments of 1937 models have more than doubled the totals of last year according to Mr. Johnson, and the scheduled expansion is designed to provide increased production facilities, to expand the personnel both at the plants and in the field and to make available more distribution outlets.

RATED as Investment NO. 1

BIG BUSINESS RANKS FIRST

New York, June 16 (AP)—Big business was rated today by the 20th Century Fund as the No. 1 investment for the average man. It pays much more generous dividends than do smaller businesses, the Fund's research economists said in a report of a two-year study of large and small corporations.

There are exceptions, the report asserts, but in general the bigger the business the more dividends; the smaller the business, the less money for the stockholders.

The way this worked out during the years 1931-33 in the broad cross-section of business covered by the fund's investigation is shown in the following table of profitable corporations. The first column shows the total dollar assets of each group, and the last three the per cent of net income paid out in dividends in each of the three years. Total assets in thousands of dollars.

	Per cent paid out
	1931	1932	1933
Under 50	42.7	60.1	26.0
50-100	57.2	66.5	[illegible]
100-250	60.9	64.1	18.6
250-500	67.3	71.2	34.7
500-1000	73.6	73.9	43.5
1000-5000	75.5	79.2	52.9
5000-10,000	86.1	87.1	60.6
10,000-50,000	86.9	92.4	77.[illegible]
50,000 and over	103.7	106.0	102.5

The giant corporations, the table shows, actually dispersed more than they earned in each of the three years. The extra money came from surplus and undivided profits accumulated in previous years of prosperity and stored for this purpose.

Smaller companies cannot duplicate this practice because surplus and undivided profits make up a smaller part of their capital than the same items do in the capital structure of the bigger firms. In 1933, for example, corporations with more than $50,000,000 in assets had 23.3 per cent of their total capital in the form of surplus. Companies with less than $50,000 showed a 51.9 deficit, a difference of 75.2 per cent.

Big business gives the investor a better break than small business no matter from what angle the prosperity of the business is measured, the 20th century report indicated.

When considered in ratio to common stock, common dividends of the biggest companies covered by the study in 19[illegible] were three times as great as the dividends of the smallest companies, the figures. For corporations with less than $50,000 in assets, 1 per cent; for corporations with assets of more than $50,000,000, 3.6 per cent.

Examination of 677 corporations proved that dividends are more stable than earnings and also that dividend changes as a rule lag behind changes in earnings, both in the down swing of depression and the upswing of boom times.

The rule of "the bigger the better" investment does not hold true in the case of small businesses where the stockholders and the officers of the firm are one and the same. In such instances, officers' salaries are, in effect, dividends and must be added to the earnings total.

These stockholders-officers, however, are not average investors and therefore their status makes no change in the general trend.

Cluett, Peabody Sets Price at $22

Cluett Peabody & Co. Inc., proposes to offer its 112,974 shares of common stock for subscription to shareholders at $22 a share, according to an amendment filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission.

Subject to the registration statement becoming effective the offering will be made to stockholders of record June 25 in the ratio of one additional share for each five held.

The offering is underwritten by a group headed by Goldman, Sachs & Co., and including J. & W. Seligman & Co., Brown, Harriman & Co., Inc., Kidder, Peabody & Co., Hayden, Stone & Co., Hemphill Noyes & Co., Kleinwort Sons & Co., G. M.-P. Murphy & Co., Anthony Tucker & Co. and Kuhn, Loeb & Co.

Old Colony Elects New Officers

At a meeting of directors of Old Colony Trust Co., John Coulson Jr., and A. Stanley North were elected vice-presidents and Ernest B. Dustan, secretary. Mr. Coulson was formerly secretary and Mr. Dustan assistant secretary of the trust company. Mr. North is also a vice president of the First National Bank of Boston.

PROPERTY RIGHTS

Labor's Position Undetermined

By WILLIAM S. NEAL

International News Service Staff Correspondent

Washington, June 16—A behind-the-scenes controversy over a proposal interpreted by some congressional lawyers as recognizing labor's "property right in jobs" today threatened to wreck a proposed rewriting of the nation's bankruptcy laws.

The issue which developed during the wave of "sit down" strikes was precipitated by a recommendation by the securities exchange commission that labor be given the right to appear in federal courts in the reorganization of corporations.

Opponents of the proposal declared the only authority Congress has for writing such a provision in bankruptcy law is to accept the legal theory that labor does have a property right in employment.

While the proposal emanated from the SEC, it has been given the full backing of both the A. F. of L. and the CIO.

Commissioner William O. Douglas of the SEC, testifying before the House Judiciary Committee on the Chandler Bill, to rewrite the bankruptcy laws, was questioned on the proposal.

The question of recognizing the property right in a job was raised by Rep. Michener (R.) of Michigan.

"Fundamentally, that must, of necessity, recognize the property right of the employe in his job," said Michener. "That is the first thing."

"Yes," replied Douglas.

Wall Street Hears

New York, June 16 (INS)—That Paraffine Companies, Inc. (PAF) is expected to show earnings of about $3.25 a share for the fiscal year to June 30.

That another $1.50 dividend payment will be voted by International Business Machines (IMN) at next week's meeting.

That profits of Johns-Manville (JMP) are running at the rate of $7 a share for the full year.

Trading in Black Pepper Futures Active, Up

New York, June 16 (AP)—If there was any untoward sneezing down in the financial district today it was purely in the routine of business—the pepper business.

For the first time in the history of the New York Produce Exchange on Beaver street a futures market was opened for trading in black pepper.

Heretofore the principal trading center for black pepper was Mincing lane in London. But now the center of gravity of the pepper world has definitely shifted to New York City—at least, so the New York pepper brokers maintain.

The market opened active and upward. The first sale—after a great amount of ceremony and speech-making—was a contract for future delivery in September at 5.78 cents. Price changes are in units of 1-100th of a cent a pound. September futures rose quickly to 5.82.

A contract calls for delivery of 33,600 pounds of Lampong black pepper. Each 1-100th of a cent represents $3.36 per contract.

Strike Causes Aired

By HUGH E. BRADSHAW

The real reasons for the strikes in steel and motor manufacturing centers are being driven out into the open, where the group most concerned—the general public—may examine them on their merits. Credit for this development must go to the constant interchange of argument between capital and labor, to say nothing of the side comments of political observers.

The views President Roosevelt expressed at his press conference yesterday changed the complexion of the news on page one in that differences of opinion behind the strike replaced actual strike news in lead stories. At the same time the very fact the chief executive saw fit to comment at all makes the issue, in the eyes of the reading public, one of national importance. While labor leaders naturally feel they now occupy a favored position it is also true that management was given an ideal opportunity to air the real causes of dissension. No time was lost in doing so.

• • •

Tom Girdler, president of Republic Steel, sent a challenging summary of the situation to employes which seems certain to make an impression. And it harped on one main point—the refusal of the company to sign a written agreement. The refusal to sign is clearly pictured as the sole reason for the strike. Wage and hour conditions are not in dispute; collective bargaining principles are not at stake. As we have noted here previously the issue might fairly be said to concern the power sought by certain labor leaders.

• • •

If it were not for the fact the power of labor leaders is without supervision the situation might not be so alarming. But as Colby M. Chester, chairman of General Foods, pointed out here in Boston yesterday, business corporations submit reports to their stockholders. But some unions with more real "stockholders" than any industrial corporation do not submit reports to their rank and file membership and the public is beginning to wonder why.

• • •

There is tendency on the part of some traders to rush into the market on the assumption that since the decline did not reach the levels most professional observers expected it will not do so. That is a line of reasoning we can't understand. In the first place a secondary reaction is sure to develop before long and whether it will send prices to the low areas anticipated is impossible to say. Two psychological forces are in opposition and the winner will decide the question. If fears of violent labor strife surmount fears of investors that the supply of stocks is small then new lows will be seen.

• • •

All in all a waiting attitude does not seem to call for any great risks. The market will not run away in a straight line and even if minimum lows evade buyers it will be a small price to pay for freedom from worry. For our part we prefer to wait and see what groups and individual stocks refused to follow the general list into new low ground. They will present the best opportunities.

• • •

Notebook: So far some of the stocks that fill the above requirements are Sears, General Electric, Westinghouse, truck stocks and the farm equipments . . . They may prove vulnerable later on, but are at least worth watching in here . . . In considering Socony Vacuum we are advised to remember that the company received a smaller dividend from Standard Vacuum last year than it did in '35 . . . But the latter had additional undistributed earnings of some $1,000,000 in 1936 . . . Also this year it will probably not be necessary for the company to charge off about $6,000,000 against foreign net for items thought uncollectable.

STOCKS Continue LOWER

STEEL ISSUES STRONG

New York, June 16—Although improving somewhat, the stock market continued irregularly lower today. Steels displayed an independently strong tone, with Youngstown, Bethlehem and U. S. Steel chalking up large fractional gains. Republic was inclined to lag.

Motors were mixed, General Motors dropping well over a point at one time to within a small fraction of its 1937 low. Chrysler, though, ran up a point before meeting profit-taking. Packard slipped fractionally into new low ground.

Several other stocks dropped to new bottoms for the year, including Schenley, American Radiator Pullman, Wilson, Chesapeake & Ohio, Holly Sugar, North American and B. M. T. The latter was off close to 2 points before meeting support.

Copper shares were inclined to lower levels, as were rubbers and chemicals. Rails and aviations were mixed. Amusements gained slightly.

Homestake was an individual star, spurting 11 points. American Sugar, however, dropped 3 points in its department.

Bonds were irregular and quiet. Grains and cotton ruled well above previous closing levels.

CURRENT ITEMS

Trading circles expressed satisfaction over the report of "Iron Age" that strikes in independent steel companies are having a "minimum" of influence on steel markets.

"New business in Pittsburgh and at one or two other points was slightly larger in the past week than in the week before," the survey said. This was seen as indicating some diversion of orders from strike-affected units to those not involved.

"The small amount of such switching indicates the majority of steel users are well supplied for the time being," it was reported.

Followers of power issues were impressed with the rebound in electricity after the week including Memorial day holiday.

The Edison Electric Institute reported output for the week ended June 12 up 3.9 per cent over the previous period and 13.8 per cent ahead of the like week of 1936.

The French franc opened at 4.45¼ cents, down .00¼ of a cent. The pound sterling was off ⅜ of a cent at $4.93⅜.

Municipal Financing

Cranston, R. I. awarded to Rhode Island Hospital Trust Co. at 0.659 per cent, $100,000 revenue notes dated June 15 and payable December 15. Wall Street Briefs

New York, June 16—Crude rubber consumption by U. S. manufacturers in May decreased slightly less than 1 per cent from April but was 2.2 per cent over May, 1936, the Rubber Manufacturers' Association announced today. May tonnage was estimated at 51,733 compared with 51,797 tons in April and 50,612 in May, 1936.

Halsey, Stuart & Co., Inc., is offering today at a price to yield 1.15 per cent an issue of $4,000,000 city of Boston 1.30 per cent temporary loan notes, dated June 22, 1937, and due April 21, 1938.

Hupp Motor Car Co. will start production of its 1938 models on August 1 following a shut down of more than a year Thomas Bradley, president, announced today. No prices will be announced now. The company feels that it can break even on an annual production of 15,000 cars, the president declared.

Interest on the certificates of deposit for the Republic of El Salvador Series A. B and C bonds, issued under the readjustment agreement date, April 27, 1936, will be paid July 1 to holders of record June 19 by the Manufacturers Trust Co., as paying agent.

Stockholders of Neisner Bros., Rochester, N. Y., approved a reduction in capitalization by elimination of the 6½ per cent cumulative preferred stock and 7 per cent cumulative convertible preferred stock. A 4¾ per cent issue recently was sold to pave the way for this recapitalization.

May production of window glass totaled 1,293,483 boxes, or 79.7 per cent of the industry's capacity, compared with 1,330,893 boxes, equal to 81.9 per cent in preceding month, according to the Window Glass Manufacturers Association.

Cuban exports of sugar from January 1 to June 12 totaled 1,417,264 tons, compared with 1,303,757 tons in the same period last year, according to Lamborn & Co., sugar brokers. Shipments to the United States amounted to 1,169,020 tons, against 1,004,676 tons.

ON Being MISLED

EMOTIONAL PHRASES

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER

The use of emotional adjectives to describe economic conditions frequently creates misleading pictures in the public mind.

For example, politicians have given the impression that big business is synonymous with wickedness, and, conversely, that small enterprises are inherently sound and useful.

As a matter of fact, the very reverse of these conceptions is nearer the truth.

Subject to the limitations of any broad generalizations, it is factually demonstrable that those enterprises which in competition became big through superior efficiency rather than by virtue of monoply, are better than average employers.

For example, it has been estimated that 95 per cent of the members of the National Association of Manufacturers already pay the wages and limit hours in accord with the impulse behind the pending Black-Connery wages and hours bill.

Likewise, it has been the "wicked" big corporations which pioneered in voluntary old age pensions, savings schemes for workers, vacations with pay, improved sanitary conditions, and the other evidences of advancing civilization in the business world.

Very few of the outstanding corporations have attempted to build profits out of chiseling on workers. On the contrary, management has felt that it was profitable to attract superior workers by paying a premium over the prevailing wage. Moreover, with the increasing use of mechanical tools and electric power in production, it has been found that shortening the work is in accord with standards of efficiency.

Many small enterprises have been efficiently managed, and they constitute important and invaluable links in America's economic organization. Many of these small acorns in time grow into great oaks.

Yet chiseling is found primarily in smaller and less efficiently conducted enterprises—in the submarginal concerns.

If the purpose of the Black-Connery bill is to create floors below which wages shall not fall and to limit hours to reasonable maxima, then it is essential that the proposed law be applied impartially toward small as well as large enterprises.

Comments of Brokers

For trading purposes, the oils, farm equipment, rail equipment, mail order stocks and specialties appear attractive at current levels. —J. S. Wilson, Josepthal & Co.

We look for a continuation of the investment buying of the accumulative type which seemingly has been the main source of support during reactionary periods. —J. S. Molloy, Hornblower & Weeks.

The outlook for the market is naturally confused by labor troubles, and their outcome is unpredictable though there have been signs of the awakening of public resentment, the traditional cure for such social ills.—F. H. Richardson, Southgate & Co.

Some additional rally of a technical nature could readily occur but an important and sustained advance will probably need a brightening of the labor crisis as an incentive. Favorable influence of the good crop outlook on business in months ahead is now being obscured by the labor imbroglio and the French fiscal position.—H. D. Comer, Paine, Webber & Co.

A solution to the gold problem would probably have a most salutary effect on the stock market over the long range, even if a temporary sharp reaction developed due to a reduction in the price of gold.—Blake Brothers & Co.

If the pattern shown so far in this intermediate downswing continues to be followed, prices will move irregularly around current levels a little longer and then stage a minor recovery.—G. M.-P. Murphy & Co.

Quick-turn trading commitments would appear worthy of consideration on further reactions.—J. S. Bache & Co.

Only quiet, temporary rallies are likely to be experienced for the near future.—J. P. Maher, Shields & Co.

We see nothing in the news to date which may be construed as an improvement in the underlying labor situation and, in fact, the news today was somewhat less satisfactory. We would therefore advise against following the current rally. —E. A. Pierce & Co.

Monetary Pact in Danger

By ERIC FRIEDHEIM

International News Service Staff Correspondent.

Washington, June 16 (INS)—The administration stood ready today to reshape its fiscal policies, as a new French financial crisis threatened temporary disruption of the tri-partite monetary agreement.

Although Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau indicated little concern over the French situation, efforts of the Blum government to halt the flight of capital from France are being watched closely by American officials.

Under the three-power pact of last September, the United States joined with Great Britain and France in a "gentlemen's agreement" to maintain stability of the dollar, pound and franc in foreign exchange.

• • •

As the pressure on the franc developed in recent weeks because of a French unfavorable trade balance and continued outflow of capital, Paul Bastid, French commerce minister, warned his country may be required to withdraw from the monetary treaty unless American and British tariff barriers were lowered. In an attempt to reduce the gold exodus, the Bank of France on Monday raised its discount rate.

Administration financial advisers met with Morgenthau yesterday presumably to chart necessary alteration of this country's foreign exchange policy in the event of French withdrawal. Present at the conference were Reserve Board Chairman Marriner S. Eccles, George Harrison, head of the New York reserve bank, and Treasury economist.

In addition, Morgenthau appointed Winfield S. Riefler, Princeton University professor and a former government financial adviser, as consultant to the $2,000,000,000 exchange stabilization fund. Riefler will serve in an advisory capacity without salary.

• • •

While officials refused to discuss the French crisis publicly, the general feeling prevailing in Treasury quarters is that the United States and Great Britain would be able to carry on successful currency stabilization agreement without France.

It was explained that the United States has little to fear from any French monetary action. Morgenthau has said the withdrawal of France from the agreement would simply be a French "internal matter."

Officials also commented that Holland, Belgium and Switzerland would be cooperating in currency stabilization efforts. These three countries pledged their aid in this direction shortly after the tripartite pact was drafted.

Charges N. Y. Curb Facilities Used to Raise Bond Prices

Washington, June 16 (AP)—Walter S. Kendall of Boston, president of the Securities Dealers Association of New England, charged today the New York Curb Exchange's facilities were used "commonly" to raise the price of inactive bonds.

The purpose, he said, was to sell the same bonds at the higher price outside of the exchange.

Kendall appeared before the securities commission to oppose an application of the exchange to conduct unlisted trading in 25 additional securities.

"I have no quarrel," he said, "with the exchanges on dealings in active securities in which there is an actual auction market.

"But in inactive bonds, the purchase of just a few bonds may raise the price unduly."

He said his experience indicated in the case of non-speculative bonds, issues of less than $25,000,000 are not likely to be traded actively on an exchange."

Abner Goldstone, commission counsel, asked him if he could cite any case where a few bonds were traded on the Curb exchange for the purpose of raising the price at which larger blocks of the same bonds could be sold over-the-counter.

"I can't think of any specific instances right now," Kendall replied.

IRELAND TAKING OWN PLACE AS NATION

On the eve of the Irish Free State's most crucial election, in which voters ballot early next month on the new proposed constitution and on continuation of the DeValera government, the eyes of the world are on the land of the shamrock. In a series of three articles, of which this is the last, Thomas C. Watson, Universal Service foreign correspondent, takes the reader behind the scenes of the Irish political situation.

By THOMAS C. WATSON

(Copyright, 1937, by Universal Service)

Dublin, June 16—Naturally the violent political turmoils which Ireland has endured during the last 20 years somewhat retarded its cultural development.

Dublin has provided many of the greatest writers in English prose. In the past, there were Dean Swift, Goldsmith; in recent times, George Moore, Frank Harris, James Joyce, Liam O'Flaherty—to mention only a few.

In drama, there are Oscar Wilde, Bernard Shaw, Sean O'Casey, Lennox Robinson. In art, MacEvoy, Orpen and Lavery. But they all migrated to England to capitalize themselves.

BIG CITIES CALL

The same to a certain extent prevails today. It is unfortunately to London or New York that many a cultured Irishman gravitates.

Just as the intellectual middle-classes that emerge from the two big universities, Trinity College and the National University, come to Britain to achieve their mark in the world, it is the same with creative artists.

A glance at the British army and navy lists finds nearly twenty per cent of its surgeons are products of the Irish universities; so, too, does the enormuos civil service of the British empire show a percentage of native-born Irishmen far greater per head of the population than is produced by the English or Scottish seats of learnings. To keep that talent within their own country is a problem for the future.

In the old days, Dublin was the second gayest city in the empire.

The better class Dubliner mixed with the garrison. Everybody in the outlying places was either not heard or deliberately ignored.

When the inevitable break occurred, the garrison departed. The small shopkeepers lost out. The saloons were emptied, the race courses depleted. Dublin became something like a third-class provincial city during a trade depression.

But now the city is gradually emerging from this slough. Phoenix Park is not crowded with gay young British cavalry officers riding their blood hunters or playing polo or cricket.

The two luxury hotels, the Gresham and the Shelbourne, are no longer filled with the tea drinking British officers. They are cluttered with earnest business men from Germany, Holland, Sweden, England and America, all putting through big business deals.

So clearly, then, Ireland is no longer a playground for the British, but a nation again, organizing itself to take its proper part in the world's commerce.

As for the rest of the entertainment, it must either be sought in the movies or the racetrack. The movies are the same as any American city. Magnificent palaces have been built comparable with any in the world, but the fare is foreign.

Governor Invited to Newton Party

Governor Hurley, Police Commissioner Timilty and other prominent state and city officials are included among more than 500 invited guests who will attend a garden party tomorrow at the home of Mrs. Harry N. Sawyer, Newton Highlands.

Many hotel executives will also attend. Arrangements are in charge of Mrs. Sawyer's son, Robert N. Appleton, managing director of the Bradford Hotel.

More than a score of picked musicians will compose an orchestra for open-air dancing and during the early evening the throng will be entertained with vaudeville acts.

Zionist Movement To Be Discussed

The World Zionist Congress, to be held in Zurich, Switzerland, in August, will be discussed tonight by Louis Lipsky, New York Jewish leader, at a meeting of Boston Zionists at the Mishkan Tefila Auditorium, Elm street, Roxbury.

Ralph F. Bass, president of the New England Zionist region, will preside and Elihu D. Stone, vice-president of the Zionist Organization of America, will speak on the importance of supporting the world Zionist leadership.

Paper Asks 'Keep Out of War Day'

June 15 Is Proposed For Observance

Washington, June 16—The Washington Herald in an editorial published on the first page of today's editions proposes that hereafter June 15 be observed as "Keep Out of War Day" in the United States.

June 15, the Herald points out, is the day on which European nations except Finland, defaulted on their war debts to the United States. The editorial follows:

"Almost every other day European cables intimate the regret of the ex-allies that they ever permitted the default of war debts. Their crying need at present is money, money with which to pursue the insatiable race for armaments. And there is only one place they can get that money—the United States.

"To that end London, Paris and Rome have been figuring out ways and means by which they can circumvent the Johnson Act. One plan is merely to recognize the war debts once more then resume token payments—a pitifully small sum compared with the original debts. Another plan is to pay five or 10 cents on the dollar. Still the latest is to negotiate trade agreements, particularly with Great Britain and France, by which they would be permitted to pay off their war debts in kind.

"These suggestions might be entertainable were it not for the fact that the sole motive behind them is to get more money out of the United States, and thus drag us eventually into the next war.

"For it is axiomatic, as proved conclusively by the Senate munitions committee, that war follows trade and loans.

"In view of these facts the Washington Herald proposes that instead of bartering the war debts away for a mess of pottage, they become a national monument to remember the last war, and to remind of the dangers of the next.

"Hereafter let June 15 become 'Keep Out of War' day—the day on which the war debts of Europe were defaulted. Let that day be burned into the mind of the nation. Let every veteran of the last war pause to think, on June 15, of the horrors of the past war and its bills, which never have been paid.

"Let every gold star mother and every mother of potential veterans pause to remember, on June 15, the war that was fought 'to end wars,' and the present drift of the world into the next catastrophe.

"If, now, the defaulted war debts can be seared into the national mind as a reminder that the debts of the last war still are unpaid, and that the debts of future wars also never can be paid, then these defaulted debts will be worth far more than 5 cents or 50 cents or 90 cents on the dollar which Europe would offer.

"They will be worth the entire total of 11 billion dollars.

"The United States can afford to pay that much and more to stay out of the next war. Let us remember June 15 as 'Keep Out of War' Day."

Congressman Connery

DEATH has cast the last vote for "Billy" Connery, beloved Congressman, staunch friend of labor, constant champion of the war veteran.

In Washington, he died yesterday, a victim of food poisoning and a weakened heart condition.

For fourteen years he served the Seventh Congressional District of this state, ably and well.

He was co-author of the Connery-Wagner Labor Act, hailed by its supporters as a great forward step in labor's progress.

He was co-author, too, of the Connery-Wagner Hours and Wages Bill, now before Congress.

He was an outstanding advocate of the Soldiers' Bonus. "I am for it," he told us long ago. "I'm insisting that the United States shall take full care of all my sick and disabled buddies."

He was always active in tariff legislation designed to aid the workers and the shoe, textile and leather industries of New England.

He was a bitter foe of the exploiters of children. With all his might he demanded the elimination of child labor. And for unemployed youth, he insisted that the Civilian Conservation Corps be made permanent.

Actor, soldier, foreman in industry, manufacturer, lawyer and Representative in Congress, "Billy" Connery lived a full life. Now he answers the call that some day we all must answer. But in our hearts and your hearts he lives. There, in admiration and affection, he finds immortality.

Bunker Hill

BUNTING-DRAPED buildings, a huge fireworks display, a band concert and numerous banquets; thus, tonight, begins Charlestown's two-day observance of the 162d anniversary of the Battle of Bunker Hill.

We should join, all of us, in the celebration of that historic conflict. Its importance extends beyond Charlestown. It concerns all Massachusetts, all New England, and the WHOLE COUNTRY.

The 145 American soldiers and colonists, fighting the British on Bunker Hill, laid down their lives that liberty might live. They did not die in vain. Liberty lived, AND PRODUCED THE GREATEST NATION IN THE WORLD.

On this occasion it is well to remember that this year marks the 150th birthday of the Federal Constitution and that the Battle of Bunker Hill was one of the events that inspired the Constitution.

The shaft we have raised on Bunker Hill to honor the hero dead is not their only memorial. There is a greater, a more enduring one. It is the guarantee of liberty, freedom and justice in the Constitution of the United States.

Our Two Senators Act

LYNN, Haverhill and the other shoe cities of Massachusetts will praise the joint action of Senators Walsh and Lodge.

The two have introduced a resolution in the United States Senate calling for INCREASED tariff protection against imports of cemented shoes.

They make their request at a time when Secretary of State Hull's proposed reciprocal trade treaty with Czechoslovakia promises a reduction in this tariff.

Senator Walsh informs the Senate that from less than 150,000 pairs of cemented shoes in 1935, imports leaped last year to more than 990,000 pairs. He points out that the increase has been so rapid that in only four months this year imports exceeded a million pairs!

Senator Lodge frankly adds that the Tariff Commission must choose between the 8000 Haverhill people due to lose jobs and the Czechoslovakians who are taking away their work.

The Senate and Tariff Commission must protect American labor by ADEQUATE tariffs. With thousands of shoe workers unemployed here in Massachusetts and elsewhere, we cannot afford to make our country a dumping ground for the sweatshop products of other nations.

A Million in Pirate Gold!

THERE'S romance in the trip of a dozen young Harvard undergraduates and alumni—adventure, too.

Soon they'll be bound for the Caribbean, these men. A mysterious island is their goal. And a million dollars in pirate gold their hope.

Tradition has it that a treasure-laden galleon foundered off the island some three centuries ago and that it still lies buried in shallow water, less than 30 feet deep.

We're cheering for the Harvard party. May they find their gold and bring it back—but, and it's a sad but, think of the cut Uncle Sam will take.

'Better Than Prohibition'

THE findings of New Hampshire's special liquor survey commission interest most people.

Repeal of Prohibition has had no effect on workmen, the commissioners say.

The conclusion results from a poll of 825 employers with 31,300 workers.

Also 157 out of 260 school officials who answered the commission's questionnaires found present conditions "better than under Prohibition."

Most people will agree with that. Even though the present era may not be Utopia, it is still more to be desired than the days of the "speakeasy" with tremendous profits for racketeers.

We Are Glad He Stays

THE reappointment of Joseph A. Maynard as collector of customs for the port of Boston will be generally approved.

Mr. Maynard has done good work. The consistent increase in port business is proof. At last we are beginning to take our rightful place in the maritime affairs of the world.

We do not consider Mr. Maynard's retention a political move. Rather, we regard it as the reward of sincere effort.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McIntyre

O. O. McIntyre

New York, June 16—Constance Collier has for her charm, biting wit and often outrageous upsetting of the conventions become the Mrs. Pat Campbell on this side of the Atlantic. Any tea party that can entice her to the ringside is made. It will likely wind up with a whoop.

Like Mrs. Campbell, too, she goes nowhere without some fantastic looking dog. Sometimes a Peke, other times a Sealyham or maybe a mastiff. I believe it was Noel Coward who said of one of her newest canines that it smelt like a drain.

Miss Collier, English born, has divided her time between New York and London and is equally well known on both sides, but it is America, many think, she prefers. Large of stature, she is at first meeting shy, shrinking, but if she takes to you and turns on her charm you are her slave from then on!

Many think her autobiography a few years ago is one of the most revealing by a performer. In New York she makes the Algonquin her base, but at any moment is likely to go flying off to Hollywood, where she is in frequent demand for her character cameos.

The new types of satiny night club and snack bar so glorified by the Louis Sobols and Ed Sullivans have proved acceptable spring boards from which society career girls may take off in their ambitions to act. Among the successful are Eve Symington, Peggy Lynch, Adelaide Moffett, Julie Gillespie and several others whose names escape me.

It might seem that most of them were depending on a Four Hundred background to put them over, but I have seen nearly all and there's not one who could not hold the spot with her own ability.

I believe some of the most lasting impressions I have of crack entertainment value have come out of the flossy cafes. They are flushing out more real talent than the stage and movies, and had vaudeville displayed the same acumen in new finds it would not be where it is today—in the ash can.

I think especially of the mimic, Sheila Barrett, the amazing blind pianist, Alex Templeton; the ventriloquist, Edgar Bergen; Fray and Braggiotti, the versatile twin pianists; Eddie Garr the impersonator, and of course, Ruby Keeler, George Raft, Bing Crosby and probably 20 other stellar names came out of the night mosques.

Whenever I see the term "boundless energy"—as I did a moment ago—I think of Will Rogers. His wife Betty once told me she had never known him to appear fatigued or to admit he was tired. From the moment he arose in the morning—and he liked 6 a. m. as a rising hour—he was in constant fidget. He liked to read newspapers and morning mail walking up and down. If he had to sit in a chair he was in perpetual squirm, tearing up bits of papers or ruffing back his hair and crossing and re-crossing his legs.

His furious chewing of gum was another indication of the strange restlessness, his jaws often in constant motion from the time he got up until he retired. He could think best in action and that was why he always thought his better monologues were those that he delivered while twirling the lariat.

After his first airplane flight he told me that forever afterward riding on something as slow as an express train was absolute torture.

The most consistent newspaperman snubber continues to be the actress, Katharine Hepburn. It began with her irritation when she was badly pilloried in her first stage performance—a terrific flop. She was young, tender and very sensitive, and has never forgiven any branch of the press, no matter in what part of the country. Although her original tormentors were dramatic critics and not reporters, she cannot be mollified and rarely fails to slam doors in their faces whenever besieged.

Many actresses who indulged such tantrums later longed for the reportorial salvo. It may even happen to Miss Hepburn. Life is often like that.

Memory: Grandpa wearing shoes on the wrong feet now and then to keep them straight.

Etude: Now and then something comes over most of us. When it comes over me I pop into a florist shop and come out adorned with a bright lapel flower. I had one of my spells this morning and as I emerged a romantic ash cart driver with spring in his heart and a discarded posey tucked behind his ear called out with a grin: "You and me, buddy."

Politicians who expect Business to absorb unemployment should read about the STRAW that broke the camel's back.

Business will EMPLOY more people when it is allowed to use more of its money for WAGES and less for TAXES.

It will also employ more people when more workers are engaged in PRODUCTION and fewer workers are engaged in STRIKES.

Ultimate recovery, of course, depends on the ability of Business to absorb unemployment.

But the REDUCTION OF TAXES and the FAIR SETTLEMENT OF LABOR TROUBLES are the pillars upon which that ability MUST STAND.

Listen, World!

By Elsie Robinson

"Are the high-hat notions of America's young women ruining the work futures of America's young men?"

Elsie Robinson

It's a Dad talking. Yes—a real story. And Dad and the editor of this paper—plus plenty more—would like to read YOUR answer.

Dad's a master mechanic. Learned his trade in England 25 years ago, when apprentices served for seven years at $1 per week. Now he's getting $10 per day—has all the work he'll take—and naturally believes his craft would make a good berth for Junior.

Junior—for a wonder!—agrees about the craft. Ever since he was a little tad he has loved to tinker with tools. Now he's a handsome young senior in the local Hi—graduating soon—planning his future—and as crazy as ever about gadgets. So what?

So he ISN'T going to be a master mechanic!

But that doesn't make sense?

Yes, it does—by Junior's and all his friend's reasoning.

BLAMES IT ON GIRL

Needless to say, all these young gentlemen have their eyes on "Classy Numbers" — hope to marry them as soon as possible.

"But," says Junior, "a fellow doesn't rate with a swell girl unless he's headed for a white collar career. Not just a clerk, but something in the professional line—doctor, lawyer, reporter, achitect, chemist dentist—"

"Doncha know, kid," bellows his exasperated parent, "that the streets are filled with starving professionals? Thousands of smart young fellows who mighta made their $8 or $12 per day—and enjoyed themselves besides—doing some two-fisted job, are actually starving because a lotta girls put notions in their heads!"

"Yeah, Pa—but you can't ask a nice girl to make a home for a fellow that spends his time in greasy overalls, can you?"

"Why can't you?" explodes Pa. "I wore overalls and your mother made a home for me—'n' didn't think she was above doing it, either! It's young squirts like you and the nitwit James you trail with that are wreckin' America!"

So the war is on with plenty to say on both sides. A hurried questionaire, sent to about 150 girls, gave a crude survey of the feminine slant. The girls quizzed ranged in age from 18 to 25.

Regardless of age, job or family background, all but two stated a frank preference for "men with professional standing—college degrees if possible."

"DUDES" PREFERRED

They admitted the handicaps they might have to suffer at first, but believed these handicaps would be more than offset by

1—Higher social standing.

2—Nicer friends and environment.

3—Greater advantages for their children.

4—Much better positions and salaries in the future, when their husbands finally succeeded in getting placed.

So there's the lay-out and the Kentucky Derby has nothing on this office for excitement as we wait for your reply. And look out for the fireworks!

That's That

By Bruce Gustin

Colorado's new state income tax is a glaring example of how the taxspenders, when they pretend to "soak the rich," actually soak everybody else.

In addition to the tax imposed upon net incomes of over $1000 in the case of an unmarried person and of over $2500 for married persons, this law levies "A SURTAX WITHOUT EXEMPTION OR DEDUCTION FOR ANY CAUSE, at the rate of 2 per cent, UPON SO MUCH OF THE INCOME OF EVERY INDIVIDUAL RESIDENT OF COLORADO AS MAY CONSIST OF DIVIDENDS FROM CORPORATE STOCK, ROYALTIES, INTEREST FROM MONEY, NOTES, CREDITS, BONDS, AND OTHER SECURITIES."

Under the guise of levying a tax upon NET incomes, the Colorado legislators imposed a tax upon ALL GROSS INCOMES WHICH ARE DERIVED FROM INVESTMENTS IN STOCKS, BONDS, AND INTEREST ON LOAAS AND SAVINGS ACCOUNTS.

The tax rate on the first $2000 of net income from salaries, etc., is only 1 per cent. But the tax rate on all income from dividends, interest on savings, etc., is double that rate.

This asinine law makes an income tax-payer of every child who has a savings account which pays even one cent a year interest. The law says the tax must be paid "without exemption or deduction for any cause" and it must be paid by "every individual resident" of the State.

Penalties for a violation run as high as a fine of $10,000 and one year's imprisonment.

This surtax on dividends and interest puts a penalty on thrift. It punishes people who invest their savings in productive enterprises. It makes law-breakers out of decent people who want to do the right thing but who will not submit to being robbed, not even by the state.

The surtax cannot possibly be collected from everybody the law says must pay it.

A more silly piece of legislation could not be conceived unless it is the Colorado service tax, under which a 2 per cent tax is levied on the value of every human service from those performed by doctors and nurses at childbirth to those of the undertaker at the grave.

For several years, states have been complaining about conflicting taxation. They have objected to federal invasion of tax fields previously exploited only by states and local government. Now the states are invading the federal government's income tax field.

The best that can be said about the least objectionable of the state income taxes already levied is that it is not as bad as some of the others.

Next to being skinned by their own taxspenders, there is nothing which should make American taxpayers see red quicker than the realization that they are being "taken for a ride" by their country's World War allies.

Sir John Simon tells the British House of Commons any question of British settlement of the American war debt is definitely linked to European reparations.

But when the British were over here borrowing billions to save their necks in the World War they didn't say anything about paying back that money AFTER they had collected from their debtors.

They made an unequivocal promise to pay. And there isn't any doubt about their ability to pay at least part of what they owe us.

Three murderers, electrocuted in the first triple execution in the history of Indiana State Prison, ate a hearty meal a few hours before they paid the penalty for a horrible murder. One of them had steak and the others fried chicken. Their menu also included French fried potatoes, green beans, hot rolls and butter, apple pie, coffee, cigars and cigarettes. Each man cleaned his plate.

The ability of a condemned man to eat a big meal just before the time set for his execution indicates lack of imagination, rather than exceptional courage.

The last thing a normal person would be thinking of at such a time is his stomach.

"Emperor of Sahara"

The Human Side of the News

By Edwin C. Hill

Edwin C. Hill

On the Old County Road, in Westbury, Long Island, they are wrecking Phoenix Lodge, once the mansion of Jacques Lebaudy, shabby little crack-brained Napoleon who had $15,000,000. He called himself "Emperor of the Sahara." His wife rated him considerably lower, just before she shot him in his flamboyant roadside palace, in 1919, and went to live in peace in Paris with their beautiful daughter, Jacqueline.

She shot him because he was menacing Jacqueline. That seemed like an orderly proceeding to the authorities. Mother and daughter still live decorously in Paris. They got the bulk of the $15,000,000 from both the French and American courts.

To me, it is one of the most interesting of all thrice-told tales, this chronicle of the draggle-tail millionaire, who, dressed like a tramp, would engage a suite at a grand hotel, pour bags of 20-dollar gold pieces on the bed, and toss them to the bellhops as they scurried about on fantastic errands.

Jacques Lebaudy's self-proclaimed title, which he never relinquished, was "Emperor of the Sahara, Commander of the Faithful, King of Tarfaia, Duke of Arleuf and Prince of Chaihuin." He handed himself these titles soon after coming into the fortune gathered by his father, a sagacious, level-headed old Frenchman of the upper bourgeoisie.

Jacques' friends around Paris, for whom he provided the most extravagant entertainment, called him merely "The Little Sugar Bowl," but one day he began suddenly to live up to his titles, a fact much better understood in the light of modern psychology than it was then.

HE HAD AN ARMY

He was on his yacht Frasquita at Las Palmas, Canary Islands. The secretary of the Yachting Society of France received a cablegram from Lebaudy asking that 20 dependable sailors be dispatched immediately to Las Palmas. The secretary, believing the men were needed for a cruise, sent the men. Lebaudy already had 20 sailors. He assembled his 40 men on the forward deck, handed them arms and addressed them eloquently.

"You are now enrolled in the army of the Emperor of the Sahara," he said. "The Emperor of the Sahara exercises an absolute power over all things, but over his people this absolute power is tempered by a most liberal legislation, founded on this principle—absolute liberty of people, respect for individual rights, the American and English system."

As they cleared the harbor, he run up the emperor's flag, deep blue, with three golden bees and an imperial crown of gold. They landed on a strip of desert waste, 185 miles long, between Cape Bojador and Cape Juby. It was a blistering glare of sand and punishing heat.

The little Charlie Chaplin emperor with slack pants and cockade awry, issued gold pieces to all hands, drew his sword and addressed his army.

"Men," he shrilled, flourishing his sword, "beyond this line of surf lies Troja!"

"What is this Troja?" asked one of the men, squinting into the sun-baked waste.

"It is a city of golden palaces, of infinite treasure, of gorgeous gems and beautiful women," the emperor replied. "Forward, men!"

The men surged forward and set up a gorgeous circus tent, embroidered with the emperor's arms. Then they broke out the emperor's throne of ebony and ivory and gold, encrusted with gems, which he had had made in Paris. He mounted the throne. Curious Bedouins circled around on their horses.

"Repulse the enemy," shouted the emperor, leading the assault on the amazed desert dwellers.

HE BOUGHT IT

Under fire, the Arabs withdrew.

He came to New York in 1908. He traveled around town with a great entourage of secretaries, stenographers and messenger boys, transacting mythical business, but somehow always fanning up his fortune in stock operations. Once he and his parade seized the Public Library, just to have a place to work.

He just happened by when the Phoenix Lodge, in Westbury, was being sold at auction. Glancing up, he shouted, "Forty thousand dollars!"

"Sold," said the auctioneer. "One-fourth must be paid by certified check."

"Check, nothing!" said Lebaudy, fishing among rumpled papers in his pockets. He laid out $40,000 in $1000 bills.

The mansion was a Louis-Quatorze-red-plush-rococo Hades for Mrs. Lebaudy and the beautiful auburn-haired Jacqueline. Mrs. Lebaudy had been a music hall star in Paris. So finally, she shot him.

The police seemed to think it was not a bad idea, and mother and daughter lived happily in Paris ever after. The world wags on, and over in Westbury they sink a pick in the emperor's palace.

On the Nail

By Benjamin DeCasseres

A great "purge" of Soviet Russia is now on. Eight generals executed. Yagoda, former head of the OGPU, in prison under serious charges. A "high marshal" commits suicide. All the "heavy commissars" under fire. Two leading playwrights expelled from the Communist party.

Wrecking, sabotage, executions, the trains to Siberia packed, as in the Czar's day, with political convicts.

What does this mean? Simply this—that millions of Russians are beginning to strangle to death because of Stalin's gags on nature's law of INDIVIDUAL DEVELOPMENT.

Soviet Russia is beginning also to discover that blueprints are one thing and that human nature is another.

Historically, human nature has never yet been extinguished by a blueprint.

Dr. Charles Gordon Heyd, president of the American Medical Association, says that "many Americans eat themselves into an early grave."

Recent tests show that the average person eats about 50 tons of food during a lifetime.

This is equivalent to about 50 coal wagons loaded with a ton of coal each. If the coal were food, you will get an idea of the amount of food you put in your mouth in your lifetime. Half of this amount at least we do not really need. The "civilized" man has developed synthetic foods and tastes for fancy dishes merely to enjoy a new sensation.

Fasting is a good thing to try once in a while. You will be surprised to find how little food you need and how much better and "fit" you will feel.

It is probable that over-eating has killed more people than famine and alcohol combined.

Here is a living cartoon we would laugh at if we saw it done in a motion picture comic; but it was no joke to J. J. Munsey, 82, of San Francisco.

His moustache gleamed with fragrant oils. He had the regulation goatee and the classic silver-hair of the Indian fighter, bonanza hunter and the gambler that he was.

He could not pay his hotel bill. So he cut the cards, as they did in the days when the West was all bully-beef and hard tack. The "death card" turned up—"the fatal card" as they used to say in the old melodramas.

Munsey scribbled this note:

"One, two, three, predicament, excess, aces conscience, cathedral."

He then committed suicide. Munsey had been an ace-fighter in his day, but the ace of spades—the "death card"—closed his saga.

A Bret Harte story in 1937.

When Charles Dickens wrote "The Old Curiosity Shop" he described a shop where all the odds and ends of London finally found a home.

The newspapers are, however, every day, the recipients of queer odds and ends of human nature—a veritable old curiosity shop of life itself.

For instance:

A man in Newark, N. J., confessed he had stolen for 23 years because of his incurable thirst for red Burgundy wine. The Smithsonian Institution discovered the red-shouldered hawk decorates the nest with violets when a hawk is born. A man undergoing an operation in Johns Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore under an anesthetic was killed by an explosion in his lungs. A woman on the Alaska coast has opened a floating beauty-parlor for Eskimos.

These comic and tragic oddities are a kind of furlough from our daily drill in tax, armament and crime news.
